NEW YEAR FINDS OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR GOOD TIMES

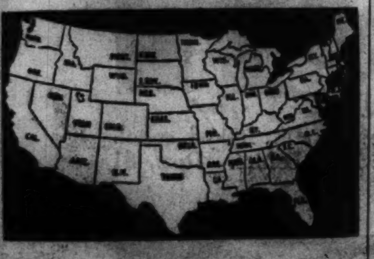
Business Overcoming New Deal Drag.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Encouraged by the decided improvement in business in the last six months, the advent of the new year is being marked by an almost universal prediction of better times in 1936.

Although President Roosevelt last June was filled with forebodings of business chaos as a result of the Supreme court's destruction of the NRA, corner stone of the New Deal, he is now crediting his policies with the evidences of returning prosperity. Mr. Farley has begun to capitalize the economic improvement in the interest of the reëlection of Mr. Roosevelt.



The Republicans attribute the progress toward recovery partly to natural forces that are asserting themselves in spite of the retarding influence of New Deal collectivism, monetary tinkering and inflationary financing, and partly to the outpouring of billions of dollars of public funds that temporarily increase purchasing power.

Cite Upswing After NRA.

In substantiation of their theory that the New Deal regimentation and other radical innovations are hampering recovery the Republicans cite the federal reserve board statistics of industrial production showing that industry expanded as much in the six months following as it did in the 18 months preceding the erasure of the NRA.

That the country is recovering despite the New Deal is the view of Harper Sibley, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, who said today that continued business improvement in 1936 depends upon the extent to which business is burdened by government measures of repression.

"The strength of the United States is again asserting itself in unmistakable and characteristic ways," said Mr. Sibley. "Widely scattered evidences, at first sporadic and uncertain but gradually increasing in number and significance, denote a growing coördination of our forces and a decreasing disorder in the processes of our economic life.

Individual Planning Winning.

"With more rapidity the parts of our systems of production, distribution, and construction, which had been dislocated, are falling back into place. The kind of planning which has always carried us forward is definitly under way. This is the planning of each individual business.

"Such planning into the future is a requisite for every business enterprise that contributes toward general stability and toward persistency of employment. It distinguishes business enterprise from speculation. That there will be new factors to be reckoned with in the future may be accepted, but there is a growing confidence of ability to meet them.

"There are now manifold statistical evidences of progress. There is no need to recount them. They are the record of accomplishments in the face of handicaps, often imposed vicariously. With all of the evidences of new strength and their cumulative in their effects, we can depend upon continuation into the new year of the improved conditions of recent months.

"How far these forces will carry us depends at present almost entirely upon the burdens which are imposed upon business. On the other hand, any lessening of the loads which business enterprise is now asked to carry will add to the steady progress in public and individual welfare."

Contests President's Claim.

Then Mr. Sibley proceeded to pay his respects to the President's contention that employers are to blame for the failure to reduce more ma-

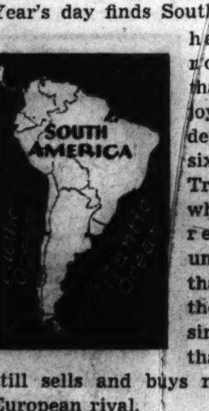
Latin Nations Feeling Great as Year Opens

BY NORMAN INGREY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, Dec. 31.—New Year's day finds South America in a healthier economic position than she has enjoyed since the depression began six years ago. Trade statistics, which will not be ready officially until March, show that she has had the best year since 1931 and that Uncle Sam still sells and buys more than any European rival.



Politically it was one of the quietest years in South American revolutionary history. The recent flareup in Brazil, disorder in Venezuela after the death of President Gomez, and the deposition of President Velasco Ibarra in Ecuador were the only scars on the continental picture. The countries passed 1935 in the following manner:

ARGENTINA—The Argentine had what was locally known as a "lucky year," the government of Gen. Agustin Justo cashing in on peso exchange manipulation. There were good crops, and a boom in grain. Foreign trade was well up, with good business in luxury lines. National credit was high, as the government was the only one in South America that continued to pay its debts in full.

Quell Insurrection in Brazil.

BRAZIL—President Getulio Vargas, who himself found power by revolutionary methods in 1930, was faced with a serious insurrection at the end of November. This was quelled after much bloodshed. Economically there was a recovery, though exchange complications disturbed debt funding arrangements. Coffee sold better and there was a phenomenal rise in cotton production and sales.

CHILE: President Arturo Alessandri completed two years of government without any major changes in his cabinet pensonnel—a record in Chilean political history. A debt funding agreement was reached during the year on the basis of ½ per cent interest service as compared with the average of 6 per cent that was contracted.

PERU: A "prosperity year" to all intents and purposes. Export quantities and prices were highest since the "boom years."

VENEZUELA: This nation continued to be the only foreign debt-free South American state. The year was marred by the death of President Juan V. Gomez. He had been the controling power for nearly a quarter of a century.

PARAGUAY: Shorn of population and prostrated by the Chaco war, this country faces the new year with courage but not so much hope. With no great trade resources to assist her rehabilitation she is determined to retain the whip hand at the Buenos Aires peace conference to make amends.

Bolivian War Wounds Heal.

BOLIVIA: Thanks to tin and the mining boom generally, Chaco war wounds are being rapidly healed. It is expected that 1936 will bring internal trade back to normalcy.

ECUADOR: The bubble of President José M. Velasco Ibarra, continental protagonist of Indo-Americanism, burst in August.

URUGUAY: There was only one attempt to undermine the authority of President Gabriel Terra. It failed. Agricultural conditions were better and both internal and external trade improved.

Irish Troubled by Trade War with England

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Dec. 31.—The year 1935, which on its entry brought with it great expectations for the Irish Free State, has passed away leaving few realizations behind it. External trade continued its downward course, but the set-off of home industrial development has made remarkable strides.

IRELAND DUBLIN

Unsettled relations with Great Britain continue to be the main pivot around which most of the country's troubles revolve. The farmer is the chief sufferer in a country which still is essentially agricultural. Early in the year when an agreement for the exchange of additional cattle for an additional quota of British coal was announced there was general jubiliation, for its was thought this was the forerunner of a settlement of the entire dispute. Actually nothing further happened.

Britain Lays Penalty.

The position, therefore, in regard to the economic war remains as it has been since July, 1932, when President Eamon de Valera launched his scheme for the withholding of the land annuities which had been paid to England during the previous ten years, and Britain replied by imposing a penal tarif amounting in some cases to $30 per head on catttle sent into the British market.

The Irish government was forced to adopt a system of bounties to enable its farmers to export as much produce as possible. On the advice of the government the farmers are allowing their stocks of cattle to be reduced so that in a few years they will have enough only to supply home consumption.

Seeks Self-Sufficiency.

De Valera has embarked definitly on a policy of self-sufficiency. On the industrial side he is organizing factories for the production of the things which were hitherto imported from abroad.

Another matter of high policy which occupied much attention during the year was the decision to abolish the senate. The procedure in this connection has been very prolonged, but the final act will be reached early in the new year.

GERMANY EYES SOARING PRICES AS 1936 BEGINS

But Nazis Push Plan to Regulate Life.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 31.—New Year, 1936, finds official Nazi Germany brimming with self-confidence and faith in its future, its political opponents nursing the hope that steadily increasing economic difficulties are weakening the Nazi hold on the people, and the people themselves grumbling about high prices.

Complaints about the rigors of Nazi regimentation of private life are increasing, but they seem unable to shake the fanatical conviction of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's followers that he is evolving a better way of life for his country.

Developments in 1935 show clearly that the Nazis are gradually building up the powerful regimented state Hitler promised in his original 25 point program. Germany is still in a transition period, but the outline of the structure is clearly visible.

German Army Revived.

Hitler has revived the German army, an achievement for which the whole nation, without exception, is grateful. This fulfills point 22 of Hitler's original program.

Restoration of the army also automatically settled point two of Hitler's program calling for the cancelation of the treaty of Versailles.

In recent speeches, Hitler told his followers that the party would rule their lives almost from the cradle to the grave. At 10, the German boy must join the "Jungvolk," later the "Hitler Youth." At 18 the boy enters the Storm Troops, the Schutzstaffel [Hitler Guards], or the labor service. Girls who belong to the "Bund Deutscher Maedchen" must do "voluntary" labor service, then they may join the "Nazi Frauenschaft" or women's organizations.

Nazi Design for Living.

The young man who has finished his labor service joints the colors for at least one year, then he returns to the folds of the party organization until his death.

In his Nuremberg edicts, Hitler deprived Jews of their citizenship rights. The developments of the past year show that Jews are being eliminated, through direct measures or indirect pressure, from all business life. This seems part fulfilment of point seven of Hitler's program.

Reduces Interest Rates.

Hitler has not yet fulfilled point eleven of his program calling for "abolition of incomes unearned by work," but he has reduced the rate of interest to such a degree that the second part of this point is nearing fulfilment: "Abolition of the thralldom of interest."

Point thirteen of Hitler's program, the "nationalization of all businesses which have been up to the present formed into companies," has begun with strict state control of mines and of the country's electricity.

"It must be forbidden to publish papers which do not conduce to the national welfare," says Hitler's party program. His men have eliminated all newspapers which they consider undesirable or compelled them to submit to Nazi press regulations.

Farmers Regimented.

Hitler in his original program was for a "real estate reform and creation of a law for confiscation without compensation of land for communal purposes." Confiscation of land has not been enforced on a big scale, but the farming laws of Richard Walter Darré have compelled the farmers to adapt their production to the Nazi scheme.

Germans are not taking to this general regimentation as eagerly as the Nazis would like them to. Especially since the shortage of butter, lard, fats, and meat, and the lessening crop of fruit, the public has grown restless. Women standing in queues for hours for a quarter of a pound of butter use rather caustic language when the police are not too close.

Russia Swings Toward State Capitalism Era

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Dec. 31.—Screened by the turmoil in Europe and the war in Ethiopia, tremendous reforms have taken place in bolshevik Russia during 1935 which have attracted only slight attention abroad.

Life in the soviet union is now developing along the lines of state capitalism. The communist theories of Lenin are being rapidly discarded one by one by Dictator Stalin.

Food Rationing Abolished.

For the first time since the small group of fanatics seized the government in 1917, Russians are now privileged to buy bread without a ration card. Rationing of other commodities has also been abolished.

Through this reform the soviet government has made the purchasing power of the ruble equal for all its citizens.

ARCTIC OCEAN
RUSSIA
TURKEY

During 1936, Stalin has promised, Russians will for the first time participate in soviet elections, with secret balloting for candidates. The candidates will be handpicked by the communist party.

Family Life Revived.

Stalin has also decreed that family life must be revived. Parents are now responsible for the conduct of their children. An energetic campaign is being conducted against divorce. Wife desertion has been made a crime. "Daddy Longlegs," as deserting husbands are nicknamed in Russia, must pay alimony.

In reforming the educational system the soviet government went back to czarist times and borrowed many former requirements.

Army and Navy Reformed.

Even the Red army and navy were included in the reform wave. Epaulets and insignias and rank were restored.

Transport is improved under the direction of the new commissar, Kaganovitch, but it still remains the Achilles heel of bolshevism.

A still more surprising development was the decree devaluing the ruble which was pegged to the French franc, making it worth about 20 cents. A year ago the ruble could be purchased for 3 cents on the black exchanges of Moscow, Warsaw and Riga. Today it costs 7 cents on the black exchanges and is still going up.

Important concessions were made to the Russian peasant. The Lenin-Stalin plan to collectivize agriculture produced famines instead of larger crops. Stalin last year ordered that the collectivized farmers be given their land "in perpetuity" and decreed that each peasant could personally possess and work three acres and have a cow, unlimited flocks of poultry, and hives of bees. Grain production is a state monopoly.

The government annulled many special privileges formerly enjoyed by industrial workers and government employés and granted for the first time some privileges to the peasants. Larger stocks of manufactured articles were sent to the villages.

JOYOUS CROWDS STORM LOOP TO WELCOME 1936

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

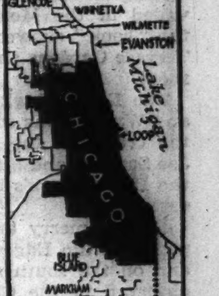
Chicago gave lusty welcome to 1936 as an infant harbinger of better times. Beneath the din and bedlam of the usual New Year's eve wassail and revelry sounded a deep tone that the outlook is for brighter days in the coming twelve months.



The celebrations seemed keyed to the note that the good old normal, healthy American spirit is resurgent and is getting over the handicaps of the depression and some of the New Deal experimentation. Through the merrymaking of the crowds on downtown streets, in cafés, hotels, cabarets, and in family parties, sounding out the old and sounding in the new, rang the hope that 1936 may drag prosperity around the corner.

Rest of World Improves.

Word from other lands indicated that Chicago's buoyancy last night was echoed in other parts of the globe. In South America several nations celebrated strides towards recovery made in 1935. From Russia came word that some communist theory is being thrown overboard in a return to some measure of capitalism. In the Irish Free State home industrial development grew during the year, although trade is still unsettled.

The dying 1935 introduced the newborn 1936 in great style. Up went stocks and bonds in a final spurt, while with songs traders on the exchanges celebrated the close of the old year. Wheat went up.

Business reported growth. Steel and iron—basics—saw good prospects. Viewing the situation, business heads expressed belief that trade is on an upward swing that will continue in 1936. These are snatches from a whirlwind of New Year reports.

The Real American Spirit.

Through much of the business analyzing ran a strong thread of reasoning that improvement has come about through the assertion of old normal American spirit in business and industry. One strong thread of reasoning was that two public reactions have taken place, one against the depression, the second against such of the New Deal experiments as are held to have retarded recovery. If business is now let alone, went this line of New Year thought, 1936 will be better than 1935, as 1935 was better than 1934.

With all these portents of improvement due to revival of normal Americanism as diapason note, Chicago indulged in an old fashioned celebration. Tokens of better times were seen in the winebibbing. Champagne flowed freely in cafés, cabarets, and hotels which since pre-war days and the depression have rarely heard the pop of a champagne cork. Streets were crowded with celebrants and merrymakers, while family parties were in progress, it seemed, throughout the town.

WETTEST IN MANY YEARS

Chicago's loop began resounding to the din of merrymakers as early as 7:30 o'clock last night, and by midnight, when pandemonium broke loose, there was hardly a dry throat in the loop. Officials of all the larger hotels called last night's celebration the wettest, most orderly, and happiest of its sort since the 1929 heyday.

More than 15,000 persons, many in formal dress, were entertained in hotels of the loop and Michigan avenue, where prices per person ranged from $3 to $12.50 In the streets outside, crowds which grew to more than 250,000 persons by midnight, swept up and down Randolph, State, and Clark streets. Many appeared to have imbibed too freely, but a force of 300 policemen in the loop had little trouble with them.

"Busiest!" Says Policeman.

"It was the busiest New Year's eve I ever saw," smiled Policeman Ollie Deiel, who has seen 14 from his corner of Randolph and Clark street, the city's rialto. "Trafic was heavy as early as 7:30, but there was no bad driving. It was a well behaved and happy crowd."

The lobby of the Drake and the mezzanine of the Palmer house were filled early last night with spectators watching the arrival of the fashionably dressed. Every hotel reported complete sellouts, and much better business than 1934.

One thousand persons filled the Avenue of Palms and Gold Coast room of the Drake. Most of them were out-of-town guests, according to the management. Downstairs the fashionable Drake bar was jammed.

The Brevoort's famous Crystal bar was a scene of hilarity long before midnight. Tables also were set in the lobby opening from the bar, but it was necessary for the hotel to stations guards to prevent them from being overturned so great was the press.

No Room Left at 10 P. M.

There wasn't a reservation to be had at the Chez Paree night club at 10 p. m., although it did not begin to fill up until midnight. Other hotels and clubs such as the Knickerbocker hotel, Tavern club, Saddle and Cycle, Key, and Racquet, were filled.

A free-spending crowd of 2,500 was entertained in the five main rooms at the Congress. A private party took two rooms for 650 guests at the Blackstone. The Mayfair room, for the first time in 10 years, observed the New Year with 320 guests.

Business, beter by 150 per cent than in 1934, was reported at the Stevens. There were reservations for 2,950 in the Continental and Grand ballrooms.

Crowds Turned Away.

They turned them away at the Bismarck and La Salle hotels. In the former 800 places were set in the Walnut room and Bierstube, and 1,000 in the Blue Fountain room and Hangar of the La Salle hotel.

Veloz and Yolanda drew 610 persons to the Empire room in the Palmer House, 90 more than the year before. Both the street level bar and the Le Petit café off the lobby were so filled that no more could enter at midnight. Similar conditions prevailed in the Morrison hotel where the "book" showed 1,800 in the New Terrace Gardens and 600 in the Cameo room.

The Black Hawk grill at Randolph and Wabash was sold out. Aside from the crowd in the main room where Joe Sanders and his band entertained, the Black Hawk's bars were filled all evening.

It was merry and crowded to capacity at the Edgewater Beach hotel, and on the south side the same was observed in the Chicago Beach, Del Prado, Sherry, and Shoreland hotels.

2 BRITISH PRINCES APPEAR ON NEW YEAR HONOR LIST

Duke of York Wins Triple Military Promotion.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The duke of York, second son of King George of Great Britain, will need to renew a large part of his wardrobe as a result of a flock of promotions showered on him by his father in the new year's honors list announced tonight.

He becomes vice admiral in the fleet, a lieutenant general in the army, and an air marshal, thus ranking only one degree junior to his brother, the prince of Wales, in each of the three fighting services.

Like his father and two brothers, Wales and the duke of Kent, the fourth son, the duke of York went through the usual naval officers' training, beginning at the age of 13. The duke joined his ship, the Collingwood, in time for the battle of Jutland.

Duke of Kent Also Honored.

Prince Albert, as he was known then, was mentioned in dispatches for coolness and courage under fire.

The duke of Kent, youngest son of the British sovereign, also was honored. He received the royal Victorian chain, which is bestowed only on special occasions, but it confers no precedence on the holder.

The honors list this year was comparatively short. An interesting feature was the conferment of the title of Commander of the British empire on Sir Sidney Barton, British minister in Addis Ababa, in recognition of his services in Ethiopia during the difficult period since the outbreak of the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Maj. Esmond Clifford, head of the British Somaliland-Ethiopia boundary commission, also was awarded a C. B. E. Clifford and his commission figured in the Ualual incident preceding the Italo-Ethiopian hostilities.

New Peers Created.

The new viscounts are Lord Trenchard, until recently commissioner of metropolitan police, and Lord Hanworth, former master of the rolls.

The new barons are Sir James Gomer Berry, newspaper publisher; Sir Thomas Sivewright Catto, a banker and merchant who during the war became chief of the organization in America which was responsible for the purchase and shipping of foodstuffs to the allies; Sir Arthur Shirley Benn, former chairman of the council of the Federation of British Empire chambers of commerce; and Sir Ian MacPherson, former undersecretary of state for war.

60 Women Honored.

Sir Connop Guthrie, who represented the British ministry of shipping in America after the United States entered the world war, is one of the new baronets.

More than sixty women figured in the list, outstanding ones being the duchess of Abercorn, wife of the governor of northern Ireland, and Miss Christabel Pankhurst, one of the leaders of the militant suffragist movement of which her mother, the late Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, was the head. Each became a dame of the British empire as a reward "for public services."

CARRYING MAIL

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

JUNEAU, Alaska, Dec. 31.—(AP)—A woman is mushing 700 miles across Alaska's frozen tundras, carrying the mail to Fairbanks—"to see if a girl could do it."

Mary Joyce arrived safely at Tulsequah at the end of the first lap of the trip, which began at Taku on Dec. 20, a message today said.

Indians, who will accompany her on the next lap to Atlin, refused to let her start at once because of ice holes in the Inklin river. The journey to Atlin is expected to take 20 days. Beyond Atlin lie long stretches of pathless ice and snow to Whitehorse, Burwash Landing, and Tanana Crossing, the main stopping points en route to Fairbanks.

NEW YEAR FINDS OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR GOOD TIMES

Business Is Overcoming New Deal Drag.

"The burdens from which business enterprise should be relieved, if the public interest is to be served best, include those arising from false statements inciting vicious attacks where they are least deserved," he said. "In the face of data showing the contrary, it is asserted publicly that production has been increasing faster than employment. Public sources are responsible for figures for unemployment which in themselves exaggerate the facts and which impliedly are used to suggest that the fields of business are somehow delinquent. There can be no public advantage from such forms of unfairness.

"Whatever the handicaps, and however unmerited the burdens, American business enterprise, we can now feel sure, is going forward into 1936 with new determination."

Green Predicts Improvement.

"The increase in the production and sale of consumers goods," he said, "will in all probability be further stimulated and accelerated by an increase in the demand for capital goods. The outlook for increasing activity in the manufacture of durable goods during the new year is excellent.

"Next year, however, will be fateful for labor. The Supreme court will decide the constitutionality of the Wagner disputes act, the Guffey coal regulation act, the social security act, and other measures, all of which are of vital importance to all the workers of the nation. The momentous decisions of the nation's highest judicial tribunal in these important cases will have a profound effect upon the future policies and procedure of organized labor."

Though production has increased there are still 11 million unemployed persons, Mr. Green added, and unemployment will be the chief economic problem in 1936. Union labor, he said, will press with greater vigor for the adoption of the shorter work day and work week as its remedy for unemployment. He will direct a drive for the 30 hour week bill in the forthcoming session of congress.

Unemployment Figures.

According to the figures of the National Industrial Conference board there are a little more than 9 million unemployed today. The board's detailed unemployment statistics follow:

	Nov., 1934.	Nov., 1935.
Mining	423,000	444,000
Manufacturing & mech.	3,995,000	2,884,000
Transportation	1,354,000	1,246,000
Trade	990,000	948,000
Domestic and personal service	1,063,000	988,000
Industry not specified	500,000	462,000
Other industries	296,000	296,000
All industries	8,621,000	7,268,000
Allowance for new workers since 1930 census	1,588,000	1,909,000
Total unemployed	10,209,000	9,177,000

There are now 7,109,000 persons employed in industry, an increase of about 500,000 in the last year. In 1929 at the peak of industrial production the number of employés was 8,785,000. Presumably, therefore, less than 2 million of the 9 million now unemployed can expect to find jobs in industry by the time the 1929 volume of production is regained.

FIRST BABY OF 1936 IS BORN AS SIRENS SCREAM

While whistles and sirens were screaming a welcome to the New Year a girl baby was born to Mrs. Louis Blutman, 23 years old, 1536 South Turner avenue. The claim was advanced that the youngster was the first born in Chicago in 1936. Dr. Henry Shacoff was the attending physician.

Two minutes after midnight a boy was born to Mrs. Charles Costello, 33 years old, 6455 Lakewood avenue, in the Lewis Memorial hospital, with Dr. M. J. O'Connell as attending physician. The Blutman and Costello babies will have to argue it out as to which was No. 1.

The first twins were born to Mrs. Minnie Allen, colored, in her home at 4329 Southport avenue. The twins, boys, arrived at 12:25 a. m. and 12:43 a. m. Physicians from the Lying-In home service were in attendance.

At 12:22 a. m. the first fire alarm was sounded from 948 West Ohio street, where an automobile was ablaze. The first arrests were made when Vincent Orlszelski, 1413 Cleaver street, and Edwin Siborski, 1506 Dickson street, were discovered stealing coal at Holt street and North avenue three minutes after midnight.

BRITISH AIR LINER IS WRECKED IN MEDITERRANEAN

LONDON, Jan. 1 [Wednesday.]—(AP)—The Imperial Airways liner City of Khartoum, carrying a crew of four and passengers of whom the number was unknown here, was wrecked in the Mediterranean last night.

A British destroyer from Alexandria, Egypt, and the air liner Hannibal have been ordered to search for the plane, which crashed between Mirabelle, Crete, and Alexandria.

The H. M. S. Brilliant radioed that it had recovered the body of Pilot Wilson floating in the sea near Alexandria.

[Imperial Airways has several planes operating on the route between Europe and Africa, each of which is designed to carry 16 passengers in addition to the crew and 3,500 pounds of mail.]

SERIOUS ISSUES POINT CONGRESS TO LONG SESSION

Bonus, Inflation, Farm Acts Cloud Outlook.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—So many important issues are before the new session of congress opening Friday that observers see little hope of adjournment before early summer.

Besides the bonus, neutrality legislation and possible attempts to salvage the New Deal's farm program if the Supreme court demolishes the AAA, the principal points of dispute before the coming session are:

1. Ship subsidy legislation.
2. Inflation and silver.
3. The Townsend old age pension plan.
4. National defense.
5. Government spending.
6. The Frazier-Lemke 3 billion dollar greenback farm mortgage bill.
7. The Frazier workers' insurance plan calling for an immediate appropriation of 5 billion dollars.
8. Politics, with senators and representatives preparing their records for the fall election.

Predict Townsend Defeat.

Speaker of the House Joseph W. Byrns predicts the defeat of the Townsend $200 a month pension scheme, although it is believed in some well informed quarters that the bill would pass the house. The Frazier workers' insurance plan is given little chance of serious consideration but the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill, it is believed, might pass the house.

Some form of ship subsidy legislation is expected to be enacted at the coming session, possibly the Copeland compromise bill providing for the cancelation of existing ocean mail contracts, the abolition of the construction loan fund, direct subsidies to ship owners, and a federal maritime authority.

President Roosevelt has not indicated how much he will ask in his budget message for federal relief, public works, and other expenditures for the 1936-'37 fiscal year, but the total is expected to approximate 7 billion dollars. At least half a billion of this is expected to be sought for public works and another billion or more for the PWA boondoggling program.

If such a sum is asked, however, there will be strong opposition both from the Republican and the Democratic sides.

Interest in National Defense.

In contrast to the growing opposition in congress to huge relief appropriations, there is increasing sentiment for a large national defense appropriation, occasioned by the menacing activities of Japan in the far east and world unrest in general. Another billion dollar appropriation for national defense, like the army and navy outlay in the last session, would evoke loud outcries from the senate and house pacifists, but their strength is not impressive.

The most important fight between administration leaders and the anti-war group is expected to come up in connection with new neutrality legislation.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenburg [Rep., Mich.], Gerald P. Nye [Radical, N. D.], and Bennett C. Clark [Dem., Mo.], all members of the munitions committee, favor a permanent mandatory neutrality law, prohibiting the shipment not only of arms and ammunition but all commodities used in the furtherance of war, to any belligerent nation. However, the state department and administration leaders in congress favor a discretionary measure permitting freedom of action on the part of the President in the event of war, and a compromise is regarded as the probable outcome.

Confers with Leaders.

President Roosevelt conferred this evening with Secretary of State Hull, Assistant Secretary R. Walton Moore, Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, and Representative Sam McReynolds [Dem., Tenn.] on the subject of neutrality legislation. They called it a preliminary conference and refused to discuss their conclusions, if any, but it is known that all are opposed to mandatory legislation. Chairman McReynolds said he would introduce a bill as soon as possible after the opening of the session to supplant the existing neutrality act which expires on Feb. 29.

Senator Nye is drafting a bill in the nature of a compromise providing for a mandatory embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition to belligerents but permitting the shipment of commodities, such as oil, cotton, and copper, on a quota basis. That is, no belligerent nation could receive more than its five year peace time average. Senators Vandenberg and Clark would support such a plan, but the administration leaders will make a fight for broader discretion.

Bonus Considered Certain.

Passage of bonus prepayment legislation is regarded as certain in the coming session and it is believed in well informed quarters that a bond bill would be passed over the President's veto. Representative Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.] has indicated that he would be willing to compromise on his 2 billion 200 million greenback inflation bill, the veto of which was sustained by the senate last year.

Administration leaders who favor a bonus bill that the President might conceivably sign would like a compromise calling for payment in bonds of the accrued value to date, cancelation of accrued interest on loans, pushing back the date of issue to Nov. 11, 1918, and canceling the 25 per cent premium for deferred payment.

However, the bonusites are so confident of their strength that they are not willing to talk of compromising on anything save the inflation feature of the Patman bill.

TWO U. S. DESTROYERS LAUNCHED AS 5,000 SPECTATORS WATCH

Bremerton, Wash., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Two sleek, knife prowed destroyers were christened and floated in their building dock here today. It was the first double launching in the history of the Puget Sound navy yard and drew about 5,000 spectators.

The 1,500 ton warships—the Cushing and Perkins, were named for two civil war heroes—Commodore George Hamilton Perkins and Commander William Barker Cushing.

They were sponsored and christened by daughters of the namesakes—Miss Katherine Cushing, Fredonia, N. Y., accompanied by her sister, Marie, and by Mrs. Larz Anderson, Brookline, Mass., accompanied by her husband, former ambassador to Japan.

CONGRESS WILL HEAR PRESIDENT ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Radio Seen Reason for Late Message.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt will deliver his annual message to congress at an extraordinary night session of congress at 9 p. m., next Friday night.

This was announced today after a conference between Vice President Garner, Speaker Joseph W. Byrns, and the minority leaders of the two houses, Senator Charles L. McNary and Representative Bertrand Snell.

The occasion will mark the first time a President has appeared in person before congress at a night session since Woodrow Wilson made his historic speech in April, 1917, which preceded the declaration of war with Germany.

President's Own Suggestion.

This decision was said to have been the result of the President's own suggestion. The address will be broadcast over a national hookup and most of the nation will be listening. At the earlier hour usually set for annual messages the radio audience would be smaller by millions of persons, it was pointed out.

The message will possess unusual significance, it was reported, combining the features of one of the President's "fireside chats" with those of the message to congress. It will be a part of the President's campaign for reëlection begun on his western speaking tour last October.

The message will be comparatively brief, like most of Mr. Roosevelt's addresses to congress, and will not take more than half an hour to read.

Brief Session Unlikely.

The second session of congress will meet Friday with little hope of adjournment before May. Controversies over the veterans' bonus, neutrality legislation, inflation, and government extravagance impend. Supreme court decisions on the AAA, TVA, cotton control act, and other New Deal cases may dump another huge batch of work into congress' lap.

Representative William B. Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], house majority leader, stated after a White House conference that "President Roosevelt wants as short a session as possible consistent with the public interest and any eventualities that might be caused by decisions of the Supreme court affecting New Deal legislation."

May Get Decisions Monday.

There is a possibility that the Supreme court will hand down decisions in the AAA and Bankhead cotton control cases on Monday, the very day President Roosevelt is to send his budget message to congress, so that the session will be convened in an atmosphere of uncertainty and anxiety.

Whether the President would deliver his annual message on the state of the union on Friday, the opening day, or Saturday had not been determined when Representative Bankhead left the White House, but it was believed in congressional circles that Friday would be the day. The senate in that case would adjourn over the week-end as a mark of respect to the late Senators Huey P. Long [Dem., La.] and Thomas D. Schall [Rep., Minn.] both of whom have met violent deaths since the last session.

TVA AUTHORIZES FIFTH DAM AT A COST OF $32,000,000

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Construction of Chickamauga dam on the Tennessee river, seven miles above Chattanooga, was authorized today by directors of the Tennessee valley authority. It will cost $32,000,000.

Work will begin at once, giving employment to about 200 men the first few months and 2,000 men at the peak of construction.

Plans do not include any initial power installation, although space will be provided for future installation of six generating units having a total production of 160,000 kilowatts.

The dam, to be located near the southern tip of Chickamauga Island, will be 104 feet high and 5,685 feet long.

It is the fourth dam to be built by TVA on the Tennessee river and the fifth in the authority's program.

6 G. O. P. NAMES WAIT SCRUTINY IN CONGRESS RACE

Citizen Group May Reject Some County Choices.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republican congressional slate making in Cook county has advanced to the stage where the county central committee is ready to present the names of at least half a dozen candidates to the Illinois Republican Citizens' organization.

In that many districts the ward committeemen constituting the congressional district committees have made recommendations which now will be subjected to scrutiny to determine whether the selections made have been the best possible. The committees from the remaining districts are to meet Friday and as rapidly as their selections are made the additional names will be presented to the citizens' organization.

Some Rejections Expected.

Just what this unofficial body, which is entirely a voluntary organization separate from the party machinery, will or can do with the committeemen's recommendations has not been made clear. But it is understood there is grave doubt that all of the selections will be approved. This is considered important as it is to the I. R. C. O. that the party committee is looking to finance the congressional campaign after the primaries.

From all accounts the high purpose of selecting the "very best available timber" for congressional nominations by means of district conferences that would include non-political leaders in each instance has been almost completely ignored.

That purpose was declared in a resolution adopted at a luncheon meeting of the Republican county central committee at the Hotel La Salle on Nov. 21 which was attended by factional and group leaders and by representatives of the I. R. C. O. The resolution also provided for the creation of a congressional subcommittee consisting of a member from each district to "coöperate with a similar group from the citizens' committee."

No Sign of Coöperation."

There has been no sign of that coöperation up to the present time, and the question whether it is to develop will be raised when the county committee transmits the list of recommendations.

How completely the agreed policy of calling district conferences has been ignored has been demonstrated in several cases, but the one causing the greatest buzz among Republicans occurred in the Third, a south side district that up to a decade ago was strongly Republican.

This story goes back to the Republican nomination in the Third district two years ago, the nomination for the election of 1934. There were several candidates, but when the ward committeemen for the district met the vote was all one way. Frank M. Fulton, almost an unknown quantity, was the unanimous choice of all those who weren't candidates themselves.

Explanation Comes Out.

The explanation came later. Shortly before the committee meeting, one of the members friendly to Fulton distributed approximately $5,000 in checks among his associates at a rate of $500 for each member. That was to aid each committeeman in carrying on Fulton's campaign—an extremely early advance on expenses not to be incurred until several months later.

This year, following the LaSalle luncheon, some representatives of the Third district sought to start the wheels turning to bring about a sizeable conference along the lines agreed upon at the luncheon. To their surprise they found that a number of the ward leaders were already "committed" to Fulton.

He's in Europe for Winter.

Their surprise increased when they discovered that Fulton even then was in Europe, having gone there for the winter. At his office yesterday it was said that he will not return until March 1. The primary is on April 14.

Another illustration of the sort of "conference" that produced some of the recommendations by ward committeemen was related about the action taken in the 1st district. For the first time in history, that district went Democratic in the landslide two years ago, Oscar DePriest, the first Negro to sit in congress in a quarter of a century, being the victim.

There have been no criticisms of DePriest's republicanism or of the strength of the forces which last week brought about his recommendation as the organization candidate for the next primary, but the difference between the method pursued and the policy agreed upon at the La Salle luncheon has provoked discussion.

King Constitutes "Meeting."

The 1st district includes 160 precincts between the river on the north and 43d street on the south, many of them Negro precincts. A substantial majority of them, 94, are in the 2d ward, of which State Senator William E. King, the only colored man in the upper house at Springfield, is committeeman. King is allied with DePriest politically.

After it had been announced last week that the 1st congresisonal district committee had recommended DePriest as its candidate for 1936, protests about the nature of the action disclosed that King constituted the entire meeting of the committee. At county headquarters he said he had in his pocket the proxies of Committeemen Charles Krutckoff [4th] and William S. Finucane [12th], and, as his own voting strength was sufficient to control under any circumstances, no further questions were asked.

Methods Questioned Elsewhere.

Residents of the 2d, 6th, and 9th districts also are questioning the methods followed in selecting the organization candidates there for congress. In the 6th, a western district which includes all or part of eleven Chicago wards and important suburbs such as Oak Park, Berwyn, and Riverdale, the selection went to Albert W. Carlson of Maywood.

The politicians say that, while there is no complaint about Carlson's qualifications, a Swedish name will not go well in a district where an Irish name has such an appeal as that of the present congressman, Thomas J. O'Brien.

In the 2d, the committeemen have agreed to run Patrick H. Moynihan, who was defeated by Raymond S. McKeough, an almost unknown Democrat, by 23,445 votes in 1934. In the 9th the agreement is upon Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman.

The candidacy situation in the 7th district is in a tangle. This district, normally Republican, includes all or parts of seventeen wards and the northwestern suburbs. Some of the committeemen are backing James C. Moreland, a former alderman who was the Republican nominee in 1930.

VANDENBERG ASSAILS 'LITTLE CAPITAL' PLAN AS BUROCRAT BONANZA

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Senator Arthur H. Vanderberg [R. Mich.], today assailed the national resources board's proposed decentralization of government administration through creation of a dozen "little capitals" as a "positive inspiration for the Farleyites" and a "bonanza for the burocrats," but "not so pleasant for the taxpayers."

"The president once rightly said that all taxes are paid in the sweat of man's brow," Vandenberg said. "There has been considerable of a perspiration already. But if we can only get this provincial system going there certainly will be sweating days ahead.

"But what difference does that make to Santa Claus! Meanwhile, the old conception of the union of the states drops back farther and farther into horse and buggy days."

The resources board, headed by Secretary Ickes, also includes Secretaries Wallace, Perkins and Roper. It was formed to make recommendations on planning the use of resources.

GOVERNOR FUMES AT STELLE OVER RELIEF PROPOSAL

Treasurer Says Illinois Can Pay Own Way.

A flare-up in the state Democratic administration followed a proposal to Gov. Horner by State Treasurer John Stelle yesterday that money from the $18,000,000 state general fund, earmarked mainly for building purposes, be diverted to meet Illinois' relief needs during the early months of this year. In a blunt letter to the governor, Stelle urged the calling of a special session of the general assembly to appropriate the money and to reconstruct relief machinery from the ground up.

Stelle proposed accordingly that the Illinois Emergency Relief commission be abolished; that employable heads of relief families not cared for under the federal Works Progress administration be placed on the payrolls of the state highway department under a state financed work relief program, that unemployable families be placed under the state department of public welfare.

The Political Pot Bubbles.

As state treasurer Stelle is one of three ex-officio members of the relief commission. He has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor or for lieutenant governor. Gov. Horner, who chose the seven appointive members of the IERC, immediately voiced tart comments on his state treasurer's suggestions.

"Stelle was inspired more by a desire for publicity than by any willingness to help in the present relief crisis," said Horner.

"Unhappily, Stelle is not familiar with either the problem of relief or the problem of state finance. It would appear that it is his desire to profess some knowledge about the relief problem which he entirely lacks, without waiting until the President of the United States indicates what aid, if any, can be given to Illinois."

Rules Out Federal Help.

Stelle said it didn't appear as though the state would get any more federal relief funds, inasmuch as eight days had passed without official word from Washington in response to Gov. Horner's personal plea to President Roosevelt.

Although Washington's unofficial refusal of more relief money and of more Works Progress administration jobs to Illinois was supported again yesterday by the word of administration spokesmen at the capital, United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis declared yesterday he was "quite confident" that the government would make a grant. He added that he would take up the matter again tomorrow with the President and with Harry Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator and national WPA chief.

Favors Independent Action.

This hope—and even this wish— Stelle opposed sharply in his letter to the governor. He wrote:

"Illinois is amply able to take care of this so-called crisis and with the WPA functioning as it is by easing the relief load, the need is only temporary."

Toward meeting requirements of $5,865,911 in January, the IERC has saved $780,000 from its December funds and it expects $2,000,000 from the state sales and utility taxes. The commission still lacks $3,000,000, however, and it has ordered all relief stations to close on the night of Jan. 15 unless additional funds make possible a countermand by the morning of Jan. 16.

Stelle said that the state general fund contains $18,000,000, most of it earmarked for construction work.

Would Divert 2 Million a Month.

He proposed using about $2,000,000 a month from the general fund to finance the payment of wages comparable to those of WPA to employable relief clients, who would build farm-to-market roads in the country, and lay urban pavements.

The unemployable relief families, he asserted, could be supported by the state department of public welfare on about $30 a month each out of the present sales tax revenue now going to the IERC. When old age pensions become effective later in the year, he predicted, they would take care of 40,000 of the 66,000 unemployable cases.

Chairman John C. Martin of the IERC, also a Democrat and a former state treasurer joined Horner in assailing Stelle's plan.

Meanwhile the Cook county board disclosed its intention not to contribute toward relief needs as it did during a similar relief situation last spring.

The announcement regarding Cook county's position was made by President Clayton F. Smith of the county board after he and several county commissioners had conferred with relief officials.

Leo M. Lyons, Cook county relief administrator for the IERC, who today becomes executive secretary of the state-wide organization, was one of those attending the county board conference. He succeeds Wilfred S. Reynolds, who submitted his resignation a month ago to return after nearly four years' absence to direct the Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

ED HAS STRANGE ADVENTURE AS A REAR SEAT RIDER

Three automobiles collided with loud clangs, but small damage, at Church street and Benson avenue in Evanston last night. The drivers of two of the vehicles hopped angrily out of their seats. But the owner of the third one, Edward Sargent, 32 years old, of Glenview remained perched on the rear spare tire of his.

Why in the name of goodness, demanded the others, was Mr. Sargent riding on the rear end of his car while it was traipsing about with no driver and running into people? To them, and to the policemen who soon added their voices to the inquisition, Mr. Sargent responded with dignity:

"My engine stalled and I got out to crank it," he explained. "The darn thing started in gear and knocked me down. It passed right over me and when I got up all I could catch was the spare tire. Once I got on that there was nowhere else I could go."

At the Evanston police station he was told he would be charged with driving while intoxicated. "You can't do that," he announced with spirit. "I will admit, maybe, that I was intoxicated, but nobody can ever prove I was driving."

The police then booked Mr. Sargent for disorderly conduct.

187 COUPLES GET LICENSES TO WED AS YEAR CLOSES

For the year just ended, the number of licenses here showed a decrease compared with 1934, according to Sidney Summerfield, chief clerk. There were 40,903 licenses this year and 41,754 in 1934. The last license issued in 1935 was to Herbert Siewert, 22 years old, and Miss Dorothy J. Wayland, 20, both of Milwaukee.

WPA HIRES 8 MORE ARTISTS TO DO AS THEY LIKE—BUT NO NUDES

Eight artists were hired by the federal Works Progress administration at $94 a month here yesterday to paint, sketch, carve wood, and otherwise express their talents according to their moods. Only nudes are barred from the art works, which are to be distributed among various public buildings and institutions.

The artists will be given a free hand, working in their own homes and turning in none of their products until the scheduled end of the project, ten weeks from now. Mrs. Increase Robinson, WPA art projects director, said a survey will be made in a few weeks to determine approximately how many items each artist expects to produce.

Mrs. Robinson declined to reveal the identities of her newest batch of artists, although she declared that all have produced art works that have been widely exhibited.

COUNTY COURT HANDLES 125,588 CASES IN YEAR

The Cook County court disposed of 125,588 cases during the year, according to Judge Edmund K. Jarecki's annual report, made public yesterday. Of these cases, 112,836 were on tax objections for the years of 1927 to 1933 inclusive. The court ruled in 1,715 cases involving tax receiverships under the Kerner-Skarda act.

The board of election commissioners, which is under Judge Jarecki's jurisdiction, reported that economies including the elimination of the Nov. 5 election, the elimination of registration in Cicero, Berwyn, and Chicago Heights, and expense reduction at the judicial election and the March 5 registration, saved the county $946,818 during the year.

Robbers Shoot Dog Trying to Protect His Master

When two gunmen entered a butcher shop at 4457 Belmont avenue and started to rob John Serna, the manager, and several customers, Serna's police dog leaped for the throat of one of the robbers. The man shot the dog in the leg. Then he and his partner kicked the animal into unconsciousness, took $25 from the till, and fled.

LINDY SECLUDED IN LIVERPOOL AFTER LANDING

Family Will Travel On to Wales Today.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIVERPOOL, England, Dec. 31.—Barricaded in a suite of rooms at the Adelphi, Liverpool's chief hotel, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, his wife and their son Jon, spent a solitary New Year's eve.

In a heavy rain at noon they landed from the American Importer, on which they were the only passengers, and evaded an army of reporters and cameramen. Tonight the famous flyer fought off all attempts of newspaper men to obtain a statement explaining the secret of his self-imposed exile.

"I can see no one. I can say nothing. All I want is privacy," came the reply to notes and calls to his suite.

To Visit Relatives.

Though some sources said the Lindberghs might go to the south of France if winter conditions in England proved too severe, immediate plans will take them tomorrow to "Brynderwen," the walled estate of J. Llewellyn Morgan at Llandaff, Wales, overlooking Cardiff. Morgan is the father of Aubrey Neil Morgan, whose wife, Elisabeth Reeve Morrow, a sister of Mrs. Lindbergh, died last year in California.

The elder Morgan said the Lindberghs will visit "for some time," and also was responsible for the statement that they came to England through fear that Jon would become the victim of kidnapers as had his older brother, Charles A. Lindbergh Jr.

Earlier, members of the crew of the Importer said they believed the Lindberghs left America to avoid being these during the week of Jan. 13, when Bruno Richard Hauptmann is condemned to die for the murder of Charles Jr., in March, 1932. Morgan declared business had nothing to do with the Lindberghs' journey.

Ward Off Contacts.

Arrangements to keep the Lindberghs from outside contacts were highly successful. They were made by W. R. Gregory, a representative of Morgan, Grenfell & Co. of London. The firm is affiliated with J. P. Morgan & Co., of New York, on whose executive staf Mrs. Lindbergh's father, the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, served for many years.

Gregory informed newspaper men that his entreaties to get Lindbergh to make a statement were in vain. Gregory lunched with the Lindberghs, but left them to dine alone tonight. They were reading papers and resting from the nine days' rough passage from New York, Gregory said. The host of newspaper men camped for the night in the lobby awaiting the inevitable hour when the Lindberghs must emerge.

The high tide brought the American Importer up the Mersey river this morning and she dropped anchor beyond Gladstone dock. A tug carrying shipping, immigration, customs officials and police set out and customary inspection was done aboard. The officials left before the ship was docked in view of a couple hundred dock workers and waiting newspaper men.

Dash Between Lines.

A gangway was raised from the dock warehouse and Mrs. Lindbergh, in a smart tailored suit, looking worried, hurried down. Col. Lindbergh, in a blue suit and bare headed, carrying Jon facing backward in the crook of his arm, followed. The gathering cheered briefly as the Lindberghs dashed to the car in which was their luggage and Gregory. Led by a police car, the Lindberghs dashed through a locked off portion of the docks and into the heart of Liverpool.

Newspaper men who had crowded around the gangway were trapped when the many police on guard closed the barriers on the sides and behind them. Before they were able to get out of the pen, the Lindbergh car was well away. Some cameramen using telephoto lenses got pictures which appeared with profuse accounts in London afternoon papers. Morning papers carried only brief accounts.

Col. Lindbergh's attitude in refusing any statement seemed incomprehensible to local officials and British newspaper men tonight, and is not adding to his popularity, although the greatest sympathy is felt for him on all sides.

"Ideal Passengers."

Capt. John Anderson of the Importer said:

"My three passengers were ideal passengers, and all good sailors, too, on this rough trip. I was proud to have them aboard."

The Lindberghs showed no reaction as far as the ship's officers could see, to the furor the news of their departure created in the United States.

"He is the sort that doesn't react," was Capt. Anderson's comment.

The colonel, and occasionally his wife, went up on the bridge during the voyage, talking "aeronautics and navigation." They lunched by themselves and the colonel spent most of his time reading in the living room. The Lindberghs occupied single berth cabins with a bathroom between. In a third room Jon played. Mrs. Lindbergh had no maid or stewardess to help her with Jon but was not unduly occupied nevertheless.

BOSS M'LAUGHLIN DIES IN PRISON; BURIED SECRETLY

Kidnapers' Ally Brought to Chicago Grave.

John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, gambler and former state representative, died on Monday in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., it was learned yesterday.

McLaughlin was serving a five year sentence at Leavenworth for conspiracy to dispose of part of the $200,000 ransom paid nearly two years ago to the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy St. Paul banker.

McLaughlin's death was revealed in a certificate filed yesterday with the city clerk of Leavenworth. The certificate stated that his body had been embalmed there and sent to Chicago for burial.

Buried in Calvary Cemetery.

In Chicago last evening the Rev. Joseph King disclosed that he conducted a requiem high mass over McLaughlin's body yesterday morning in St. Patrick's church, Adams and Des Plaines streets. Burial then took place in Calvary cemetery, Father King said.

He explained that at the request of the McLaughlin family, he had refrained from discussing the funeral services until the news of the death was received from Leavenworth.

McLaughlin's death, according to the Leavenworth certificate, was due to chronic bronchitis and bronchial pneumonia. When the former legislator was sentenced in St. Paul last June, Federal Judge M. M. Joyce said he had decided on a light sentence for him because of his condition. At that time McLaughlin was reported ill from diabetes.

Handler of Ransom Money.

While not actually concerned with the abduction of Bremer, who early in 1934 was held for 21 days in a farmhouse at Bensenville, McLaughlin was convicted of being the prime mover in disposing of $57,000 of the ransom money. At the time of his arrest on April 27, 1934, McLaughlin was said by federal agents to have confessed his part in the plot. He later repudiated the confession, pleaded not guilty, and was convicted with six others.

McLaughlin's connection with the Bremer case climaxed a checkered career for the 67 year old ward boss, who was born on the west side. His political career collapsed when he forsook his sponsor, the late Roger Sullivan, Democratic leader.

Indicted After Mail Robbery.

In 1933 McLaughlin was indicted by a federal grand jury here for conspiring to dispose of $250,000 in bonds taken in a loop holdup of postal employés on Dec. 6, 1932.

McLaughlin was to have been brought here from Leavenworth for trial with 39 others on the holdup conspiracy charge, but an eye infection and later his removal to the prison hospital with bronchitis, forced postponement of his case. Indicted with him was Edgar B. Lebensberger, a night club owner, who was found shot to death, supposedly a suicide, six hours before the indictment was made public.

HAUPTMANN LOOKS TO 1936 FOR 'TRUTH IN LINDBERGH CASE'

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann today reiterated he was innocent of the Lindbergh baby killing and expressed hope the "new year will bring out the truth."

To his wife, Anna, and to the prison warden, Col. Mark O. Kimberling, who questioned him about reports of a partial confession, Hauptmann said, "I have nothing to confess."

Hauptmann, who was nervous yesterday before the execution of Romaine Johnson, a Negro, spent a restless night. He lay on his cot during the execution at 8 p. m. last night, apparently feigning sleep.

PRIGNANO DEATH QUIZ BALKED BY MAZE OF DENIALS

Police Push Search for Murder Car Owner.

The search for the murderers of State Representative Albert J. Prignano, assassinated Sunday night in the doorway of his home at 722 Bunker street, seemed last night to be bogged down temporarily in a maze of Sicilian kinships.

The three killers abandoned their automobile after the murder. From the start of the investigation the owner of the car has been considered the key man in the case. With him in custody, police feel that apprehension of the gunmen would be fairly simple. The license for the car was obtained in the name of Sam Lapicola.

His arrest has been the immediate goal of Supervising Captain John Stege and Capt. John Norton, veteran commander of the Maxwell street police station, who shared in the direction of the investigation until he was retired from the department for age at midnight last night. But from the start, a series of mysterious coincidences blocked the police.

Coincidences Block Quiz.

The first coincidence was a mixup of the license plate on the death car with that issued to a citizen who had no connection with the murder. That was cleared up by the discovery that Lapicola and the citizen, Morris Schattell, had received each other's plates when they purchased them at the branch office of the secretary of state at 123 South Ashland avenue.

Numerous clews were followed by the police in their 72 hour search for Lapicola. One of the most promising was given yesterday by Charles Cutaia, a real estate dealer living over his office at 1248 North Wells street. Cutaia is a notary public, and his seal appeared on the license application of Sam Lapicola.

Police interviewed him in his bed. He is an invalid.

"Sure, Lapicola is my second cousin," he told them. "I think he lives in the 1500 block on North Hoyne avenue."

Seize Three in Quiz.

Election registration records disclosed that a family of Lapicolas lived at 1510 North Hoyne avenue in 1933. They were traced to 1221 North Leavitt street, and the head of the family and two sons were taken into custody. They insisted, however, that they spell their name Lopiccolo.

The father, Joseph, a house painter, and one son, Eugene, a musician now working on a WPA project, were found at the home. A second son, Tony, was picked up later in the evening in a neighborhood tavern. He works for a cosmetic supply company, he told police.

Given Good Record.

The Lopiccolos denied any knowledge of the Prignano murder. There is no son in their family named Sam, they added. They asserted that they are poor working people, which their appearance indicated was true, and the police of the district in which they live said that they had never known the family to associate with hoodlums.

Capt. Stege and Capt. Norton reached the conclusion that either Lopiccolos or Cutaia were withholding information in the case. The father and his two sons are to be taken to the bedside of the invalid Cutaia today for further questioning.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty early today questioned Miss Alice F. Olson and Miss Peggy Woods, both of 1503 Chase avenue, who were friends of Prignano. The young women, who are clerks employed in the county building, said that Prignano was a political friend and that he had called once at their home, the Saturday before Christmas, with a companion. Neither knew of any reason for the slaying.

Another clew to the whereabouts of Lapicola failed yesterday with the arrest and subsequent release of Mrs. Dorothy Donahue, estranged wife of an ex-policeman. She had lived in a rooming house at 1942 Lincoln avenue, where Lapicola received a certificate of title for his automobile in September, and her sudden departure from the rooming house on Sunday afternoon, a few hours before the Prignano murder, led police to suspect that she might have had some connection with Lapicola.

She explained to police, however, that she had not been living at the rooming house in September, when the auto title papers were issued. Her sudden departure, she explained, was the result of a call from her mother, asking her for help. Police accepted her story, and when she denied that she knew Lapicola, allowed her to go.

HOLD WAKE FOR PRIGNANO

The body will lie at the home until time for funeral services at 10:15 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Guardian Angel church, Desplaines and Forquer streets. Burial will be in Mount Carmel cemetery. The Rev. Joseph Secchia and the Rev. Francis X. Breen will officiate at the requiem high mass.

"The crowds at the wake are just the people coming in who were grateful to him for some favor, his own people here in the ward," said City Prosecutor Michael L. Rosinia.

Widow Confined to Bed.

The widow, the former Jean Beardmore, once a radio singer, was confined to her bed with illness, arising from the shock of the tragedy. Her brothers, John and Joseph Beardmore, were in the apartment throughout the day. John's home is in Waterloo, Ia. He is state commander of the American Legion of Iowa.

John Anthony Prignano, 9 years old, who witnessed the murder of his father, spent the day at the home of the politician's only living brother, James, on the north side. Prignano's 76-year-old father, Pasquale, listened proudly and sadly as his neighbors praised his most ambitious "bambino."

The Rev. Father Thomas M. Sampolinski led a delegation of 50 children and half as many adults from St. Wenceslau's church to the bier yesterday afternon for the recitation of the rosary. It was explained that Prignano had moved their church across the street at his own expense when Des Plaines street was being widened.

Prignano's political friends avowed that he "died broke" and that they were raising the $400 which they said was the complete cost of the casket. Two small neon crosses in red burned over the coffin. The largest wreath to "our leader" was from the 20th ward Democratic organization.

FIRE LEVELS STORES.

Montrose, S. D., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Fire caused by the explosion of an unattended oil stove in a service station today completely leveled two business houses, seriously damaged another and caused a loss estimated at between $50,000 and $75,000.

SPACE ROCKETS HOLD INTEREST OF SCIENTISTS

Power and Direction Two Problems Solved.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Rocket flights, penetrating the secrets of the earth's atmosphere and beyond, perhaps even to the moon, attracted the attention of meteorologists, physicists and others attending the American Association for the Advancement of Science sessions here today.

The latest report on the actual operation of motorized rockets for sounding the atmosphere was given by Dr. Robert Goddard of Clark university, Worcester, Mass., who has been experimenting in this work for three and a half years at Roswell, N. M., under grants from the Guggenheim and Carnegie Foundations.

Two of the serious problems connected with these flights have already been solved. A motor has been developed utilizing liquid oxygen and gasoline, fired by compressed nitrogen, and develops 206 horsepower per pound of rocket weight. The second success has been attained in keeping the rocket in a vertical course automatically. This is done by a gyroscope stabilizer which operates movable vanes into the blast of the rocket. The third problem, that of lightness, is expected to be solved by next September, when the work ends.

Reaches 700 Miles an Hour.

The greatest speed so far accomplished by the rocket has been 700 miles per hour. Its flights have been short, only 7,500 feet, but Dr. Goddard said he was waiting to attain lightness before attempting great flights. It is possible, he said, to take up instruments and drop them by parachutes when the flights end. In this way the records of temperature, wind, cosmic and other rays could be brought back to earth from great distances. Scientists make no prediction as to whether these flights will eventually reach the moon, 240,000 miles away, but with increased fuel power and increased lightness this appears possible. The carrying of humans on such flights remains a remote possibility.

The greatest achievement is the overcoming of the earth's gravitational pull by the gyroscope. The members of the society saw motion pictures of a flight last May. The rocket starts off slowly, like a high powered automobile. It gives out a great roar and emits white flashes. It is launched from a tower by remote control. The rocket in present use weighs 80 pounds and is 12 feet long. It leaves a trail of smoke behind it. The rocket of the future, Dr. Goddard said, would have to be followed by radio finders.

A Secret to Explore.

One new secret which the rocket flights might explore was outlined today by Dr. Harlan P. Stetson of Harvard. He spoke on the connection between astronomy and meteorology.

"In processes taking place 50 to 150 miles above the earth's surface," he said, "as the result of the action of ultra-violet light, ions are produced. The growing importance of this region of ionized atmosphere, the electronic and ionic density of which appear to vary with altitude and also with the solar cycle, has given rise to a new field of investigation—the ionosphere.

"The most obvious and conspicuous changes in the ionosphere are seen in the difference between daylight and darkness transmission of radio waves. Changes in the electronic density of the ionosphere acocmpany the sun spot cycle. There are tides in the ionosphere for which the moon appears responsible. This lunar tide may be the connecting link for exploring the apparent lunar effect in the changes of earth's magnetic field. In this border land between the earth surface and circumterrestrial space we may find the solution of many problems which will ultimately contribute to knowledge of the earth's atmosphere."

Vote Pittsburgh Ineligible.

The American Association of University Professors voted unanimously today to place the University of Pittsburgh on the ineligible list. This is not a condemnation of the university as a whole, it was stated, or of its faculty, but of the administration. This university has been under investigation at various times for the last six years. It was stated at the meeting today that there was an atmosphere of fear, uncertainty and intimidation at this university, that the one year contracts are administered according to whim, and that there is a suppression of freedom of speech in reference to the ordinary affairs of the school.

This question of freedom of speech was distinguished from the question of academic freedom. The broader question is to come in for a more general action, according to Prof. A. J. Carlson of the University of Chicago. He referred to the teachers' loyalty oaths as symptomatic of a disease and said that the whole subject would be taken up soon. The 12,000 university professors need the help of other organizations in this problem, it was stated. The plan in prospect is to be given no publicity.

Preview of Agriculture.

A vision of what agricultural science may bring about was given by Dr. Jacob G. Lipman of Rutgers university, retiring vice president of this section. He said in part:

"We can vision the gradual development of two types of farming in the United States. One of them may be designated as commercial farming; the other as part time farming. Commercial farming will utilize all the expedients of science and technology as well as business organizations and management. These large farms will be held either by corporations or by farmers' coöperatives.

"There will be the question of the distribution of population as it may be affected by large scale farming on one hand, and part time farming, on the other. There will be the question of agricultural commodities as raw materials in the manufacturing of, let us say, fuels, plastics, celluloses, organic acids, high alcohols and what not. Present day systems of marketing and distribution will undergo far-reaching changes.

"The inter-relations of agriculture, industry and commerce will be more clearly defined. Our taxation systems, certainly land taxation systems, of necessity will undergo substantial modifications. Industry will draw an increasingly greater part of its employés from families living on small farms, and deriving a large part of their living from them.

Sees Planning for Use.

"We may thus readily vision land use planning as the touchstone for the distribution of population and industry; for the rationalization of production, and for the steady rise of earnings and living standards."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

QUINTS HELD AN EXAMPLE OF THE MALE'S DECLINE

Babies Actually Grandchildren of Mother.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—A new scientific status for the famous Dionne quintuplets in Canada was suggested today by Dr. David Causey, professor of biology at the University of Arkansas, in a paper on the decadence of the male in the animal kingdom. It was read before a section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science tonight.

In the strange phenomenon of "polyembryony" which seems to be increasing in nature, Dr. Causey suggested that the quints had no sire, that even Mrs. Dionne cannot claim to be their mother. They are her grandchildren, several generations removed.

Each Split a Generation.

Their immediate ancestor is a single individual who never enjoyed an independent existence but was a unicellular organism. Normally, this organism would have developed into a woman, the child of the Dionnes. Instead it divided into children and grandchildren, each split representing a new generation.

Polyembryony, the biologist indicated, may be a deep seated movement of nature toward the self-sufficiency of the female in a maleless world.

"In passing" he said, "let me refer incidentally to polyembryony, that curious condition where an egg produces two or more individuals. Is it not, when all is said and done, a cleverly successful device for lessening the importance of the male?

Sees Rapid Evolution.

"Recent reports from Canada would suggest that polyembryony in man is undergoing a rapid evolution. Apropos to this is an interesting fact. Has it ever occurred to you that when a woman gives birth to identical twins, they are not her children? The original ovum reproduced asexually and the resulting twins are her grandchildren."

There is some evidence, he pointed out, that there is a similar trend on the social level with the human race entering "the twilight of masculinity."

"Consider," he said, "the situation of today. A poor man might be delivered, as a wee babe, by a woman doctor, reared and educated by women preceptors and educators, shaved by a woman barber, have his teeth pulled by a feminine dentist, his clothes bought by his wife, his laws made by feminine legislators and argued in court by modern Portias; might work all his life for a captainess of industry, and at the end be buried by a woman preacher."

Biologists, Prof. Causey said, continually are unearthing new examples of the reduction of the male to insignificance.

KILLED IN CAR CRASH.

HIGH LIGHTS OF SCIENCE AT MEETING

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Among reports of new and advanced scientific wonders and methods presented today at the convention of the American Association for the Advancement of Science were the following:

Sound waves from fire sirens may be used next summer to begin killing off an important insect pest. J. A. Hyslop of the United States department of agriculture presented his unique proposal for eliminating the periodical cicada, popularly called the 17 year locust.

The cicada, a large insect best known by its intermittent whining song on summer nights, attracts its mate by this noise, Hyslop declared. A fire siren of the proper pitch might be used, he believes, to "mask these sounds or to dampen them to such an extent that the receiver can no longer distinguish them and thus put a definite obstacle in the way of reproduction."

A new machine designed to eliminate ultimately the almost universal fear of earthquakes was described. It is an entirely new type of "shaking table," which reproduces on a small scale the exact motions of such quakes as the Helena, Mont., tremors last fall. Their effect on models of buildings can thus be studied.

By finding just what motions or combinations of motions cause buildings to crack and tumble, the scientists will be able to tell engineers how to build shock-proof buildings. Then the safest place to be during a quake will be inside your own home. The quake reproducer was designed by Arthur C. Ruge and Dr. Vannevar Bush of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. It was described to the seismology section by Capt. N. H. Heck, earthquake expert of the United States coast and geodetic survey. Heretofore shaking tables have only been able to reproduce back and forth motions or slightly irregular ones. The new machine combines the electric eye with an oil piston to reproduce motions exactly as they occur and can be operated as easily as a radio receiving set.

A new source of income for farmers in the harvesting of grass seed for reseeding the great plains was suggested by C. R. Enlow, plant explorer of the department of agriculture.

About a million pounds of seed of 20 species of native grasses were harvested in 1935, he declared, and "the production of grass seed adapted to our semi-arid regions offers a real source of income for farmers who are interested in this line of work."

Two women scientists announced solution of a major mystery of science, the origin of cellulose, the constituent of all trees and plants, used to make synthetic silks, paper and the thousands of household articles. No one previously has ever been able to see how plants make their cellulose. The discovery is a first step toward possibility of manufacturing cellulose partly by machine, without the aid of plants, a change which would make available limitless supplies of paper and clothing and mean another chemical revolution.

The microscopes of Mrs. Wanda K. Farr, associate cotton technologist of the United States department of agriculture, and Dr. Sophie H. Eckerson spied out the origins of cellulose. Both work at the Boyce Thompson institute for plant research at Yonkers, N. Y.

While examining fibers of cotton, which is 90 per cent pure cellulose, they saw nature's cellulose-making process in action in the cytoplasm of cotton cells.

They tried the experiment on algae and found a similar cellulose manufacturing scene. The way in which the little particles come together, they reported, explains some of the amazing differences in natural cellulose, such as the resemblance of cotton fibers to drawn steel in physical properties and of algae fibers to finest gossamer.

A total of 24 million meteors can be seen daily throughout the world.

Dr. C. C. Wylie, young meteor expert of the University of Iowa, declared that that number of stellar particles strike the earth's atmosphere daily. He also reported that all the meteoric material striking the earth since it began would form less than an inch on the surface; that the number of meteors which can be seen with telescopes is probably "many of millions of millions" daily, and that the number of meteors which detonate is only about six each year for any given circle with a radius of 280 miles.

An old drug—picrotoxin—thrown into the discard by medical men many years ago, has been revived. Prof. Theodore Koppanyi, Dr. Charles R. Linegar and James M. Dille of Georgetown university, Washington, D. C., use it as an antidote for overdoses of barbiturates, chemicals used as sleeping potions, and anesthetics. Barbiturates slow breathing and lower the blood pressure. Picrotoxin, extracted from the moon flower, stimulates breathing and raises blood pressure. With it the physician can strike a favorable balance.

COURT UPHOLDS FIRE AND POLICE RETIREMENT LAW

Orders Issued Pensioning 205 in Chicago.

Superior Judge Charles A. Williams last evening denied a petition for a temporary injunction to restrain the city from retiring 193 policemen and firemen who have reached the age of 63.

Immediately following the speedy disposition of the injunction bill, Police Commissioner James P. Allman and Fire Marshal Michael Corrigan issued transfer orders, assigning men to new stations, effective at midnight. The formal retirement order for 163 policemen and 30 firemen also went into effect at that time.

Among the policemen forced into retirement were Supervising Captains Thomas G. Wolfe and Ira J. McDowell. They were not replaced.

Three Captains Moved.

Three captains were transferred. They were Capt. John A. Egan, transferred from the South Chicago station to Maxwell street, replacing the retired veteran Capt. John Norton; Capt. James J. Fleming, from headquarters to Gresham, replacing the retired Thomas Duffy, and Capt. Paul A. Wheeler from headquarters to Morgan Park, replacing the retired David Fitzgerald.

Thirteen lieutenants were made acting captains. These lieutenants, their past and present assignments and the retiring captains they replace are:

WILLIAM A. BYRNE, from Pekin to Hyde Park, replacing John L. Hogan.

PATRICK BRADY, from Chicago Lawn to Grand Crossing, replacing William Russell.

MARTIN E. McCORMICK, from Chicago avenue to Summerdale, replacing Martin O'Malley.

GEORGE LYNCH, stays at Austin, replacing Willard L. Malone.

ANTHONY T. McDONOUGH stays at North avenue, replacing Francis J. Matchett.

ROBERT J. SULLIVAN stays at Marquette, replacing William H. Schoemaker.

The police retirement order named 23 captains, 13 lieutenants, 35 sergeants, 81 patrolmen, 3 policewomen, 4 matrons, 2 hostlers, one surgeon, and one dog catcher. The captains retired, who were not replaced, are McDowell and Wolfe and Joseph M. Johnson, Max L. Danner, Luke J. Garrick, Matthew Homer, Dennis M. Malloy, and Patrick Gallery, all assigned to headquarters; Michael Lee, assigned to Chicago Lawn, and Patrick T. McCauley, assigned to dog pound section.

Name Sixteen Officers Tomorrow.

Capt. Russell, one of the men retired, was chief of police under a former Republican mayor. Schoemaker and Norton were former chiefs of detectives. Lieut. Make Mills, another man retired, has been in charge of the detective bureau industrial squad for years, and Stephen O'Meara, another lieutenant retiring, is president of the Police Benevolent association.

Sixteen lieutenants will be named tomorrow from the present civil service list. Civil service examinations for captaincies and sergeantcies will be announced within a few weeks.

The eleventh hour injunction suit, attacking the constitutionality of the new state retirement law, was filed by Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson. The bill alleged that the act was invalid because it allows department heads to use their discretion in retiring policemen and firemen. The bill also charged that the law was discriminatory because it did not include other civil service employes, and asserted that the city might have to spend $1,000,000 in litigation while the policemen and firemen fight to regain their jobs.

Judge Williams, in denying the injunction, did not rule on the constitutionality of the act. He merely held that the injunction bill was without equity and that the proper remedy for the men forced into retirement is by mandamus. Attorney Ettelson said that mandamus actions will be filed and Judge Williams' ruling will be appealed.

Four Marshals Retire.

Four division fire marshals went into retirement. Edward F. Green, division marshal of the 4th division, was detailed to the 1st division, replacing Patrick Pierce; Joseph J. Graham, 1st battalion chief was detailed as acting 2nd division marshal, replacing Anthony McDonald; James J. Enright, 21st battalion chief, was detailed as acting 4th division marshal, replacing Edward Green; John Groves, 5th battalion chief detailed as acting sixth division marshal, replacing Charles Heaney. No successor was appointed for Edward F. McGurn, drill master, who retired.

NEW HUNT FOR KARPIS IS LAUNCHED AFTER ARREST OF SUSPECT

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Police suddenly intensified their search for Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, tonight when a cabin camp proprietor tentatively identified his photograph as that of the companion of Homer Fanning, 27, who told officers here today he had been traveling with the notorious outlaw.

Police, inclined to doubt Fanning's story that Karpis was his companion when officers pursued him and another man in an allegedly stolen car, showed a picture of Karpis to Ollie Smith, at whose camp Fanning said they had been staying.

"I ought to know," he told police questioners tonight. "I've been with him constantly for the last four months and I once served a sentence with him at Arkansas City, Kas."

Police said federal agents had taken over the cabin and were searching for fingerprints.

Inquest in Double Killing Delayed; Slayer May Live

A coroner's jury yesterday continued until Jan. 16 an inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Penelope Mikes, 35 years old, and her daughter, Lulu Voornas, 17 years old, who were shot in their home, 2633 North Austin avenue, yesterday by Mrs. Mikes' second husband, Philip A. Mikes, who then wounded a stepson and himself. The continuance was ordered when it was reported that Mikes, who is in the Bridewell hospital, had a chance to recover.

PAROLE LENIENCY HIT UNANIMOUSLY BY PROSECUTORS

Resent 'Retrying' Felons to Keep Them in Cell.

The convention of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association at the Morrison hotel ended yesterday with a resolution opposing the leniency of the Illinois parole board. The convention asked that the parole law be construed strictly so that criminals shall be more justly punished.

State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney of Du Page county, John W. Coale of Christian county, and F. B. Brian of Stark county, comprising the resolutions committee, discussed the recent publication of figures showing that the parole board turned out 11 men for each 10 sent to prison from Cook county during the year of 1935.

Virtually a Second Trial.

They declared they were shocked to learn that the clemency system had been so widely extended. In their own counties, they said, they resented the fact they had to retry every convict before the parole board. Unless they exercise the utmost vigilance, they charged, they find the board only too willing to free criminals for whom an appeal is made.

According to these prosecutors, they are compelled to go to the prison frequently to oppose the release of notorious criminals. State's Attorney Coale, a Democrat, said he discussed the parole situation with Gov. Horner and found the governor aware of the increase in paroles.

Substance of the Document.

The resolution assailing laxity in parole issuance was passed unanimously. It may have a good effect, Prosecutor Kenney remarked, but he pointed out that the state's attorneys organization has no way of enforcing its opinions or policies on the state administration.

"There is a widespread feeling," said the resolution, "that the state board of pardons and paroles in recent years has been too liberal in the release of felons and the protection of the public has not been given the prime consideration to which it is properly entitled."

The resolution pointed out that there have been 12,000 murders committed annually in the nation and the cost of crime averages $128 for each citizen annually.

"The prison records indicate that approximately 50 per cent of the serious crimes are committed by persons having previous criminal records," said the resolution, "and it is the feeling of the state's attorneys of Illinois that a more rigid policy should be adopted by the parole board, . . . that a more strict administration of the parole law be instituted."

Half Appeals Held Pointless.

Justice Warren H. Orr of the Illinois Supreme court addressed the convention. He said 50 per cent of the cases reviewed by the Supreme court should not have been appealed since no new questions is raised and the findings of the lower courts are not open to question.

State's Attorney Edwin V. Champion of Peoria county retired as president and Lester Geers, state's attorney of Madison county, was elected his successor. Other officers chosen are Francis C. King, Rock Island county, and George A. Hall of Montgomery county, vice presidents; and William R. McCabe of Will county, secretary treasurer.

TURN THE RASCALS OUT.

There is a new plank this morning in THE TRIBUNE Platform. It is probably the most imperative of them for the year 1936. "Turn the rascals out."

The opportunity to get rid of the dangerous and unsavory conditions used by countless predatory politicians is offered this year in the campaign and the election. The people can vote the rascals out of office, out of congress, out of the alphabetical administrations, out of important missions, boards and commissions, and out of the affairs of the nation.

It is the chance to get rid of repudiators, devaluators, and inflationists, of the men responsible for the tampering with the national currency, the national credit, and the national honesty. Men who have broken faith, been false to their word, untrue to their promises, and dishonest with the American people as a whole should be dismissed and sent where they can do no more harm.

Turn out the wasters who have hoisted the national debt to the 30 billion dollar mark and threaten to send it soaring to still greater heights. Turn out the rascals who have used the public money to build power dams where there are no customers and irrigation dams where there should be no agriculture. Turn out the socialists who have organized governmental corporations to evade constitutional prohibitions, to conduct private enterprises with public money, to rob citizens of their savings, destroy their investments, and impose tax subsidized competition upon men who must pay for the thing ruining their own businesses.

Turn out the rascals who have used their influence in the national legislature to enrich gold and silver producers, to fatten on navy contracts, to profit on air mail by murdering army flyers in unfit planes. Turn out the fellows who use the tax powers and judicial processes of the nation to crush men opposed to them in public life, who turn to punitive legislation for revenge on citizens who cross their purposes.

Turn them out who try to suppress opinion and speech by censorship and coercion, and bring fear into the lives of people who have done nothing to cause a just government to molest them. Turn out the red hots and revolutionaries who with reckless and witless experimentation are willing to sacrifice the security of people who cannot be protected from them so long as they remain in authority. Turn out the irresponsibles who are making life insurance precarious, savings unsafe, and the future of individuals ominous in its threats of evil.

Turn out the men who have abused their diplomatic immunities, who have traded in inside information for speculative purposes, and who have enriched themselves in a time of national distress and international panic.

Turn out the men who have treated desperate conditions vaingloriously and in high spirits dealt lightly with the miseries of their fellow countrymen.

Turn out the men responsible for the reduction of the nation's food supply, for the boosting of its costs, for the weeds that grow on fertile acres, for the increase of dishonorable dealings between men, for the impairment of honorable obligations, for the silly schemes of robbing those who have and giving to those who envy.

Turn out the men used by the Farleyites to buy elections, scornfully admitting that they do so.

Turn the rascals out. Clean house. Stop the spoliation and destruction. Call a halt while there is something to be saved and time in which to save it. Restore the national honor. Return to national sanity. Give people back faith in their government and confidence in their future. Time still remains and the opportunity is at hand. It cannot be the destiny of the United States to run like the Gadarene swine violently down a steep place and perish in the sea.

MILITARY COURSES IN EDUCATION.

The department of military science and tactics in Princeton university submitted a questionnaire to graduates of the course, classes 1930-'34 inclusive. The question of primary interest and importance was: "Patriotic considerations aside, is the four years' course in military science of sufficient value to the individual to justify its inclusion in the Princeton curriculum?"

To this query 96.4 per cent of the graduates of the course replied yes, the consensus, as analyzed in the report, concluding that "military science affords a balance between the cultural, intellectual, and practical elements in education. The wealth of material and breadth of the field covered are educationally broadening. The independent thought required in the rapid solution of military problems sharpens the intellect and breeds self-reliance. The training in command, coöperative effort, and in principles of organization are educationally valuable. It is an essential part of one's education to know how to take orders and give them coherently and concisely."

The 3.6 per cent who gave a negative answer thought that more is lost than gained and that the benefits could be obtained from an intensive course of from two to eight weeks in summer camps.

Other questions dealt with college credits, work required as compared to other elective courses, subsequent activity in the reserve corps. On the general value of the course its graduates, save a negligible minority, found: "It is a balance wheel to the sophistication of the other curricula. It breeds more good fellowship and more respect for self and others than any other curricular activity. It smooths off the rough edges of character and develops poise, mental balance and self-confidence. The benefits inherent in the disciplinary, physical and leadership training alone justify the inclusion of military science in the Princeton curriculum. Moreover, the course gives a working knowledge of such technical subjects as topography, gasoline engines, radio and telephone communication."

In the questionnaire patriotic considerations were waived. But they cannot be left out of any sound view of education. Patriotism is decried by some of the teachers of our youth, by believers in peace at any price, and by enemies of American institutions. Our pseudo-intellectuals like to quote against it Dr. Johnson's remark that it is the last refuge of scoundrels, a perversion of his intent which could disgust no one more than that sturdy Tory. But patriotism is a refuge of scoundrels because it is a virtue, inspiring the sacrifice of self which is essential to good citizenship and the strength of great nations. A conception of culture which eliminates love of country is a poor thing.

The department of military science and tactics is on solid grounds ethically and intellectually, from the viewpoint of education and from that of training for the actualities of living in peace or war. There should be more of its service in schools and colleges, not less.

"RECOVERY AS I HAVE PLANNED IT."

Two additional studies of the effect of the National Recovery administration upon national recovery were revealed to the American Economic association at their annual convention in New York last week. Both of them confirmed the earlier study of the Brookings Foundation, which reported that NRA had interfered with an upturn in business and that much more progress toward prosperity would have been made if NRA had never existed.

Q. Forrest Walker, economist for R. H. Macy & Co., New York's largest department store, owned by the Straus family, personal friends and political supporters of President Roosevelt, summarized his "statistical inquest" into NRA as follows:

"Less than half of the gainful employed were under codes. Eighty-five per cent of the coded workers received no direct monetary benefits. By price fixing and other arbitrary methods NRA fostered monopoly and monopolistic practices which still persist in considerable degree. Average weekly earnings advanced about 5 per cent for employés under codes, but the advance in the cost of living absorbed all of this increase. The general public suffered a severe loss in buying power because it was not protected from the aggressions of collective monopoly under code sanctions. In short, the whole program retarded recovery from the depression."

Prof. Garfield V. Cox of the University of Chicago had the following findings to report:

"The four months' drop which followed the introduction of the NRA has never been equaled except in the panic collapses of 1893 and 1907. On the other hand the advance which followed the Schechter decision against NRA is the broadest and best sustained rise of recovery to date."

There is mounting incontrovertible evidence that the New Deal's chief recovery effort, the National Recovery administration, seriously interfered with the progress of this country toward better times.

It is in the face of the disclosures of the injury his policies have done to the nation that the President continues to maintain that "recovery has been as I have planned it, and don't let anybody tell you differently."

Editorial of the Day

RICHMOND IS THE PLACE.

[Richmond News Leader.]

Airplane flights across the South Atlantic are now so frequent that press associations begrudge cable tolls on even a five line report of a new arrival in Brazil. The Graf Zeppelin maintains a schedule of fair regularity. From the far Pacific the China Clipper has triumphantly returned. Next will come—and soon will come—a service across the North Atlantic. The planes are available. Only the route remains to be determined.

Shall it be along the turbulent and foggy seaways of the ocean liners? Would there be gain and safety in hopping by way of Greenland and Iceland? Or is the best route via the Azores?

Dr. Eckener asked that question in 1930-'31, and for answer he went back to the Sailing Directions of Matthew Fontaine Maury. He found winds more constant and storms least frequent over the southern route. Long analyses and special tests led him to announce on March 30, 1931, that passengers should be taken on and off at New York, but that the hangar and base should be at some undetermined point along the Chesapeake. A little later he ruled out Baltimore because of the prevalence of fogs; on April 2, 1931, it was the privilege of the News Leader to announce that the choice of the proposed Zeppelin line had narrowed down to one between Richmond and Hybla Valley, near Alexandria.

That choice remains. Powerful as the trans-Atlantic airplanes will be, they will not be able indefinitly to cruise about after their landfall. They will need a terminus near the coast, at a point where prevailing weather conditions are favorable. To say that is to describe the Richmond airport. That, in turn, means that Richmond should bestir herself to interest the postoffice department in this city as the terminus of the trans-Atlantic air mail. It is not a case of entering a country-wide competition. Rather it is one of urging a proven and positive advantage.

FROM ONE COLUMNIST TO A NEW MEMBER.

Fraternal greetings and welcome to a brand new columnist, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt. It is said that the new columnist will receive so much pay for her column work that, added to her various newspaper and magazine writings and her radio work, it will raise her earnings to a point considerably higher than her husband's salary, which is $75,000 a year. That's pretty good. It's much more than most columnists get. I'm not saying it's more than I get for columning and I'm not saying it isn't. I'm just saying that $75,000 a year is more than most columnists get.

The new columnist hasn't asked me for any advice on running a column, but I warn her that no matter what nice letters she receives regarding what she has said in her column she'll get others stating with great emphasis the opinions of people who hold contrary opinions. She'll be handicapped a good deal by the fact that she can't talk as freely about a gentleman who is very much in the public eye and who is favorite material for paragraphs by other columnists.

She'll receive all sorts of contributions, of course, from poets and prose writers and may at times be at a loss as to which she should publish. I have found, Sister Columnist, that the plan I adopted as soon as I began conducting a column is still good. I open all the contributions and then holding them in my right hand I walk to the center of the office and hurl them with great violence straight up in the air. All that stick to the ceiling I take down with the aid of a stepladder and publish in the Line.

I have found this plan to fail only in the case of one contributor. I had received many letters from readers saying that poetry signed with a certain name was excessively reminiscent of the back porch garbage can. I immediately investigated and found that this poet wrote his poems on fly paper. Naturally his contributions remained clinging fast to the ceiling instead of fluttering down as they otherwise would. Since then I examine all contributions carefully to see that they contain no adhesive, glue, or were written on stickers, and I have had no further trouble.

Writing the last line, of course, is the most terrible chore a columnist has. It is much worse than eating a quail a day for thirty days. It would be much more like eating a quail a day for over three hundred days, for a columnist has to grind out a last line every day in the year except Sunday. I know many very brilliant column conductors who are sitting right now in the gloomy cells of insane asylums, and many of them in straitjackets, all because of the terrible strain of writing last lines.

But last lines must be written. There is no escape from it except by a little trick which I invented myself. I have never told this before to any columnist. Let them work out their own salvation the same way I had to do. But I don't mind telling the new columnist down in Washington. In fact, I consider it a duty, a privilege, and an honor. I write the last line first. You see, that makes it really very simple.

SONG FOR A NEW YEAR.

Time is turning over.
The winds will rage,
The fields wear sweet clover.
The stars will shine again
On kiss and quarrel,
Tangled as April rain
Sharper than sorrel.
Barley will stand tall
In August meadows
Where the robins call
In the warm shadows.
Man will know love
And hatred and pity.
War will be talked of
In a dark city.
This is a new year
God gave us over—
We will be safe here,
Darling and lover.

NANCY SHORES.

‡

AND THIS is the great question that confronts papa nowadays—shall he prove himself a man among men—a sturdy, a fearless champion of his own rights and liberties, strong, brave, and with a heart for any fate? Or shall he put on the necktie his wife bought him for Christmas and wear it down to the office?

‡

WE REGRET TO report that the good ship Water Wagon, which started on its annual voyage at midnight last night, was wrecked five minutes after it began the trip. The excursionists were searched by our vigilant officers at the door of the Water Wagon and everything in the nature of intoxicants was taken from them. But within a few blocks they swarmed from the wagon and drank all the alcohol we had put in the radiator to keep it from freezing. The chauffeur of the Water Wagon, being quite intoxicated when the voyage began, then ran the Water Wagon on a bar in the vicinity and told the bartenders to serve drinks to all the passengers. Which ended the trip of the Water Wagon for 1936.

There once was a city called "No!"
Yes, it's singular, but it is so;
Named thus short, clear and clever,
"No" should have lived ever,
But the Fates, so I fancy, said No.

AND SAY WHAT YOU WILL about New Year's day being so boisterous, you'll have to admit it has a certain charm. The little woman doesn't give friend husband any neckties on New Year's day.

How to Keep Well By Dr. Irving S. Cutter

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Cutter will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

"WISE TO RESOLVE, PATIENT TO PERFORM."

THE way to check a fire is to douse it with the proper extinguisher when the blaze is small. The problems of our fire fighters would be relatively simple could every blaze be combated at its very beginning. If disease can be detected before it has made substantial headway, and if proper treatment is then applied, the individual will be saved what may be an expensive illness and weeks or months of suffering. Disease is a two-edged sword. It deprives the person attacked of earning power and it costs something to care for him during the period of incapacity. For this reason all of us should be on the alert for those early signs of disease which, if neglected, too often spell disaster.

But, you say, what a fine theory. Perhaps it should be done, but only a small number will heed the warning, and anyway, the average individual knows so little about the initial symptoms of serious disease that he cannot distinguish between the trivial and the important. It should not be necessary to run to the physician with every ache and pain and we can make ourselves actually ill by giving too much attention to our physical well-being. However, we need have no fear that we will become a nation of neurotics or hypochondriacs merely through the possession of some knowledge of the early signs of disease.

In order that we may acquire the "inventory" habit a procedure is again suggested that has been rather widely adopted and that is becoming more general each year—that is, an annual physical checkup at the hands of a competent physician. It is his job then and there to locate incipient disease before it has started on a vicious rampage. If given the opportunity he can detect those minor conditions that are relatively simple to remedy.

The physician's examination should include a careful inspection of the general state of nutrition, the heart, the lungs, the gastrointestinal tract, the rectum [particularly in those in middle life and older], the cells of the blood, the blood pressure, and all possible foci of infection, particularly of the mouth, the nasal passages, and the throat.

Many no doubt fail to take advantage of an annual physical inventory largely because of the time involved. Physical data that are of value cannot be gathered hurriedly. Nevertheless, the average examination should not require more than one hour. Naturally, if disease is discovered, further investigation may be needed, but the number of cases demanding more than the minimum period will not be large.

Others may actually fear that serious disease will be found. How much better it is to detect tuberculosis before it has spread, heart failure before the symptoms have become manifest, or diabetes before serious consequences are in the offing.

A number of my friends have set themselves routinely to the procedure and are the better for it. They feel—and justifiedly so—that they are employing a physician to keep them well rather than to repair a wreck. Many of them will visit the doctor's office every six months, others once a year.

Neither concealment nor denial will check or cure disease. With the remarkable facilities made available by modern medicine, there are but few diseases that, once recognized, will not yield to proper management. When a disease condition becomes obvious to the patient's friends, it is usually too late.

It is no sign of great intelligence on the part of a successful business man to boast that he has not visited a physician in twenty years. Perhaps he has had no need to do so. On the other hand, according to the law of averages, some wear and tear has probably occurred, necessitating minor adjustments. The spirit of fair play requires that the physician be given a reasonable chance to maintain the health of his patients, for he is not a miracle worker. By training and experience he assists nature.

TEMPORARY INSANITY.

G. F. H. writes: Will you write something on temporary insanity?

REPLY.

There are many forms of insanity, some of which are curable. Symptoms differ with the type of the disease, although delusions or hallucinations, feelings of guilt, disturbances in judgment, and changes in personality occur in most cases. Some mental diseases are caused by organic diseases, such as syphilis, by alcoholic excesses, by certain bodily changes of middle life such as the menopause in women, by certain senile changes, and by constitutional lack of mental stability brought into prominence by an emotional crisis.

As a rule, hospital treatment is preferable to home care, at least until improvement begins.

QUINSY.

V. M. D. writes: I have had quinsy twice in five years. Do you think it advisable to have my tonsils out?

My throat was lanced three times for four abscesses in the last week, but all were on side of throat near tonsils and not on the tonsils themselves.

REPLY.

If your tonsils are not infected and do not cause you any trouble it is not necessary to have them removed. Make certain, however, that the abscesses in your throat were not caused by bad tonsils.

APPENDIX.

M. W. C. writes: Would an X-ray reveal the true condition of the appendix or show beyond a doubt that a person has chronic appendicitis?

REPLY.

An X-ray examination is helpful when chronic appendicitis is suspected—NEVER in acute appendicitis.

It may not determine positively the presence of chronic appendicitis. Its chief service is in confirming the diagnosis.

BARKING DOGS.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—I should like to know whether or not you have any means of stopping the persistent barking and yelping of fifteen or twenty dogs at a neighbor's in our vicinity. They seem to breed these dogs and keep them in during the night. However, early in the morning they are put out and allowed to yelp and howl all day. I am not well and require rest during the day, which is an impossibility while this condition exists. Would appreciate anything you might do in order to keep these dogs in or else quiet them so that one might have a little quiet when needed. R. A.

An officer interviewed owner of the dogs referred to. He stated that his wife owns a grown dog and four puppies, the adult dog now being in Boston, where he is being shown in a dog show. He also stated that in the absence of the mother dog the pups were put out in the yard in the daytime for an airing, but since he received some phone calls from neighbors regarding the barking of the pups, has been keeping them inside and there has been no further protest about the noise. The owner said no kennel is operated by him, that the breeding of the pups is a hobby with his wife, and when the litter is old enough to take from the mother they are passed on to friends. He stated when his wife returns he would inform her of the complaint and see that it is abated.

JAMES P. ALLMAN,
Commissioner of Police.

CCC EMPLOYMENT.

Chicago, Dec. 26.—[Friend of the People.]—When is the next enrollment in the CCC? What is the work of the company clerk in the CCC and qualifications? Does he, too, receive $1 a day? How should a person go about becoming a company clerk? E. J.

The next certification period for employment in the Civilian Conservation corps has been announced as the period from Jan. 2 to Jan. 16, 1936. Regulations of selection limit enrollments entirely to men who are members of families receiving relief at public agencies.

Company clerks are selected from the ranks of enrollees sent to that company. They are regular junior enrollees. Their beginning pay is that of an ordinary junior enrollee. However, many are subsequently rated as leaders or assistant leaders, which carries with it a proportional increase in pay. Since company clerks are selected from the group of regular enrollees, it is necessary to first qualify as a junior before becoming a clerk.

J. M. DAMGAARD,
Acting Director, Illinois Emergency Relief Commission.

TAX TITLE.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—We are interested in a small cottage and fifty feet of ground, worth about $2,000, on which no taxes have been paid for twenty years. Could a person get a clear title by paying up all the back taxes and penalties, that is, get title immediately without waiting two years to get tax title and seven years to get clear title? T. H.

No, assuming that a tax deed is outstanding. Ordinarily the advisable course would be to arrange for the state's attorney to foreclose tax forfeitures on the understanding that you would bid an agreed amount at the sale. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia.—Two competent observers, one representing an Italian university and the other a French business man, recently returned from a six weeks' visit to Moscow and Leningrad. Both have visited Russia frequently.

The opinions of these men are valued by their respective governments. They are usually asked to write reports of their impressions. After completing this journey they agreed that the most remarkable change in Russia during the past two years is the government's attempt to develop optimism and the spirit of nationalistic patriotism among the inhabitants.

The word "Russia" is no longer taboo in the soviet press and is being used by the higher commissars in their speeches. Emphasis is placed on "the great fatherland" whose fate is in the hands of "the dearly beloved genius, the great invincible leader, Comrade Stalin." Dictator Stalin's newest slogan, "Life has become easier, life has become joyous," is displayed everywhere.

"Since the revolution I have made four visits to Russia and this is the first time I found the soviet government paying some attention to the individual needs of the inhabitants," said the Frenchman. "The effort to establish heavy industry continues, but the Russians are concentrating on light industry. The government is giving the people more and better food. In Moscow and Leningrad we found no restrictions on the sale of bread and in some of the markets peasants were selling their produce. Prices were high, but there were plenty of buyers.

"Wives of industrial workers seemed to have the most money. These families can afford meat once or twice a week. Government employés are worse off than they were before. They are fortunate if they can afford meat twice a month. A mechanic employed in the AMO auto factory earns five times as much as a clerk employed in a ministry, three times as much as a druggist, and twice as much as a doctor. However, the standard of living of the Russian skilled worker is still far behind that of the workers in France.

"The soviet government during the past two years has converted Moscow and Leningrad into cities of youth. From Moscow they have evacuated more than 150,000 persons over 50 years of age and from Leningrad more than 100,000 citizens. The deportees were sent to villages. Some are starving, others obtained work. In Leningrad about 50,000 aged men and women were deported during the past year."

The Italian professor spoke of the housing problem in Russia.

"Although there has been a large amount of building construction in Moscow and Leningrad since the revolution, it will be years before the government will be able to solve the housing problem," he reported. "The amount of living space awarded to each citizen is 39 square feet. This space has not been altered in several years.

"The government's first attempts to erect communal dwellings with a single room for each family and equipped with communal kitchens, laundries, baths, and water closets proved a failure. In the new tenement blocks each family is allotted a room, kitchen, and water closet, but no bath. So far as I could discover there is no factory in Russia making bathtubs, although one is projected in the new five year plan. Porcelain bathtubs of pre-war vintage cost about 2,000 rubles, or more than a grand piano."

WHAT LIES AHEAD?

Chicago, Dec. 27.—War in Europe is no longer hypothetical. It is inevitable fact. Today the only questions are these: First, when will it come; second, what will the alliances be; third, will America participate, and lastly, whose will be the guilt?

At this time I believe the first question to be unanswerable. If the newspapers have helped to make a war more general they have also made war harder to justify. Public opinion must be aroused and that requires a definite casus belli. A Mediterranean incident similar to the sinking of the Maine would probably do the trick for Great Britain, while German allegiance to the Italians would undoubtedly force the opinion of France. This lineup would eventually involve all Europe in another holocaust, the result of which would be exhaustion and anarchy. European civilization, already decadent, would be dead.

The drafting of America into such a war is dependent on many tangible factors, of which national derivations is not the least. It is absurd to include America—with any logic—into such asininity, but it is equally absurd to be complacent about it. America had no business in the last war, but not only entered it, sacrificing American lives, but eventually paid for it almost in toto. This may have been idealism, but it was certainly criminal stupidity. We were flooded with British propaganda then and we are victims to it today and will be increasingly so tomorrow. Every European power has budgeted expenditures for the purchase of American sympathy, but the advantage of linguistic and psychological approach is with England.

The United States' lack of necessity for war is not an unmixed blessing: it creates maudlin sentimentality. The war cry of Poor Little Belgium is as likely to be Poor Little Ethiopia or Poor Little God-Knows-What as time carries on, and then we'll declare war on the side of the best ballyhoo and probably end up by standing the bills for the whole show, at the cost of ruinous taxation and political suicide. Where vital interests are not attacked there is no excuse for war.

England must take the blame for the next conflict. Nothing but selfish imperialism prompts her self-styled altruistic attitude. Defense of Ethiopia and preservation of the league are simply excuses for aligning power to preserve her influence in the Mediterranean. The league was threatened even more savagely when Japan bombarded Chapei and calmly annexed Manchuria through the most naive artifice in the world, and the same process is going on at present in Mongolia. Downing street seems undisturbed at this, yet the league's loss of prestige—if it ever had any—is just as imminent.

It is a time for realism. We are not an English colony nor any European colony, but a free and independent government with our own national aims. If it is time for the decay of one or more European powers it is not our affair, and nothing we could do would make our interference worth while to us. If England, or France, or Italy, or Germany wishes to commit national suicide, let them. Their life is their own.

As for us, we have a civilization and a culture. War kills both. As an archæologist I have seen that amply demonstrated. It depends on American armed neutrality whether the future generations will be born in a protective civilization or, barbarously, among the ruins of the twentieth century.

LAWRENCE T. K. GRISWOLD.

CHILDREN'S SAFETY.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—The Negroes of this country join with the rest of the American citizens in deploring the fact that Col. Lindbergh found it necessary to flee the country for the safety of his children, but we congratulate him that he had no difficulty in finding a haven and only wish that we might as easily find refuge where our children may not be burned alive.

MRS. C. R. LEWIS.

INCIDENT AT A USED CAR LOT.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—My husband owns a public garage. On Oct. 28 he sent our colored boy and our day man to a used car lot at 1616 South State street to purchase a used 1929 truck for use in our business. The sale was made and the owner of the used car lot had to go a few doors south to have the bill of sale notarized.

Our boy drove off the lot to meet the owner at the notary public's. He was at the driveway of the lot when a privately owned car pulled up and two policemen stepped out. They became abusive to the boy, asked where his license was, his rear view mirror, and vehicle tag. Our boy explained that he had just bought the truck and it was very much in need of repairs.

By this time our other man, who was driving my car, stepped in to intercede for the colored boy. He was told to keep his mouth shut or he'd be run in.

Well, the outcome was this: The boy was thrown in a cell with seasoned criminals, something that had never happened to him before. Business was delayed for three hours, a loss of at least $10, so that his boss could bail him out. His boss had to give a $30 bond for his release. Then when he was brought to trial he was fined $1 and $1 on each "offense," a total of $6.

And for what, may I ask? It is very plainly printed in the motor vehicle laws that we are given 24 hours' grace to obtain the license. This is in section 8.

We are striving desperately out here to keep our four men working. We don't need them, but we can't find the heart to put them on the street jobless. That $6 obtained by the city of Chicago unjustly meant a lot to us. It was food taken out of some one's mouth.

Please, officers of the law, stop picking on us law abiding citizens. Use your talents on big game.

MRS. G. MCCAULEY.

CAUGHT IN THE FLYPAPER.

Chicago, Dec. 28.—Referring to your editorial in today's TRIBUNE entitled "Spelling," may I recommend your advantageous employment of Dana Stewart to work in conjunction with your editorial and proofreading departments?

Reason: Young Mr. Stewart, standing alone, made a score of 197 out of 200 words, while the combined spelling efforts of your editorial writer and proofreader counted up only to 167 out of 172 words.

The words, of course, are "makeing," "accomplishement," "allmost," "tollerance," and "bonnett." We might justly add "turnament" on the list of errors, but I feel rather in accordance with THE TRIBUNE's word brevity campaign.

I'll bet Dana didn't miss on any of these.

FREE SPEECH.

New York, Dec. 26.—Let me assure your readers who are interested in the problem of rights for the American Indian that the Civil Liberties union will pursue, as suggested by Mrs. Flora Warren Seymour in your issue of Dec. 11, the revocation of the so-called gag order promulgated by Secretary Ickes last year, under which criticism of the government's Indian policies is penalized. We have already taken the matter up with the department of the interior.

ROGER BALDWIN,
Director, American Civil Liberties Union.

PULASKI AND CRAWFORD.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Now that the city fathers are about to embark upon a street name changing spree I wonder if it would not be possible for them to restore the name Crawford avenue.

Some one of the many streets to be renamed might well be called Pulaski. The city administration could erase the bitterness now existing on the west side by making Crawford avenue officially Crawford avenue again.

This is the third of a series of dispatches on the conditions, ambitions and purposes of Japan written by an assistant Washington correspondent of The Tribune.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Dec. 10.—[By Mail.]—The success or failure of Japan's ambitious plans for world supremacy will depend upon the domestic integrity of the empire. Whether the nation will hold together internally and keep the pace of imperialism set by its militarists, or fly to pieces under the terrific stress, is the question most frequently heard in the far east.

Until Commodore Perry's visit in 1853 Japan was an armed feudal camp, closed to the outside world save for the Dutch trading vessels at Nagasaki, and it was not until the world war that she emerged from an agricultural to an industrial nation. Today the products of her factories are shipped on Japanese bottoms all over the world and she is in a position to challenge the world trade of Great Britain and the United States, while her generals and admirals are reaching out for new territories and new supplies of raw materials.

The "Imperial Way."

"Kodo" is a Japanese shibboleth and the words "New Spirit" or "Japanese Spirit" are on the lips of every one. Kodo means the "imperial way," the execution of the imperial will, and this will is synonomous to the Japanese with the will of the sun goddess and the welfare of the nation. Kodo is not new in Japan, but it is used today with the same ambitious pride associated with the German "kultur" under the kaiser.

This exaltation of the emperor is the essence of Shintoism, in which the Japanese worship a single ancestor as common descendants of heaven. The principle of fidelity, however, also is rooted in Confucianism, which flourished under the shoguns, and the indifferent view of present misfortune which makes the Japanese willing to work for half a yen [14 cents] a day is the contribution of Buddhism.

Worries Over Trade.

These are factors that have accounted for the extraordinary industrial progress made in Japan since the world war, particularly since the world depression began in 1930. Today, however, there are signs of increasing discontent and Japan is confronted with two major problems—government finance and agriculture. Also her economists have begun to worry about the future of her world trade as she becomes more and more self-sufficient in raw materials.

For the first time since the world war Japan is about to close a year with an admitted favorable trade balance, the exports up to Dec. 10 being 2,431,038,000 yen and the imports 2,426,916,000 yen. Economists are inclined to question Japanese foreign trade figures, believing that the inclusion of invisible trade, smuggling and foreign remittance figures, etc., would have shown a favorable international balance for several years. Yet it is conceded that Japan could not have developed her vast export markets if she had not been making vast purchases of raw materials abroad.

Japan's imports of scrap iron alone have accounted for a large part of her payments abroad and these imports are said to have been sharply curtailed in the last four months because of rising prices and the fact that Japan has huge supplies on hand. Last year Japan imported 1,500,000 metric tons of scrap.

The most spectacular advance in Japanese industry since the seizure of Manchuria and the devaluation of the yen in 1931 has been made by the machine and tool makers and purveyors of war supplies. Aided by huge army and navy orders, the leading companies have expanded their plants and are enjoying an unprecedented boom, with the dividends of the nineteen principal concerns averaging 20 per cent. The companies are now developing export markets for machinery, for they realize that the enormous deficits occasioned by the military expenditures cannot go on indefinitly.

War Boom and Discontent.

This boom in the war supplies industry and the other large industries fostered and in many cases subsidized by the government is the chief source of discontent in Japan. The smaller industries and small business enterprises are not sharing in the war prosperity and labor is demanding higher wages, with increasing disputes and threats of strikes. Although the yen has dropped 66.06 per cent against gold [it is now 28¾ cents in terms of Roosevelt dollars] since 1931, there have been no wage increases and in some cases, notably the textile industry, there have been decreases. This has been offset considerably, however, by the fact that the internal value of the yen has fallen only 10.3 per cent since 1931.

More discontented than the industrial workers in present day Japan are the farmers, who are heavily burdened with debt and bear a disproportionate share of the taxes. In 1932, the most recent year for which figures are available, the average annual income per farm household of five and a half persons was 388 yen, leaving a deficit of 221 yen and increasing the average indebtedness to 837 yen. The distress of the cocoon farmers, made acute by the depression in the United States, has been somewhat relieved by an increase of 70 to 80 per cent in the price of raw silk in the last two years, but there was a crop failure in the northeastern district this year.

Assist Rice Farmers.

The government has been assisting the rice farmers by purchasing huge supplies in good crop years and selling in short crop years, with an accumulated loss to date of 150 to 200 million yen in such operations. This year the government is selling at a profit, but the farmers in the drouth and typhoon stricken areas are suffering.

Japanese farmers also have been affected by the industrialization of the country, which deprived them of small sideline industries, such as reeling raw silk, spinning cloth, the cultivation and preparation of natural indigo and sugar refining. Since the developmet of industry has been accomplished by government subsidy, paid largely by the farmers in the form of taxes or tariffs, the farmers are demanding subsidies for themselves and there are increasing protests against government spending and the tax burden. The taxes paid by farmers, in percentage of income, range from 31.4 per cent on 500 yen to 28 per cent on 2,000 yen, while the manufacturer pays 17.7 per cent in each bracket. On 5,000 yen a farmer pays 1,394, while a city dweller, manufacturer or merchant pays only 700.

Fear Inflation.

Back of all these problems confronted by Japan is the specter of inflation. Japan's accumulated deficits, averaging around 800,000,000 yen a year and financed by the sale of so-called "red ink" bonds, have passed the 10,000,000,000 yen mark and the interest payment alone on this indebtedness is around 400,000,000 yen a year. This is almost a fifth of the prospective revenue of 2 billion 200 million yen for the 1936-'37 fiscal year. This may seem trivial compared with the prospective 35 billion dollar debt of the United States, but it is not regarded as sound finance by some of Japan's leading statesmen.

JAPANESE LINKS 'CO-OPERATIVES' TO CHURCH LIFE

Tells Gathering How to Apply "Golden Rule."

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—The place of religion in the movement to establish consumers' coöperatives throughout the country was discussed all day today by delegates to the Federal Council of Churches' three day meeting, which opened here yesterday.

Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese evangelist and labor organizer, opened the morning session by declaring that Christianity and the coöperative movement are completely interlocked. The church, he asserted, is the agency able to give the impetus for making the golden rule applicable, but that consumers' coöperatives offer the technique; that coöperatives cannot succeed without religion and Christianity will fail without the coöperatives.

Working Examples Cited.

Examples of how religious leadership in various sections is functioning in connection with coöperatives were cited. Among these is a consumers' grocery run mainly by faculty members of the University of Chicago. Another is a boarding coöperative operated by divinity students of the University of Chicago where three meals a day are furnished for a daily cost of less than 40 cents.

Examples were cited of Catholic priests who have established credit unions or coöperative banks in their communities.

Whole Town Goes Coöp.

The Rev. Ellis Cowling of Thorntown, Ind., told of how conservatism of tradesmen of his community is being overcome, and how, as a pastor, he was able to turn practically the whole community of Gurnee, Ill. [four miles west of Waukegan], over to the coöperative movement.

The Rev. Mr. Cowling told the federal council leaders that before leaving Gurnee about a year ago, he learned that some of his formerly conservative church officials had voted for Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for president, adding that practically the whole community now buys its supplies from the consumers' coöperative store in Waukegan.

BEAR MEETS DOG IN A CANDY SHOP; WHAT A WRECK!

When Steve Stevens, a gypsy from Lyons, led his brown dancing bear into the confectionery of Andrew Bauman at 2665 Lincoln avenue last night he had no intention of causing trouble. All he wanted was a can of tobacco.

Bauman's police dog recognized that Stevens had a right to buy tobacco. But he could not understand what the bear wanted unless it was a fight, which he proceeded to furnish. He nipped bruin on one ear and got a heavy slap in return. A peanut and popcorn machine was smashed in their struggle. So was a showcase.

When a riot call was sent to the Sheffield avenue police station a squad under Sergt. Anthony De Grazio was sent to the scene. With the aid of Stevens and Bauman the battling animals were separated. Then the bear and the gypsy were loaded into a patrol wagon and taken to the station, where Stevens was released after promising to pay for the damage to the store.

BAILIF'S THROUGH WITH DRAG STARS; CALLS THEM IN

Municipal Court Bailif Albert J. Horan yesterday ordered all "I Gotta Drag" stars reading "Personal staf—Municipal court bailif," handed in to him. His action followed the confiscation of such a star held by Samuel Klein, 1380 Chase avenue, last Saturday by Judge John Gutknecht of the Trafic court after Klein was arrested for driving without a 1935 or 1936 city wheel tax sticker.

When asked yesterday if he would issue any "I Gotta Drag" stars to business men or department friends during 1936, Horan said: "Positively never again."

"There were only about 15 courtesy stars out in my department," Horan said, adding that he had never favored the custom. "They didn't mean anything," he said. "I think the men must have bought them some place just to collect stars."

VENEZUELAN WAR CHIEF ELECTED TO PRESIDENCY

PORT-OF-SPAIN, Trinidad, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Amid a near-riot in Venezuela's house of congress, Minister of War Eleazar Lopez Contreras today was elected president of the republic in succession to the late Gen. Juan Vicente Gomez, said reports reaching here.

A mob of shouting spectators had to be removed by force from the building before the congress could name Lopez as temporary successor to the aged dictator who died two weeks ago after 27 years of uninterrupted rule.

The minister of war, acting president since Gomez died, will serve until Gomez's term expires in April. He was one of the chief lieutenants of the late president, and it was his firm hand that kept down revolution after Gomez's death.

German Envoy to France Is Taken by Death at 52

BEGIN ORGANIZING FOR A ROOSEVELT BIRTHDAY EVENT

Chicago Group to Sponsor Anti-Paralysis Benefit.

Organization of a committee to plan a Chicago celebration of President Roosevelt's 54th birthday on Jan. 30 to raise money to combat infantile paralysis was announced here yesterday.

The announcement was made by Col. A. A. Sprague, who has agreed to serve as a co-chairman of the committee. Frank J. Lewis and Barnet Hodes are other co-chairmen.

Mayor Kelly has been named as honorary chairman of the group, with R. J. Dunham and James B. McCahey serving as vice chairmen. Invitations to several score business and civic leaders have been sent out, asking them to serve on the committee, Col. Sprague stated.

$30,000 Raised Last Year.

Those who already have accepted are Walter J. Cummings, Britten I. Budd, Edward E. Brown, Gen. Charles G. Dawes, Bernard Majewski, D. F. Kelly, Laurance H. Armour, Henry Pope, John P. Wilson for Children's Memorial hospital, Charles H. Schweppe for St. Luke's hospital, and Alfred T. Carton for Presbyterian hospital.

There have been no committee meetings to decide what form the celebration will take, Col. Sprague stated. Last year there were a series of balls held in conjunction with many others throughout the country.

Chicago celebrations last year raised a total of $30,762.57. Of this $9,288.77 was turned over to the national committee and $21,982, plus donations from the committee which brought it to a round figure of $22,000 was allocated to local institutions to be used for crippled children.

Plan Is Doherty's Idea.

The plan of birthday balls is fathered by Henry L. Doherty, president of Cities Service company, which along with other utility companies is strongly opposed to the administration's holding company act and power programs. In an exchange of letters with Doherty, President Roosevelt approved of this year's celebration.

Head of the Chicago committee last year was Howard Gillette, who is western representative of the Chase National bank of New York. He has refused to head the committee or to be a member of it, feeling that politics is too much tied up with it, he recently stated.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

Pig Kitchen.

December 31, 1935.

THE "pig kitchen" is one of the most popular places for midwinter visitors at the Tribune Experimental farm near Plano and Yorkville. In a huge steaming caldron in one corner of the kitchen tasty meals are prepared twice a day for the sows and their litters of belted Hampshires and Chester White pigs.

Each night and morning, with the regularity of an army mess sergeant, the "chef" in charge of the hogs kindles the fire under the big black kettle and stirs up a fresh batch of hot gruel or swill as carefully as a master cook would concoct one of Mary Meade's prize recipes. Every porker gets in line at the trough, with snout set to gulp down the first splash of warm swill. All the pig Latin in the caretaker's vocabulary will not produce good trough manners when these hogs, with typical zero weather appetites, have a chance to eat cooked swill made from ground oats or buckwheat.

The swill made from grain is appetizing and easy to prepare. It is made at the farm by pouring three bushels of ground oats into the caldron with about fifty gallons of water. The caldron is refilled after each feed and the swill is allowed to cook slowly until the next feeding time.

For example, the swill that is to be fed in the morning is put into the caldron at night. A slow fire is kept going under the kettle or caldron day and night.

The swill is fed in troughs. Two sows and pigs. Pigs are started on the swill when they are about three weeks old. In the hog house at the present time two sows and their litters are kept in each stall or pen and allowed to eat from the same trough.

Swill made from ground oats, rolled oats, and ground buckwheat will be fed to the brood sows and their pigs this winter. The farm manager is finding this a profitable way of utilizing the light weight oats grown last summer when a heavy crop of straw was raised at the expense of grain. The oats are about ten pounds to the bushel under the normal weight of thirty-two pounds to the bushel. The buckwheat to be fed this spring was left over from the 1934 crop.

Since fewer oats are needed at the Yorkville farm to feed work animals it has been necessary to find new ways of using them. The manager finds oats useful in the cropping system followed at the farm. Oats when sold for cash bring little and it is considered best to use them as feed on the farm.

Tests at the Illinois experiment station lead investigators to the conclusion that oats can be used extensively in place of corn in the ration of sows that are to produce pigs, and this may be done without noticeably reducing the efficiency of the ration. They may also be used in sows' rations during the suckling period but to a less extent than during the period before the pigs are born. They found that for growing-fattening pigs one-third of the ration may consist of oats without reducing the rate of gain compared with the rate when corn is used.

The Illinois tests with more than a thousand pigs also revealed that grinding 100 pounds of oats before feeding them saved about twenty-seven pounds of feed compared with the amount used when whole oats are fed in rations that are otherwise similar. The investigators concluded that "only when oats are as cheap as corn per pound will a ration that contains oats in any form produce as cheap gains as will a ration of corn and a protein supplement."

It has been found that oats make an excellent addition to the ration of sows during the first week after farrowing, when they may be used to the extent of half the ration. Trouble often develops where sows are fed a heavy grain ration immediately after farrowing because more milk is produced than the pigs need.

At the end of the first week after farrowing experts recommend that the amount of oats in the ration be gradually reduced, replacing the oats with less bulky feed. After the pigs are ten days or two weeks old the sow's ration may be made up from one-third to one-half oats.

DEMOCRATS HOPE TO RAISE $20,000 ON BANQUET HERE

Probably $20,000, it is estimated, will be raised for the Democratic national committee by a Chicago Jackson day dinner at the Drake hotel on Jan. 8.

Following the suggestion of National Chairman James A. Farley, the Cook county Democratic central committee has arranged for a banquet with tickets at $25 each. Everything above the actual costs connected with the spread, which it is said will be between $18 and $20 on each ticket, will go to the party's national treasury. It is believed the attendance will pass the 1,000 mark.

Efforts are being made to obtain as the speaker of the evening either Senator Harry A. Moore of New Jersey or Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi.

MOST OF RADIO DIALECT SMACKS OF THE MIDWEST

Southern Accent Second, Voice Teachers Told.

What sort of speech does America hear over the radio?

This was the question answered yesterday before the National Association of Teachers of Speech, meeting in its 20th annual convention at the Stevens hotel, by Miss Johnnye Akin Fenn, director of the Children's theater at Louisiana State university, who presented a report on the diction of 177 radio voices during the last year, including phonetic transcriptions of the recorded voices. Miss Fenn's survey disclosed that 46 per cent of the radio diction is in the "general American" or midwestern dialect, 24 per cent in southern dialect, 9 per cent in eastern dialect, and 6 per cent in mixed dialect.

Announcers Good.

She also reported that American listeners hear good diction from radio announcers; that they hear "stage [British] speech" or character dialects, often rendered indifferently well, from radio dramatists, that too often they hear faulty diction from microphone public speakers and that from radio humorists they hear the great untrained voice of America.

"A negligible number of announcers," said Miss Fenn, "used incorrect pronunciation and almost all were consistent in keeping to the specific regional dialect they were using, but many used typical regional dialects rather than standard ones."

By "typical" dialects, she explained, is meant a dialect full of local peculiarities and errors, such as the excrescent "r" in New England ["idear" for "idea"], the dipthonized and triphthonized vowels of the south ["ye-y-yus" for "yes"] and the blurred "r" of the middle west. The "one tap trill" of New England, such as "fer-r-ry" for "ferry," is, however, considered standard.

Public Speakers Careless.

Phonetic transcriptions showed that radio public speakers are not as careful of either pronunciation or enunciation as radio announcers, due perhaps, she suggested, to the rigid training now required of announcers.

At the convention of the American Speech Correction association, meeting concurrently with the teachers of speech, Dr. Meyer Solomon of the Northwestern university medical school, offered a new theory of stuttering. Stuttering, he said, is not due to lefthandedness, structural imperfections or nervous inhibitions, but to disorders of the total personality, with emotional reactions showing in all the body.

POISON COATED CANDY IS FOUND; CASE IS INTACT

The case of stolen candy coated with arsenic preservative was found yesterday—its 400 samples untouched—under a porch at 1065 Thorndale avenue. The case was taken on Monday night from the automobile of Otto B. Ruwoldt as it stood at 1005 Thorndale avenue. Ruwoldt lives at the Bryn Mawr hotel, 5530 Winthrop avenue, and is a salesman for the E. H. Wakefield Candy company, Joplin, Mo. He immediately set the police on a city-wide search for the samples, warning that the arsenic coating would cause illness or death.

Former Judge Cutting, 81, Is Better After Operation

Charles S. Cutting, judge of the Probate court from 1899 to 1914 and now a member of the law firm of Cutting, Moore & Sidley, was recovering yesterday at the Presbyterian hospital from what was termed by his associates as a relatively minor operation. The operation was performed two days before Christmas and yesterday hospital attachés said that his condition had improved so that he was able to walk. Mr. Cutting is 81 years old.

TRUCK AND CARGO STOLEN.

BLIMP FORCED DOWN BY FIRE; 6, CREW ESCAPE

Miami, Fla., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Six passengers were brought down safely and 122,000 cubic feet of helium gas released today when the pilot of the Goodyear blimp Puritan smelled smoke and made an emergency landing.

Pilot R. J. Blair noticed the smoke coming from a short circuit in the battery and made a quick descent. After helping the passengers out the crew jerked the rip cords and released the costly helium.

ITALIANS BOMB RED CROSS UNIT; KILL 9 SWEDES

Stockholm Is Angered by Reported Atrocity.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Dec. 31.—(AP)—A report that a Red Cross unit of 32 persons was wiped out by a bombardment from Italian airplanes was received here today.

Ras Desta Demtu, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie and the Ethiopian commander in the south, said in a wireless message that nine Swedes and 23 Ethiopians were killed in the rain of bombs. The men made up an ambulance unit.

Ethiopia only yesterday protested to the league of nations against alleged use of asphyxiating tear gases by the Italians. This was called a violation of the Washington treaty of 1922 and the Geneva protocol of 1925.

Recalls Atrocity Charges.

An Ethiopian religious leader, the abuna, or archbishop, today telegraphed an appeal to leaders of Christian religions throughout the world to unite in "condemning the sacrilegious act" of the Italian army during its reported retreat from Abbi Addi in the north. Ethiopians assert the Fascists burned all churches in that region.

There have been frequent other Ethiopian charges, some to the league, that the Italians have bombed defenseless civilian populations, killing women and children.

Foreign doctors and newspaper men reported that an American hospital and Red Cross tents were struck when Dessye was bombed several weeks ago. Italy formally denied this and later warned Ethiopia, through the league, not to store munitions and ammunition under the protection of the Red Cross insignia.

Sweden Is Angered.

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 31.—News of the Italian bombing of the Swedish Red Cross ambulance unit at Dolo stunned Sweden today. Prince Carl, president of the Swedish Red Cross, immediately summoned leaders of that organization to a meeting, which was still in progress tonight.

The Swedish consul general at Addis Ababa was ordered to go to Dolo. The news of the bombing spoiled New Year's eve celebrations throughout the country, which is boiling with bitterness and wrath. The Swedish minister at Rome was ordered to report officially on the affair, and it is anticipated that strong protests will be made at Rome and Geneva.

Newspapers generally do not appear on New Year's day, but tradition is being broken and extra editions will appear tomorrow. Newspapers unanimously condemn Italy.

Calls Bombing Barbarous.

The conservative Nya Dagligt Allehanda accuses Italy of "violating its honor in committing acts of war against noncombatants, a crime which demonstrates the brutality of Italian warfare and leaves a permanent stain on the Italian coat of arms. Mussolinian warfare is barbarous."

Dagens Nyheter, leading liberal paper, proposes that sending a new ambulance would be the proper answer to the "unheard of outrage." Dagens Nyheter tomorrow will publish a statement by the ministers of Norway and Finland. Throughout the world, the former says, opinion will grow stronger against Italy. Norway, who herself has an ambulance in Ethiopia, will react with particular strength, he says. The Finnish minister declares all countries smart for the blow dealt Sweden.

ITALIAN MOB STORMS 'ETHIOPIAN' CABARET ON FRENCH RIVIERA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NICE, France, Dec. 31.—American and British visitors on the Riviera, celebrating New Year's eve in the Harlemesque setting of Nice's newest night club, the Negus, got a scare when a mob of Italian women stormed the establishment and mauled a colored porter. Police dispersed the demonstration.

Italian residents along the frontier resented the opening of the night club, with its black entertainers and its allegedly Ethiopian decorations, as an insult to Italy. The proprietor received a dozen letters from Italians threatening that the place would be bombed if he did not close it before New Year's eve.

FRANCE PREPARES NAVY

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Following on the heels of Premier Laval's statement in the chamber of deputies Saturday that the French and British naval, air, and army staffs were actively working on plans for mutual support in the case of an Italian attack, it was learned tonight that the French Mediterranean fleet is quietly being put in readiness for eventualities.

The fleet, it was stated, already is on a war time footing except in one important respect—the ships still are manned only with peace time effectives.

The reason for this is to avoid a partial mobilization which might seem a provocation to the Italians—more so because under French law it is impossible to call naval reservists to the colors discreetly, as the British did.

While it would be several days, owing to mobilization, before the French fleet could put to sea, measures have been taken to put the French naval bases, mainly Toulon in France, Bizerte in Tunis, and Ajaccio in Corsica, at the disposition of the British fleet the moment hostilities break out. Huge stocks of munitions and oil have been laid in and the yards are in readiness to receive British ships damaged in battle.

NEW TROUBLE IN EGYPT

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 31.—Nessim Pasha, premier of Egypt, today was publicly humiliated by Cairo students who are resuming their independence agitation, after two weeks of calm, on the grounds that he is too friendly with the British.

Nessim's car, as he approached the university buildings on the west bank of the Nile river, where the convention meetings were being held, was suddenly surrounded by students who had been lying in wait.

Scream "Traitor" at Premier.

They forced the driver to halt while they screamed "Traitor, renegade British agent." They piled on top of the luxurious limousine and shook their fists in Nessim's face. The latter's nerves were so shaken that he ordered the driver to return home and the convention opened without him.

The students then crowded into the auditorium and took charge of the proceedings, which they turned into an Egyptian Nationalist demonstration.

HUEY'S MUZZLE ON PRESS UP TO SUPREME COURT

13 Newspapers Attack 2 Per Cent Levy.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.—The late Huey Long's attempt to muzzle the Louisiana press which opposed his dictatorship was attacked in a brief filed in the Supreme court today by Attorneys Esmond Phelps and Elisha Hanson, representing thirteen Louisiana newspapers.

The high court was asked to declare unconstitutional the law which the Long machine passed in 1934, avowedly as a revenge measure against the newspapers which fought his rule. The act was ruled invalid by a federal court, but the state supervisor of public accounts appealed the decision which granted an injunction restraining enforcement of the law.

Levies on Advertising.

The act provided for the assessment of a tax of 2 per cent of the gross advertising receipts of all newspapers having a circulation of more than 20,000 copies per week. Only 13 of the 163 publications in Louisiana were affected. These papers were published by the Times-Picayune Publishing company, Item company, Capital City Press, Journal Publishing company, News-Star-World Publishing company, Times Publishing company, American Press company, McCormick & Co., and Lafayette Advertiser-Gazette.

Taxes amounting, in the case of some of the 13 newspapers, to more than $1,500 a month would have been collected under the act, the brief explained.

All Active Opponents.

All the newspapers actively campaigned against the Long group, the brief continued, and at the session of the legislature in 1934 Gov. Oscar K. Allen and Senator Long told members that the proposed act was "a tax on lying, 2 cents a lie."

Arguing that the law clearly abridges the freedom of the press, the attorneys in their brief declared:

"A fundamental issue in this case is whether the legislature has the power to levy a gross receipts tax on the advertising portion only of the business of the press, which in effect is a tax upon the press itself, and to make such a tax a condition precedent to a license to do business in the state of Louisiana.

No Power, They Insist.

"These appellees contend that the legislature has no such power. Both the constitution of the United States and the constitution of the state of Louisiana prohibit the abridgement of the freedom of the press in any such manner.

"The framers of the constitution were familiar with every conceivable effort to restrain the press, including licensing, censorship, taxation, writs of attachment, seditious libel and injunction proceedings. Taxation as a form of restraint was well known and particularly obnoxious to our forefathers.

"Two distinguished writers have stated that the American revolution really began in 1765 when the British government sent the stamps for newspaper duty to the American colonies."

Gives Power to Destroy.

The power to tax the press is the power to destroy it, and such power cannot be exercised by a legislature in violation of constitutional prohibitions, the attorneys contended. Newspapers have but two principal sources of revenue, circulation and advertising revenue, which constitute the life blood of a newspaper, they declared, and "anything which depletes the revenues of a newspaper from either source impairs the ability of that paper to serve its function.

"If the legislature can tax advertising, when published in a newspaper, it can tax news, or it can tax editorial comment as and when they are published."

Court Ends Second Year; Praised by Courtney.

The automobile theft branch of the Municipal court over which Judge Joseph A. Graber has presided since it was organized, completed the second year of its existence yesterday. Records were made public showing that auto thefts in Chicago have been reduced from an average of 76 a day in 1933 to 13.5 a day at present and that car strippings have been cut from 38 a day to less than one a day.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney visited Judge Graber's court in the criminal court building and congratulated him on the record. "You have done a fine job," he said, "and I hope you stay and that the court continues."

Called Result of Teamwork.

The judge credited the court's effectiveness to coöperation between the automobile court and the prosecutor's office. He said that "fences" made automobile thievery possible and that in the two years the court has been in operation the fences have been virtually driven out of business. Judge Graber said that in 1933, the last year prior to the inauguration of the court, 27,891 automobiles were stolen in Chicago.

"This figure," he said, "was reduced in 1934 to 12,164 stolen cars, an average of about 33 a day. This year only 5,068 cars had been stolen up to Sept. 1 and current figures show the yearly average will be 13.5 stolen automobiles a day.

Insurance Cost Slashed.

"To the motoring public the benefits of this record were reflected in a 59 per cent reduction in auto theft insurance in two years. To the community as a whole the benefits were shown in a reduction in crime because stolen automobiles are the wheels of crime."

Records of the trafic court, made public by Judge John Gutknecht, disclosed yesterday there were 148,500 trafic violations during the year, 142,000 of which resulted in fines totaling $383,000. Court attachés said most of the money was used for medical care for 7,000 persons injured by hit and run drivers.

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 31.—(AP)—The Australian government ordered today a search by sea and air for the steamer Paringa which disappeared in a Christmas eve storm. The vessel with three British officers and a crew of 26 Chinese was feared to have foundered swiftly, without being able to send distress signals.

The report stated $2,290,321.18 remained to be refunded. Expenses of distributing the refund were put at $2,575,412.89, and it was pointed out in the report that at one time as many as 2,000 clerks were employed. AUTO CRASHES THROUGH BRIDGE RAIL; DRIVER DIES

County Trafic Toll 1,011; Lowest Since 1927.

Watrous Cole, 46 years old, 15500 Woodlawn avenue, South Holland, was killed last night when his automobile skidded on an old wooden bridge over the Little Calumet river at 153d street in South Holland, crashed through a railing, and fell into the stream.

In its downward plunge the car overturned and its top went through the thin ice of the river. Firemen from Harvey and South Holland found it with only the wheels above the surface. They dragged the vehicle out after an hour's work and found the body of Cole inside. He was married and the father of twins, Edward and Evelyn, 5 years old.

Last Death of Year.

Charles Hoth, 54 years old, 5132 George street, Niles Center, was fatally injured at 11:30 p. m. when he was struck by an automobile in Carpenter road near Howard street, Niles Center. He was the last auto fatality of 1935. Raymond D. Burnet, 43 years old, 235 Warwick road, Kenilworth, driver of the car, was arrested on a charge of manslaughter.

The first automobile fatality of the new year was that of Alden Suneson, 19 years old, 7407 Rhodes avenue. He was killed early today by a hit and run car when walking in Western avenue near 119th street. Suneson's companions said the car was going at a high speed which the driver did not slacken after striking Soneson.

Year's Toll Lowest Since 1927.

The death of Hoth and Cole and three others yesterday raised Cook county's 1935 trafic fatality toll to 1,011, the lowest number of deaths in any year since 1927. In 1927, when 969 died, fatalities were below 1,000 for the last time.

Yesterday's other victims:

Mrs. Augusta Swanson, 74 years old, of 819 East 80th street was killed at 7:30 p. m. when she was struck by an automobile while walking across Cottage Grove avenue at 80 street. The car was driven by Christian T. Andersen, 39 years old, of 8111 Langley avenue, a steamship agent.

Alvin J. Gold, 45 years old, 1715 Ridge road, Homewood. Fatally injured last night when an automobile he was driving north crashed head-on into a southbound street car in front of 10545 South Western avenue. He died soon afterward in the Little Company of Mary hospital.

Stanley Styczynski, 53 years old, 1746 West 17th street. Killed when a truck skidded from an icy road in the yards of the North Western railroad, 14th street and South Western avenue, and crushed him against a coal car. He died before he reached St. Luke's hospital.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, according to the coroner's office, 785 were killed and 17,790 were injured within the city limits of Chicago during the year.

The Evanston police announced that yesterday was the 218th consecutive day without a fatal automobile accident in the city's streets.

15 BROADCASTERS TO STUDY INSULL CONTRACT TODAY

Central western broadcasters, who have been invited to join Samuel Insull in organizing a new regional network to be called the Affiliated Broadcasting company, will meet at 12:30 p. m. today in the Hotel Sherman to inspect contracts offered them by the promoters. The 15 station owners have retained Francis M. King of the firm of Schuyler and Weinfeldt to handle their interests.

At 3 p. m. they are scheduled to meet Mr. Insull and Ota Gygi, promoter, in the ABC offices atop the Opera building at 20 Wacker drive. Contracts may be signed at this session. Stations in Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana are to be represented in the conferences today.

Observers at the federal communications commission in Washington said yesterday the new Affiliated company had filed no application there.

BELIEVE BOMBS HAVE STOPPED LAVA PROGRESS

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Returning from an airplane flight over Mauna Loa volcano, Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, government expert, said today there was a definite indication that last week's aerial bombardment had stopped the progress of lava flowing from the crater.

This indication, he said, was a report by Dr. E. Yoshimura that he saw a glow last night high on the mountain. Dr. Jaggar explained this showed, if confirmed, that the bombs caused the collapse of tubes out of which the lava flowed, forcing it to seek an outlet higher up on the slopes. The flow was stationary today about 14 miles from Hilo.

4 LOSE LIVES AS PASSENGER TRAIN HITS CAR

Wrights, Ill., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Four men were killed today when a Burlington passenger train struck their automobile at Doyle's crossing, a short distance south of here.

The four, all farmers, were en route to Carrollton to attend a sale. They were Paul Scott, 28, who is survived by his widow and two children; Howard Scott, 37, who leaves a widow and one child; Benjamin Stinnett, 30, the father of three small children, and Emil Kirgan, 31, who had a wife and one child.

Three Die as Cars Crash.

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—On her way to a party in her honor, Mrs. John M. Nelson of Springfield and two other persons were killed in an automobile accident on a snowy highway near Farmer City. Her husband was injured.

The others killed were the occupants of the other car, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Nelson of Detroit. They were not related to the Springfield people.

SUPREME COURT NAMES CONTACT MAN FOR PRESS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—(AP)—The Supreme court made another surrender today to a modern demand—and appointed a "press contact man," the tribunal's first in the 146 years of its existence.

Veteran court employés, who explained the appointment in the absence of an official announcement, emphasized that the new official was neither a "press agent," nor a "public relations counsellor."

And contrasting with younger government agencies, where "press agents" seldom are known by that title, the court attachés added that there would be no "handouts," or "press releases."

They explained that Nelson A. Potter, of the clerk's staf had been designated to handle queries from hundreds of newswriters seeking information on court moves that have captured public attention, especially since the New Deal controversies began pouring into the tribunal.

DEMOCRAT FOES OF ROOSEVELT PUSH CAMPAIGN

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 31.—(AP)—With the active support of Governor Eugene Talmadge, plans were taking shape today for the formal launching of a campaign by Democrats opposed to the renomination of President Roosevelt.

The governor announced last night that delegates from 17 southern states would meet in Macon, Ga., soon to coördinate anti-New Deal sentiment of "rock-ribbed, Jeffersonian Democrats."

The convention date and apportionment of delegates will be arranged at a conference here Saturday with John H. Kirby of Houston, Tex., who heads an organization called the Southern Democrats for Preservation of the Constitution.

Gov. Talmadge said the Macon meeting would be a regular convention and that a declaration of principles would include many planks of the 1932 Democratic platform which he charges President Roosevelt has failed to carry out.

Meanwhile, Georgia watched with speculation tonight the coming of a new year placing financial dictatorship in the hands of Gov. Talmadge.

The failure of the 1935 legislature to pass an appropriations act for 1936-'37 left in the governor's hands control of the purse strings holding the state's $20,000,000 annual revenue.

How Talmadge plans to manage the state in the face of a constitutional clause saying "no money shall be drawn from the treasury except by appropriation made by law" is still a conjecture.

The governor retained the silent, confident attitude that has marked his activities since the adjournment of the legislature.

"A state that doesn't owe anything and has plenty of money can operate," he said.

Withal, 1935 Averages Up Close to Normal.

Odd and unusual weather visited Chicago with more than ordinary frequency last year, it is recalled in the official summary of 1935 made public yesterday by the United States weather bureau here. For instance:

1. Thunderstorms occurred in January and February.

2. It "snowed mud" twice in March.

3. Thermometers registered the highest temperature on record for so early and so late in any season—72 degrees on March 15, and 78.4 on Oct. 31.

4. February and November each set new records for maximum cloudiness, the proportion of possible sunshine in each month being 26 per cent.

5. May was the third wettest and third coolest May of record.

6. The month just past was the coldest December since 1925.

Averages Up About Normal.

For the year, viewed as a whole, however, the city's weather was not much off normal. The mean temperature for the twelve months was 49.6. This was only .3 of a degree above the average mean for 64 years. The number of days with temperatures above 90 degrees was ten, the average for all years.

The highest temperature of the year was 95 degrees on July 19 and the lowest 7 below zero on Jan. 24. There were seven below zero days. It should be pointed out that since 1920 the average mean annual temperature has been higher than the average mean for the preceding 49 years, and that 1935 marked a return toward lower average temperature.

Total precipitation for the year was 37.73 inches, compared to a normal of 32.86 inches.

A Rather Cloudy Twelvemonth.

Snowfall, however, was light, reaching a total of only 26.5 inches as compared to the normal 33.4 inches. The percentage of sunshine over the year was 53; normal is 58 per cent.

There were 140 days on which rain or snow fell, 27 more than normal. Clear days numbered 87; partly cloudy days, 101, and cloudy days, 177; the normal calls for 118 clear, 124 partly cloudy and 123 cloudy.

Winds blew from the northeast 17.3 per cent of the time, southwest 16.7 per cent, west 14 per cent, northwest 13 per cent, south 12 per cent, east 10 per cent, southeast 10 per cent and north 7 per cent. In most years the prevailing wind is from the southwest.

Monthly summaries follow:

JANUARY—Warmer and wetter than usual, with more rain than snow. There were dense fogs on the 6th, 7th and 8th and an ice glaze and a thunderstorm on the 16th.

FEBRUARY—Comparatively mild and dry, with only one clear day, however. There were two thunderstorms on the 14th.

MARCH—Warmer and wetter than usual, but with only two sunless days. Several days of this month brought dust storms.

APRIL—Coolest since 1926, with winds off the lake 77 per cent of the time. Precipitation was 60 per cent of normal.

MAY—Total rainfall was 7.09 inches. Three inches of precipitation on May 12-13 set a May record. Winds came off the lake 78 per cent of the time, making the month abnormally cool.

JUNE—Coolest since 1929, with maximum temperature of 84, and wettest since 1928. Percentage of possible sunshine was only 57.

JULY—Fourth warmest on record.

AUGUST—Warmer and wetter than normal, with many thundershowers.

SEPTEMBER—The fifth sunniest of record.

OCTOBER—Normal in mean temperature and drier than usual. A new record for high barometric pressure, 30.69 [reduced to sea level], was set on the 6th.

NOVEMBER—Only 15 minutes of sunshine were noted from the 11th to the 19th, inclusive. Only January, 1914, and December, 1929, have had lower percentages of possible sunshine than this month.

DECEMBER—Precipitation only 66 per cent of normal. From the 20th to the 31st, inclusive, temperatures averaged 11 degrees below normal.

The official forecast indicated that New Year's day, like yesterday, will be mild, but that occasional snow or rain may fall.

INQUEST REVEALS PLOT TO USE KIN TO KILL HIS WIFE

A strange story of a husband who planned to use his sister-in-law in a plot to kill his wife was told yesterday to a coroner's jury investigating the death on Nov. 27 of Christy Nielsen, 33 years old, 534 Belden avenue. The jury returned a verdict of suicide while despondent over marital troubles.

Mrs. Lillian Paul, 19 years old, 5541 North Natchez avenue, the sister-in-law, testified that on Nov. 26 Nielsen took her to his room and asked her to communicate with his estranged wife, Clara. Nielsen said he intended to kill his wife when she came to the room, according to Mrs. Paul.

Mrs. Paul refused to send the message to Mrs. Nielsen and Nielsen kept her in his room overnight. The next morning Mrs. Paul's husband, Otto, rapped on the door. Nielsen then shot and wounded Mrs. Paul and killed himself. The inquest, which had been continued pending Mrs. Paul's recovery, was held in the county morgue.

WPA JOB ON FAIR ISLAND 25% DONE, CITY BOARD TOLD

Members of the Chicago Exposition authority heard a report yesterday at a meeting in the Palmer house on the Works Progress administration project which is preparing Northerly Island, as part of the site for a permanent lake front fair. The report was made by Richard B. Campbell, WPA senior construction engineer.

"We are preparing the island so that from almost any point one can get a fine perspective of its length," said Campbell. "At the northwest end we are scooping out an amphitheater from which persons can hear music from a barge in the lagoon. The ground leveling and landscaping is about 25 per cent complete."

Campbell said that there are about 1,100 WPA men on the job and that they are "really working."

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THING ON WHEELS

Unsurpassed GAS economy!

Test after test proves that under the same driving conditions the 1936 Pontiac Six delivers more miles per gallon of gasoline than any other new car of comparable size or weight, and compares favorably with the economy records of many smaller, lighter cars.

Unsurpassed OIL economy!

No cars built today have more efficient cooling and lubricating systems than the 1936 Pontiacs. Gusher valve cooling and full pressure metered-flow lubrication make them models for the entire industry. As a result, when it comes to oil economy, you simply can't do better than a Pontiac.

Unsurpassed UPKEEP economy!

Larger hydraulic brakes (12 inches in diameter and Triple-sealed), More durable alloy pistons. Silver-alloy bearings. Cross-flow radiator. Rust-proofed sheet metal. Ten-second starting at zero. All these contribute to the longer car life and lower costs that owners of the 1936 Pontiacs enjoy.

Save on purchase PRICE, too—

List prices at Pontiac, Michigan, begin at $615 for the Six and $730 for the Eight (subject to change without notice). Safety plate glass standard on De Luxe Six and Eight. Standard group of accessories extra. Available on G. M. A. C.'s new 6% Time Payment Plan. A General Motors Value.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Horace Heidt will be an interested listener in the broadcast of the Rose Bowl football game at 4 o'clock this afternoon over WENR-NBC. Twelve years ago today the Drake hotel maestro played in the Rose Bowl game as a guard on the California team which met Washington and Jefferson at Pasadena. That game indirectly brought him into radio.

During the game his back was injured in a collision with Brick Muller, famous end, and he was carried off the field. It was his last football appearance. After an operation surgeons told him he might as well go back to piano playing. Soon he organized a college orchestra and ultimately edged into the broadcasting picture.

Today is headache day in radio and it isn't entirely due to New Year's eve celebrations. Musical departments are keeping a sharp eye on all programs—particularly remote control pickups, lest songs owned by Warner Brothers, which are on the proscribed list beginning today, are played. Many a theme song is vanishing and so is many a current hit.

Too bad that "Where Am I?" is on the forbidden list. It would make the perfect theme song for all radio on this, the first day of the new year.

"The Story of Helen Trent," starring Virginia Clark, was one of the last minute victims of the copyright squabble. It had to droy its theme, Herbert's "Kiss Me Again." No new signature had been chosen up to last evening. Incidentally this W-G-N feature will be aired again over CBS also, beginning Jan. 20. This serial is now written by Kay Chase, W-G-N staf writer, who also turns out the popular "Painted Dreams."

A dramatization of the outstanding news stories of the last year under the title, "Twelve Crowded Months," is to be presented over WBBM-CBS from 2:30 to 3:30 this afternoon. Leading editors of the nation selected the big news stories. Leading all was the Supreme court's adverse decisions on the NRA and other New Deal legislation. Other stories: the Italo-Ethiopian war, Hauptmann's trial and conviction, death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post, and Huey Long's assassination.

Eddie Cantor will pause here between trains this morning on his way east from Hollywood. Cantor will have his stooges with him. Whole show is moving to New York where it will be spotted at 6 p. m. henceforth, opposite Jack Benny instead of Major Bowes as in the past. Cantor's family will be with him.

THIRD YEAR FOR IMPERIAL QUARTET
AT LAIN'S...

Since April, 1933, Lain's have included the IMPERIAL MALE QUARTET with all Chapel services, regardless of cost.

Included also, is the Organist and Organ.

Lain was the first in Chicago to make this definite contribution to beautify the chapel service—and our contract with the IMPERIAL QUARTET has been renewed for the third consecutive year.

The IMPERIAL QUARTET is a definite part of the Lain organization—available to all. No other chapel can offer you this well-known quartet.

Original features like the IMPERIAL QUARTET, and Conditioned Air, first introduced by Lain in 1932, have made Chicago's preference for Lain now 20 to 1—twenty times the average volume.

And yet over 63% of Lain's services cost less than $300—35% under $200.

SISTERS PAST 80 DIE, CUTTING LINK WITH OLD SOUTH

Montgomery Family One of Dixie's Greatest.

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 31.—(AP)—The élite gathered again today at stately "Montgomery place," but stilled was the gayety that once marked their coming to the historic old mansion.

The Montgomery sisters—mistresses of the high columned, ante-bellum ménage—were "at home" for the last time.

Inseparable in life, they were inseparable in death. Mrs. Julia Montgomery Doyle, 84 years old, died Sunday in the old homestead. Mrs. Jean Montgomery Jones, 81, who had nursed her through years of illness, died 24 hours later.

At services today, strangely contrasting with the gay assemblages of society of the old south, the lives of the two women whose deaths severed a link with a gay and colorful past were solemnly extoled.

Society came again to the mansion where, as debutantes and as matrons, the soft voiced sisters served as hostesses to the blue bloods of the south and visiting English aristocracy.

Bareheaded and solemn, distinguished lawyers, noted physicians, eminent merchant princes, and wealthy planters stood on the big front porch as they carried away the two sisters to a last resting place together—as they had wished it.

Almost the whole south knew the Montgomerys. The father, Col. Henry A. Montgomery, established the first cotton compress in Memphis, but he was better known as the builder of the Montgomery Park race track here where famous horses ran in the days when the "Tennessee Derby" was a sporting and a social spectacle.

Memories seemed to echo through the old Montgomery home. Famous parties were recalled.

Mrs. Doyle became a widow four years after her marriage to Decatur Doyle. Dr. Kennedy Jones, husband of the second sister, died in 1911. Since then, the sisters, occupying a prominent place in the social and cultural life of Memphis, lived—and died—together.

A. W. WARRINGTON DIES; VETERAN OF FISH BUSINESS

Funeral services for Arthur W. Warrington, who died Monday night at his home, 1447 Hollywood avenue, will be held tomorrow afternoon from the chapel at 810 North Clark street. Interment will be in Forest Home cemetery. Mr. Warrington was in the fish business in Chicago 40 years, retiring 12 years ago as city manager of the Booth Packing company retail division to form his own company, A. W. Warrington company, in the Fulton market. He was well known in club, restaurant and hotel circles. Mr. Warrington was survived by his widow, Mary Ann, and by a brother, Frank, 4444 Maypole avenue.

DIES AFTER FALL.

Mrs. Sadie Weinberg, 57 years old, 1810 South Central Park avenue, died in County hospital yesterday from injuries she incurred Sunday in a fall from her second floor apartment.

Edith McCormick Estate Accounting Is Approved.

Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell, yesterday approved a current accounting of the estate of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick. The accounting, which was presented by the Chicago Title and Trust company, executor of the estate, and which was made public Monday, listed cash on hand at $798,328 and other assets—real estate and personal property.

LIGGETT ATTACK BY EDITOR BRINGS A LIBEL WARANT

ChargeFiledAgainstHead of Farmer-Labor Paper.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—As efforts to effect a crime "cleanup" in Minneapolis moved forward on three fronts, a warant charging criminal libel of the memory of Walter W. Liggett was issued today against Henry G. Teigen, editor of the Minnesota Leader, and against the newspaper itself.

The Leader is the official organ of the Minnesota Farmer-Labor party.

The warant, issued on the motion of M. F. Kinkead, Ramsey county attorney, in St. Paul Municipal court, was sworn to by Mrs. Edith Liggett, widow of the Minneapolis weekly newspaper publisher who was slain Dec. 9.

"Exposé" Brings Charge.

The alleged libel occurred in the Dec. 28 issue of the Leader in a news story designed to "expose" Liggett's campaign against Gov. Floyd Olson and the Farmer-Labor party.

In listing certain alleged attacks the article said:

"The 'impeachment' attack by which the late Walter Liggett sought to dignify his Midwest American to obtain aid of Republican funds while he was uncovering and attempting to extort money from the Minneapolis underworld."

Mrs. Liggett's complaint charged that by "maliciously publishing" this statement Teigen and the Leader "exposed the memory of Walter Liggett to hatred, contempt, ridicule, and obloquy."

Developments in the inquiries precipitated by Liggett's slaying included the questioning of the Minneapolis license inspector by the Hennepin county grand jury. He was reported to have been asked if he could trace an alleged illegal ownership of five liquor stores to one person or corporation.

"Syndicate" Basis of Quiz.

The jury is in the midst of an inquiry into reports that a syndicate controls a large portion of the hard liquor business here; that quantities of "cut" whisky and manufactured blends are being sold under reputable labels, and that licenses have been issued illegally to men who are by law not qualified to receive them.

An investigation being conducted by a Minneapolis newspaper today brought to light, the paper said, that federal court files were overlooked or ignored by the city council in checking liquor license applications.

Meanwhile efforts to order a $100,000 investigation of crime conditions in Minneapolis were being pushed in the state legislature.

Oil Company Will Refuse Gas to Drunken Drivers

Denver, Colo., Dec. 31.—(AP)—The Fargo Oil company, operating 17 filling stations in Denver, announced a new year resolution today not to sell any gasoline to drunken drivers. Violation of the rule will be cause for immediate dismissal, officials said.

GOV. OLSON GOES UNDER KNIFE FOR AILING STOMACH

Find Surgery Futile; Will Try Medicine.

Rochester, Minn., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—An hour long exploratory operation was performed at the Mayo clinic today upon Gov. Floyd B. Olson, but failed, because of inflammation, to remove a stomach growth. It was announced later that further surgery would not cure him and that only medical treatment will be used in the future.

Friends of the governor said he would have to reconcile himself to some curtailment of his political activities because of the treatment he will have to undergo following his convalescence from the operation.

Several months ago the governor announced he would be a candidate for the United States senate in 1936.

The operation was undertaken to remove a polyp in the governor's stomach. It was performed under gas by Dr. Waltman Walters. After removal of the growth was prevented by an inflamed condition of the stomach, Dr. William J. Mayo, a witness of the operation, said "surgery will not accomplish the purpose."

"The exploration has given us an explanation," Dr. Mayo said. "We found that an operation would not accomplish the purpose and we must resort to medical treatment."

It was said the governor will remain under observation for possibly three weeks. Associates indicated he may be removed to Minneapolis if no complications develop.

Thief's Companion Caught on Top of Loop Building

Two men yesterday entered the 14th floor tailor shop of O. W. Freeman, at 22 West Monroe street, and asked the tailor to sew on a button for one of them. As he started to do so, the man's companion seized a suit of clothing valued at $90 and fled. He escaped in the loop crowds. The other man, however, was cornered and chased up a fire escape to the roof of the building. He surrendered and said he was George Miller, 30 years old, of 156 Carl street. He said his companion lived at 150 Carl street. There the police arrested Miss Joyce Diaz, 38 years old, and found several suits of clothes.

STEAL $3,000 MINK COAT.

Two men kicked in the glass of the display window in the Powell women's wear shop, 700 North Michigan avenue, yesterday, snatched a mink coat valued at $3,000 and fled in a stolen automobile.

SEIZE MANAGER FOR MAE WEST; CLOSE HIS SHOW

14 Players Are Arrested with Him.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Mae West's manager, corpulent James A. Timony, pleaded innocent today to a charge of conducting an indecent show—and indignantly protested that the police "didn't understand."

Trial was set for Jan. 16 for Timony and fourteen actors and actresses arraigned with him. They were arrested last night after a performance of "Ladies by Request."

"There isn't a dirty line in my whole show," said Timony. "The police probably didn't understand and put the wrong interpretation on it. We'll reopen tonight and get an injunction if the police try to stop us."

Running for Six Weeks.

The play, which deals farcically with the effort of two husbands to arouse their wives to jealousy, has been running at the Hollytown theater for six weeks. The Hollytown is a "little theater," next door to a church, in the Hollywood residential district.

An additional charge of failure to obtain a theater fire license was placed against the star's business manager.

Both the experience of the arrest and the forthcoming trial are not new to Timony. As financial backer of Mae West's play "Sex," Timony was arrested with the playwright-star in New York in 1927. Both "played" 10 days in jail when they were convicted of giving an indecent performance.

Arrested Second Time.

In 1930 Miss West again was arrested on a like charge for presenting the play "Pleasure Man." The case was dropped when the jury disagreed.

Among the players arrested were two whose names are known on the stage and screen—Charlotte Treadwell and Judith Voselli.

Timony, formerly an attorney in New York, has been associated with Miss West for many years. She denied having given any financial support to his theatrical venture.

"If I come up and see his show sometimes," she said, "it's because I'm his friend."

OWNER DEMANDS MINNEAPOLIS PLANT GET PERMIT TO OPEN

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Free and unlimited use of the Strutwear Knitting company factory was demanded today of Mayor Thomas Latimer by Mrs. James A. Struthers, president.

Failure to comply with the demand will be deemed an illegal and unlawful seizure of the plant, for which the mayor will be held personally and officially liable, a letter signed by Mrs. Struthers said.

The letter also demanded that the mayor explain why he ordered the national guard to take possession of and close the plant, instead of protecting the company in its fight to operate its business and the employés in their right to work.

They were called following a clash between pickets and police in which five policemen and an undetermined number of pickets were injured. The plant has been closed by its owners since last August following a labor dispute involving the dismissal of eight employés. Attempts of a committee of prominent business men and labor leaders to settle the dispute ended in a deadlock before last week's disturbance.

The guardsmen are under orders to permit no employé or official, except watchmen and those in charge of the heating system, to enter the plant pending an agreement.

BY FREDERIC BABCOCK.

In the year just ended the travel industry played a prominent part in a nation-wide and world-wide revival of business. Riding roughshod over such obstacles as wars and threats of wars, the industry went into high gear and stayed there for twelve months. In that period it gathered in something like five and a half billion dollars.

So many records were broken in 1934, and there were so many spectacular developments, that a complete lits of them would fill many columns. Here are a few:

The greatest single moving unit in the history of transportation was placed in service. The quadruple-screw turbo-electric steamer, the Normandie, 1,029 feet long and weighing 79,280 tons, set sail from Havre on its maiden trip May 29 and arrived in New York June 3.

For the first time the voyage between Europe and America was made in less than four days. On Sept. 30 the Normandie reached Plymouth 3 days and 23 hours after it had left New York. In doing so it bettered the best previous mark, 4 days 3 hours and 28 minutes, also made by the Normandie.

50 Million Americans Travel.

Fifty million American vacationists traveled in their own and foreign countries last summer. Their total was 30 per cent greater than that for the summer before.

In this country, the national parks and monuments hung up an all time attendance record of 6,337,206. This was a gain of 22 per cent over 1934, which up to that time had been the banner year.

Nearly a third of a million sightseers and thrill seekers jammed their way into Yellowstone alone. The final figures showed 317,998, an increase of 57,223 over the preceding year. Rail trafic to the park showed its biggest gain—28.3 per cent—and Illinois led all the other states in the number of rail passengers.

Open Air Service to Park.

Airplane service from Chicago to one of the gateways to Yellowstone was offered for the first time.

A full business day was cut from the time needed to travel by rail from Chicago to the Pacific coast.

Last June the western roads celebrated 70 years of progress with a salvo of whistles by every locomotive on duty between Chicago and the coast and between the Canadian and Mexican borders. The celebration of railroad week brought the attention of the traveling public to the fact that the roads had speeded up their trains, provided new safety equipment and riding comfort, and lowered their rates.

Emphasize Streamline Trains.

Streamlined trains, placed in operation throughout the country, gave promise of a revolution in rail trafic.

The running time of the Broadway Limited and the Twentieth Century Limited between Chicago and New York was reduced to 16½ hours.

The four leading railroads operating between Chicago and Florida cut the operating time on their crack trains to approximately 36 hours. Several of these trains went into service early this winter; the remainder will start today and tomorrow.

Between the first of the year and the close of the season Florida last winter entertained more than 2,000,000 visitors.

Middle West Resorts Gain.

The resorts of the middle west and the far west had their greatest years since the beginning of the depression. In Michigan and Wisconsin alone the total left behind by the tourists was estimated at $600,000,000. The San Diego exposition pulled vacationists westward by thousands. One result was that western railroads scored an average gain of 25 per cent, and bus lines gained 15 per cent.

Publicity given the maiden voyage of the Normandie got the foreign travel season off to a record start, and the speed then attained never slackened. Until the end of July scarcely a ship left New York without a full passenger list. Throughout August and the first half of September the lists were full of returning voyagers. In May, June, and July 130,000 Americans swarmed to Europe.

Jubilee Attracts Americans.

This European travel was 50 per cent higher than that in 1934. King George's silver jubilee attracted more Americans to England than had been there in ten years. Italy scored a huge increase until the trouble with Ethiopia began slowing down the trafic to the Mediterranean.

Travel around the world in 1935 was four times larger than in the year before. South America doubled its figures. The orient showed a 60 per cent increase. And in the West Indies, Mexico, and Central America the business was greater than ever before.

REVELRY OF PAST AGES GREETS '36 IN NEW ORLEANS

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—It's another New Year's eve in this town that has seen so many. There are the usual hotel, café and club parties such as might be found in any large city in America tonight. In these there is no story.

Let's leave the strolling and staggering crowds singing and shouting in broad and brightly lighted Canal street. Let's leave the big hotel lobbies where couples in formal dress use elbows to get through groups of harmonizers warming up for the Sugar Bowl football game tomorrow between Louisiana State and Texas Christian universities.

Five minutes' walk from this business center of a modern city of half a million population is the Vieux Carre, the old town. Here on narrow streets plotted by Bienville, in 1706, are two and three story buildings, with wrought iron galleries over the sidewalks, ancient structures reflecting French and Spanish occupancy before the Louisiana purchase of 1803.

Old Town Revives Old Rites.

It's in the Vieux Carre that is revived on this New Year's eve some of the abandon of this town when it was a meeting place of backwoods trappers, river ruffians, pirates, gamblers, and traders of all nations, and every man a law unto himself. There are sections devoted to prostitution. There are dance halls with hostesses for dock hands, seamen, and roustabouts.

If you're looking for the Old Absinthe House—frequented by Jean and Pierre Lafitte and also visited by Andrew Jackson, Beauregard, Aaron Burr, Grand Duke Alex, Thackery and Mark Twain—you'll find two of them. In the original building, of slate roof and brick brought from Europe as ballast for sailing ships, is a hoopla night club. When padlocked under the Volstead act, the fixtures were moved to a nearby bar room which now also calls itself the Old Absinthe house.

"Window Dressing" for Tourists.

These two places and many others in the Vieux Carre are dressed up for sedate tourists inspecting New Orleans' notorious night life. It's a show, much like the conducted tours of New York's Chinatown. Into the New Vanity night club tonight, a guide brought a score of midwestern women, school teachers and small town matrons, to sip soft drinks and get a first hand view of creole wickedness. They heard a babe from Brooklyn sing torch songs and saw a dance by a redhead from Little Rock, Ark.

But there is much that is genuine to attract tourists to this ancient river city, and they are being attracted this year as never before. When THE TRIBUNE roadster arrived here last night on its tour of winter resorts, there was not a room to be had in any of the many first class hotels. A room with bath down a dark hallway was obtained on a promise to the management—a promise that wasn't kept—to vacate in the morning.

Ickes to Make 10 Day Tour of Porto Rico, Virgin Isles

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes announced today he will leave Sunday for a 10 day inspection tour of Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands. He added that the trip would make it impossible for him to attend a grazing conference in Salt Lake City on Jan. 13 and 14, or a celebration to commemorate resumption of work on the Caspar-Alcova reclamation project in Wyoming at Caspar. He will return to Washington on Jan. 14.

PUT CALIFORNIA INCOME TAX LAW TO A STATE VOTE

Sales Levy Also Under Fire at Polls.

Sacramento, Cal., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Nearly 200,000 citizens launched a repeal movement today against the state income tax law which has caused several highly paid film personages and other wealthy notables to threaten to leave California.

Petitions bearing 195,844 voters' signatures qualified a repeal initiative which will settle the issue at the 1936 general election. Only 186,378 signatures were necessary.

Regardless of the initiative, the law becomes effective on incomes of the year 1935 and will amount to about 25 per cent of the federal income tax.

Tax Ranges from 1 to 15 Per Cent.

The rates range from 1 per cent on net taxable income of $1,000 to 15 per cent on incomes of $250,000 or more annually. It was designed to raise $20,000,000 biennially in revenue.

The first taxes will be assessed in March and Californians will have to pay on nearly one year's income, even if repeal is voted, since the election results would not become official until the latter part of December, 1936, and taxes already collected will not be returnable.

Hearst One of the Rebels.

Enactment of this law sent some movie executives to New York, New Jersey, Florida, and elsewhere avowedly looking for new studio locations.

Several actors said they could not afford to pay the tax and talked of leaving. William Randolph Hearst closed his California residences and went to New York.

The 3 per cent sales tax, designed to raise $120,000,000 revenue biennially, will be at stake also in the general election, due to a previously qualified initiative repealer.

TEACHING CHILD IN OWN HOME NO CRIME, SAYS JURY

A jury in the Criminal Court of Judge Joseph Burke yesterday found Dr. Richard Spencer, Chicago Heights physician, not guilty of violating the state compulsory education law. Dr. Spencer was charged with violating the truancy statute by refusing to send his daughter, Mary Belle, 16 years old, to a public schol. The decision reversed a ruling made Oct. 13, 1934, by Justice of the Peace David Shapiro of Chicago Heights, who imposed a $5 fine on the physician. Dr. Spencer was represented in the trial by his wife, Attorney Mary Belle Spencer. The jury, which retired Monday afternoon, battled all night over the issue.

REAPPOINTS PALESTINE CHIEF.

LONDON, Dec. 31.—(AP)—King George approved a five year extension tonight of the term of Sir Arthur Grenfell Wauchope as high commissioner for Palestine.

There are scores of places worth visiting: The French quarter, with its famous eating places; the haunted house, the old slave mart, what was the Absinthe house, headquarters of the pirate, Lafitte; the churches, and the old battlegrounds. If you start your trip around the middle of February you will get there in time for the Mardi Gras.

I notice in THE TRIBUNE that the rates on the new Queen Mary will meet those of the Normandie. Just what are the figures? C. D. A.

For the summer season first class accommodations on the Queen Mary will begin at $276, while tourist class will be $145.50, and third class, $93.

From Queen Eiri, wife of Carmody, a monarch of the dim past. She is buried under a stone known as Ail-Na-Meeran, in Uisneach, a suburb of Dublin.

When and where is the annual invitation skeet tournament to be held in Bermuda? M. M.

Feb. 10 to 14, on the fields overlooking Riddell's bay. The Castle Harbour Rod and Gun club is in charge.

We have been told that there is to be a train-ferry service operated between Paris and London next summer. What can you tell us about it? L. G.

Beginning in May, American travelers will be able to leave Paris in a sleeping car at midnight from the Gare du Nord and wake up in Victoria station, London, at 8 o'clock the following morning. The 21 mile crossing between Calais and Dover will be made on a new train-ferry, onto which the Pullman cars will be run and locked. Similar service has been operated for several years between Germany and Sweden. Transversely, a train will leave London at midnight and arrive at Paris at 8 a. m. There will be no such service in the daytime.

BARKS OF STRAY DOG SAVE 13 IN N. Y. HOTEL BLAZE

Syracuse, N. Y., Dec. 21.—[Special.]—Kindness to a stray dog, sheltered by a hotel manager's wife from central New York's coldest December weather since 1919, saved the lives of 13 guests in the Seneca hotel at Baldwinsville, a suburb, early today.

The dog's barking aroused Mrs. John Killian, its mistress, about 5 a. m. When she opened the corridor door to investigate the cause of his barking, she discovered a fire barely in time to spread the alarm among the guests.

All but one of those registered are known to have escaped. The missing man is Howard Baldwin, a descendant of Dr. Josiah Baldwin, the founder of the village.

Mrs. Killian in expressing her gratitude for the pet's warning said: "I let the little waif remain in the hotel and soon he made his sleeping quarters at the foot of my bed. This morning he not only barked to awaken me, but also tugged at the blankets on the bed. I made certain he was safely in my arms before I left the building, you may be sure, because now he has a permanent home as a member of the family."

Logan, O., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Two men who believe themselves to be among the oldest twins in the United States will celebrate their 81st birthday on New Year's day. Technically, today is Jacob Wolfe's birthday. He was born a few minutes before midnight, Dec. 31, 1854. His brother Isaac was born a few minutes later in 1855.

8 N. Y. THEATERS SUE OPERATORS' UNION LEADER

Charge Business Hurt in $650,000 Action.

New York, Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Charging their business has been damaged by picketing and other activities of local 306 of the Moving Picture Machine Operators' union, the owners of eight film theaters in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Queens brought suit in Supreme court today for damages totaling $650,000.

The plaintifs operate eight theaters for which they ask damages as follows:

Globe theater, Brooklyn, $100,000; Colony theater, Jackson Heights, Queens, $75,000; Times Square theater, $75,0000; Park theater, $75,000; Liberty theater, $75,000; Central theater, $75,000; Sanders theater, Brooklyn, $100,000, and Globe theater, $75,000.

Members of Association.

The theater owners state that they are members of the Independent Theater Owners' association, Inc., which has a membership of 300, and that as such they have for some time employed projectionists who are members of the Allied Motion Picture Operators' union.

The refusal of the owners to employ local 306 men, it is alleged, has caused that body, at the demand of the defendant, to "intimidate, coerce and terrorize" the plaintifs since Jan. 1, 1934, by picketing, throwing stench bombs into theaters, and "creating riots" that on occasions have required the attendance of police.

Mrs. Dawson pleaded guilty, saying she had given the girl poison, and was sentenced to Indiana woman's prison for life. After she had served a year she implicated her husband.

Birthday Party

"TOMORROW'S MY BIRTHDAY," confided a little girl to a ticket agent as her father was buying his tickets for Florida.

The next day at luncheon on the FLORIDAN suddenly there appeared a huge birthday cake with ten candles on it. "Why, even the railroad knows I'm ten!" she exclaimed in delighted amazement.

Of course! That ticket agent had a daughter—so did the dining car steward. And true to the Illinois Central tradition, they promptly arranged for the extra attention that made this trip memorable for the youngster.

WHETHER it's putting through emergency shipments in record time to save the day for a great factory or merely finding candles for a child's unexpected birthday cake, the employes of the Illinois Central System take pride and pleasure in rendering a service marked by that extra ingredient of good will which New Orleans calls "lagniappe."

MULLEN PUTS IN BILL FOR $75,000 AS NEW DEAL AID

Nebraska Democrat Cuts Fee by $100,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Arthur F. Mullen, former Nebraska member of the Democratic national committee, has submitted a formal bill for $75,000 for legal work done by him in helping to establish $18,400,000 worth of public works projects in his home state. That was revealed today by PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes.

Although the fee is $100,000 lower than Mullen's original request for $175,000, Mr. Ickes is still far from satisfied, those close to him indicated.

Expect He'll Get $10,000.

It is probable that Mullen won't get much more than $10,000 or $15,000 when he is finally paid. Ickes, however, obviously loath to affront the man who was one of his sponsors for the job of secretary of the interior, said he would not act on the bill until he returns from a trip to Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands next month.

Mullen resigned from the national committee following criticism of committeemen retaining their posts while representing special interests before congressional committees and government departments. He turned down the offer of a federal judgeship to take up a lucrative law practice in Washington.

Has a Giant Practice.

As one of the Roosevelt floor leaders at the 1932 Democratic national convention, he has connections here which give him one of the biggest law practices in the capital.

His bill is based on services rendered in having the Nebraska legislature enact the measures setting up the Loup river water conservancy authority and the Columbus water conservancy authority in Nebraska and in having successfully defended the legality of the measures in the Nebraska Supreme court. Mullen was a former attorney general in Nebraska.

2 SETS OF TWINS "DOING WELL" IN SAME HOSPITAL

Two sets of twins, born in St. Francis hospital in Evanston within five hours, were reported "doing nicely" yesterday. All four babies were boys.

The first pair was born to Mrs. Kathryn Borst, 2133 Devon avenue, at 8:17 and 8:55 o'clock Saturday night. One weighed 5 pounds 6 ounces and the other 5 pounds 2 ounces. Their mother named them John G. Jr. and Henry Wietor. Their father, John, is a truck driver.

Mrs. Marjorie De Berard, 2253 Ridge avenue, Evanston, was the mother of the other twins. They were born at 12:25 and 12:29 o'clock Sunday morning. They weighed 3 pounds 4 ounces and 3 pounds 5 ounces. Their father, Emmons De Berard, is a civil engineer for the sanitary district.

MILNE RELEASED AS FATHER POSTS BOND OF $7,500

New York, Dec. 31.—[Special.—Caleb Milne IV. was released from the federal house of detention today, after four days' imprisonment, when his father, Caleb Milne III. of Boston, put up $7,500 bond.

Young Milne, who confessed that his absence from New York from Dec. 14 to 18 was a hoax arranged to look like a kidnaping, is to appear Jan. 9 before United States Commissioner Garrett Cotter to answer charges growing out of his scheme.

Earlier his wealthy grandfather announced he was withdrawing from the case. The department of justice was reported to be contemplating suing the Milne family for $20,000, the cost of the investigation of the hoax.

Kidnaped on Way to Bank and Robbed of His $600

James McCormick, 4949 Monroe street, was kidnaped and robbed of $610 yesterday by three gunmen who forced him into their automobile at Michigan avenue and Ontario street. McCormick was on his way to a bank to deposit the money when the robbers drove up beside him. He was released at Clark and Superior street.

37 LA SALLE COUNTY CAR DEATHS IN YEAR SET ALL TIME HIGH

Ottawa, Ill., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Automobile deaths in La Salle county reached an all time high in 1935, according to Dr. H. S. Lester, county coroner. Thirty-seven deaths occurred this year. In 1932 there were 16 automobile deaths in the county, 20 in 1933, and 34 in 1934.

Inquest Record Set.

Galesburg, Ill., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—A record for inquests was set in Knox county in 1935, according to Coroner George S. Bower.

He held inquests in 77 cases for 78 persons. Eighteen were killed in accidents in which automobiles were involved, the largest number of automobile fatalities in one year in the history of the county. Actually four more persons were killed in the county than the records indicate, as inquests were held in neighboring counties on this number of victims injured in auto accidents here who died elsewhere.

AUTOISTS STAGE DEADLINE RUSH TO GET LICENSES

Motorists continued yesterday to jam the offices of City Clerk Brady and Secretary of State Hughes to obtain their city and state vehicle stickers and plates under the spur of announcements from the police that drivers without 1936 credentials will be subject to arrest. The law requires drivers to display their new licenses on Jan. 1.

The largest crowd collected at Hughes' Chicago office, 120 South Ashland boulevard. Stanley R. Kosinski, in charge of the office, kept it open until all had been served, and estimated that 18,000 sets of plates had been handed out.

There was some abatement at the city hall, however. About 20,000 persons went through the office during the day, which was about 10,000 less than the record established on Monday.

It was estimated that several hundred thousand motorists still are without 1936 plates and stickers. Police will start handing out summonses to these persons tomorrow, according to City Controler Upham. In Springfield Mr. Hughes said he expected the drive on motorists would be postponed a few days as in previous years.

DRIVER KIDNAPED MAKING DELIVERY TO STRIKE PLANT

A truck driver for a chicago concern was kidnaped yesterday by a gang traveling in four automobiles. The men seized him just after he had made a delivery to the Oakes Products company, of North Chicago, where a strike has been in progress since Dec. 10.

The victim was released an hour later. He is Michael Gersch, 33 years old, 4817 Drummond place, a driver for the Fred Olson and Son Motor Service, Inc., who reported the violence to Sherif Lawrence Doolittle of Lake county. Gersch accompanied several deputies to the picket lines surrounding the Oakes plant but was unable to identify any of the men who seized him. The truck was found with its windshield shattered.

The metal polishers, buffers, platers and helpers union, local No. 140, which called the strike, has been enjoined from violence by an injunction issued in Lake Circuit court Dec. 19.

PENSACOLA NAVY SQUADRON WINS SAFETY TROPHY

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Squadron No. 2 of the Pensacola Naval Air station again has been awarded the Herbert Schiff trophy presented annually to the squadron with the best safety record for the year. Squadron No. 2 won the award last year.

Lieut. Phil L. Haynes, commander, will go to Washington to receive the trophy from President Roosevelt.

The squadron finished 18,000 flying hours with only eight minor accidents. Secretary of the Navy Swanson, in a letter to the station said "the very nature of the squadrons training operations exposes it to constant flying hazards," which makes the feat all the more remarkable.

The slayer, who stabbed his wife to death last year as she held a baby in her arms, went to his death without speaking a word to prison officials.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse, Siwash. She was taking an early morning ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, helps her friend, Inspector Piper, to investigate. They suspect murder. Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, are owners of the stable where Siwash is kept, and Latigo Wells manager. Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Feverel's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's half-sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Violet was divorced from Don Gregg, and had had him put in alimony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Don's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas hints at foul play. Don Gregg had been released from alimony jail on a fake writ before his wife's death, though he has an alibi and is not held. The autopsy of Dr. Bloom, medical examiner, reveals Violet Feverel was killed by a BB bullet which hit her throat. An expert tells Miss Withers that the "murder" pipe's owner had false teeth. She buys apples with which she hopes to find who among the suspects has false teeth. Piper and Miss Withers call at the Gregg home. Pat Gregg hints there may be a second murder after the big race on Saturday at Beaulah Park. Abe Thomas admits it was he who got Don out of jail. Latigo Wells is fired from Thwaite's. The day of the race arrives. Miss Withers and Piper and all the suspects attend. Miss Withers wins on Wallaby, a long shot. She knew he had been Violet Feverel's selection. After the race Miss Withers and Piper head for the Gregg home, driven there by Capt. Tinker of the local police. Pat Gregg had died—of a stroke, the local doctor insists. Abe Thomas had attended the race. Miss Withers thinks the stroke might have been artificially induced. She and Piper return late that night to the Gregg place, and as they near it notice a blaze. They catch Don Gregg setting fire to it, and preparing to kill Abe Thomas with an ax as he comes out. Miss Withers accuses Thomas of the murders. She knows Don is only trying to avenge the murder of his father. Thomas confesses.

INSTALMENT XLV.

THE REAL VICTIM.

"He went to see Violet, begging for the return of his money," Miss Withers continued. "That was how she got the hunch to bet on Wallaby—for though she sent him away with a merry sneer, he did succeed in convincing her that the horse would win.

"But she'd sealed her own death warrant when she sent Abe Thomas away empty handed. Not that he blamed her for that, No—but she was the one person in the world who knew that he had a grievance against his employer. Thomas killed her to cover up the murder of his employer!"

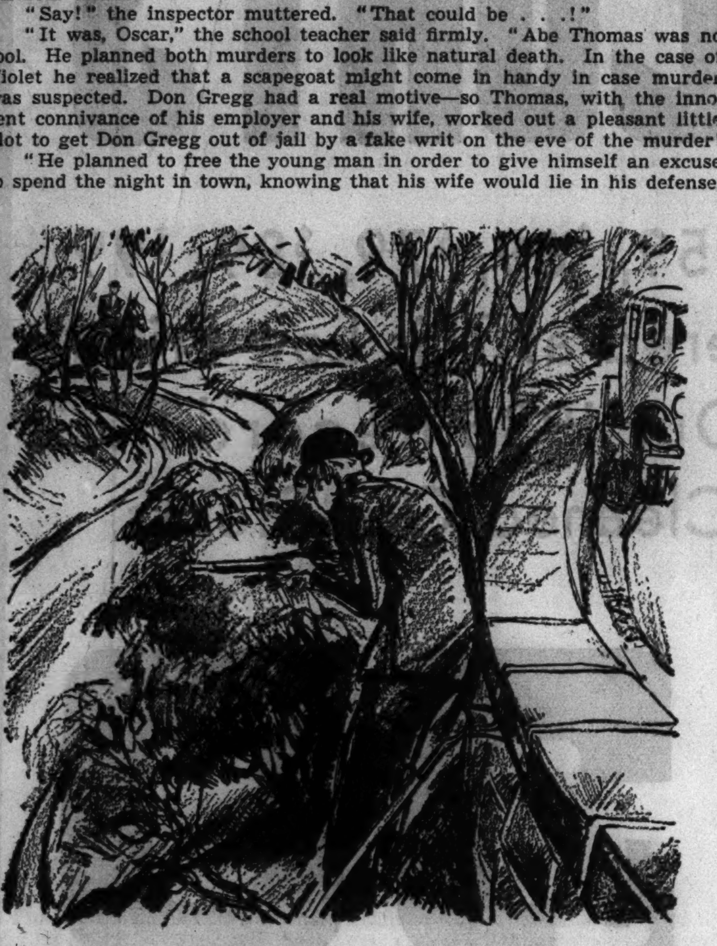
"O—but Violet was killed first!"

"In most cases of double murder, Oscar, the second murder is to cover up the first, but here it was vice versa. Violet Feverel's tongue had to be quieted at the same time or even before the murderer could attack his real victim!

"Say!" the inspector muttered. "That could be . . .!"

"It was, Oscar," the school teacher said firmly. "Abe Thomas was no fool. He planned both murders to look like natural death. In the case of Violet he realized that a scapegoat might come in handy in case murder was suspected. Don Gregg had a real motive—so Thomas, with the innocent connivance of his employer and his wife, worked out a pleasant little plot to get Don Gregg out of jail by a fake writ on the eve of the murder!

"He planned to free the young man in order to give himself an excuse to spend the night in town, knowing that his wife would lie in his defense, and that even if the truth did come out about his part in the jail break no one would blame him except as a very minor accessory.



His BB shot must sting the horse into a frenzy and throw the rider.

"He left home that Saturday night very early—before sunset, because the chickens had not yet gone to bed—and came down to the city. He parked the station wagon on an all night parking lot, leaving hidden there an efficient but supposedly harmless little air pistol in addition to the weapon which he had artfully concocted out of a hoe and a horseshoe. The shoe had to fit Siwash—but that was easy, for the horse had been stabled up here at the farm during many winter seasons.

For a while he had the luck of the devil. He got Don Gregg out of alimony jail without a hitch. Perhaps he suggested the Turkish bath, knowing how difficult it would be to check an alibi there. After the steam and the rubdowns and whatever they have in such places, both men lay down on their cots.

"But imagine his amazement, Oscar! Thomas lay there, pretending slumber until such time as the young man was asleep, and suddenly he heard his companion get up, take his clothes from the locker, and stealthily creep out of the place!"

"That must have been a shock," agreed the inspector.

"Thomas soon saw how he could turn it to account," Miss Withers continued. "It was raining, and the boy had calmly appropriated Thomas' blue coat. That showed he intended to return before morning."

"Hey, where did he go?" demanded Piper.

"He had one idea, that young Don Gregg," Miss Withers explained. "He wanted to confront the woman who had been persecuting him. Most of that night he stood in the rain, watching the lighted windows of the apartment that had once been his. He admitted as much to me a little while ago.

"He followed Violet to the stable and, after her very noisy friends had departed toward Harlem, he tried to rent a horse and follow her into the park. Perhaps he meant murder, Oscar. Perhaps he hoped to catch her in a meeting with a man which would give him grounds for going back into court. . . ."

"And he was the boy who stole the bicycle from the Western Union boy?" the inspector burst in.

She nodded. "And took a spill on it, too. Tore his clothes—because I saw Barbara mending them with stocking thread. The bicycle was wrecked and he changed his mind. He left it in the park and walked back to the Turkish bath. If he had continued on half a mile he would have come upon his wife's dead body. Back at the baths he found Thomas gone—and began to worry. Had the man gone out searching for him? He went back to bed, being naturally tired after a night outside in the rain, and slept through the long hours of the morning."

"That covers him," Piper said quickly. "But hurry, Hildegarde, those newspaper boys will be here in twenty minutes . . ."

"We'll go back to Thomas," said Miss Withers calmly. "While Don Gregg was staring up at the windows of Violet's apartment, Thomas was speeding northward in the station wagon. There was nobody at the parking lot between the hours of one and six—and the drive at that hour would not take an hour. He was hurrying to the farm; he had work to do there.

Thomas must have parked the car a distance from the house, crept up to the old man's room, and opened it with a key which he had prepared for this moment. Opening the door, he slipped quickly to the bed in the darkness and deftly knocked Mr. Gregg unconscious with a blow on the neck under the ear. Remember that pale bruise—it wasn't a hard blow, for he just wanted to stun him. My guess would be that he used a sock filled with sand . . ."

"I've heard of it being done," said the inspector stiffly.

"Heard of it—you probably invented it!" Miss Withers accused. "Anyway, with Gregg unconscious the murderer worked swiftly on a plot which was far away the most clever, I might say over-clever, that I have ever heard of. He had wanted a safe and sane murder, without a trace. So he hit upon the idea of stringing the old man up by the heels and leaving him there to die from the pressure of blood on his brain!"

The inspector's mouth opened. "Upside down?"

She nodded. "He knew that Gregg had had one collapse and was subject to high blood pressure. It struck him that apoplexy might be brought on artificially. He left Gregg hanging by his suspenders. I presume they were knotted and caught in the trap door which led to the cupola.

"Leaving Gregg, as he thought, to die a slow and horrible death, Thomas hurried out of the room, locked the door, and got back to the city. He replaced the station wagon on the parking lot, where it was to be serviced by the attendants when they came on duty at six. From it he took his parcel of weapons and calmly walked down the street and appropriated the first taxicab he found empty and drove calmly to the most convenient place where he could overlook the bridle path on which he knew Violet must ride if she rode at all. His plan was perfect—a BB shot must sting the horse into a frenzy and throw the rider. Before she could get up Thomas would give her a fatal blow with the horseshoe club he had designed. The wounds would appear to be made by a horse's hoof!

Cooking Editor Turns Over an Advisory Leaf

Amplifies Plans for Aid to Kitcheneers.

BY MARY MEADE.

And a happy New Year, from me to you! A year of easier, better cooking to you sister cooks; a successful season of parties to you fellow hostesses, and to all families and guests alike a 1936 filled with the best food you ever ate! [I'm wishing you a lot of other things, too, but this column is supposed to be about food, at least most of the time.]

Just in hope of showing you that these New Year wishes aren't an empty greeting [and because we know that holiday feasting probably has dulled your enthusiasm for a regular cook talk today] here's an outline of some of the specific means by which we hope to be able to help you hit tops in your 1936 meal planning, cooking, and hostessing.

In the first place, the BIG New Year's resolution of your cooking department is to provide you with more usable cooking information than ever before, together with new tips and dependable recipes and occasional news about new food products and cooking equipment. Every day and Sundays, together with the added space of the Friday food page, we're eager to give you the best in cookery aids and suggestions.

Next, we hope you'll turn over your cooking troubles to us even more whole heartedly during 1936. If your jelly won't jell or your muffins have tunnels, if your pot roast seems dry, or your cakes have camel humps let us know about it and we'll give you the best long distance diagnosis and help that we can. Or if you can't locate a particular recipe remember that we've scads of files and references out of which it may be produced. Some of these letters will be answered in the regular weekly forum, but they all will get personal replies through the mails as promptly as it can be managed. [We cringe to mention it again, but it does speed up things tremendously to have that self-addressed, stamped envelope.]

Then there's the great list of booklets, small and large, which we've compiled in hope of offering special service on particular problems of cooking and entertaining. Almost every Friday a list of these, partial or complete, is published, and we hope you're taking advantage of their extremely low cost and their wealth of suggestions and recipes. New ones are coming out all the time, too. "Filling the Cookie Jar" and "Tips for Tea Parties" are among the most recent of the 3 cent booklets [5 cents by mail].

Our newest booklet, however, is a much larger, printed one, on the order of "Baking the Perfect Cake," which we hope you have and treasure. This latest, "Modern Meat Lore," is a condensation of all the newest and most practical methods of meat cookery; outlines and charts of how to buy meat, how to use and choose a variety of cuts; the place of meat in the family diet; tips on low cost meat dishes and leftovers, and besides all that it's full of meat recipes we know you'll find interesting in varying our main courses throughout the year. Remember it—"Modern Meat Lore"—20 cents at Tribune Public Service offices, or 23 cents by mail.

We hope to have a special 1936 cookster class for beginning cooks as well. However, whether or not every Saturday's column will be given over to easy-to-make, fun-to-make cookables for young beginners depends partly upon your reaction to the idea. How about giving us the benefit of your opinion?

Juvenile Chef Usually Likes Own Cooking

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The nursery schools are discovering and advocating what many a mother who does her own housekeeping, marketing, and cooking, and has entire charge of her children, has known for a long time.

What I'm referring to is the practice that many nursery schools have of dealing with their young eating problems in certain indirect ways. They have found that if a child helps market for vegetables or gets all done up in a kitchen apron and acts the part of a young vegetable chef he or she becomes what we might call receptive to the idea of eating most foods, especially those formerly disliked.

From my own family experience and my observation of many children outside my family I am forced to the conclusion that keen appetite is less frequent in the young child than in the inbetween or the adolescent. There is, I believe, less of a certain kind of sense-interest in food, less conscious relish. I'm talking now of children in general. Of course there are always individual cases that don't fit this description.

Therefore, a plate, appearing out of thin air, loaded with a mound of green something, and white something, and perhaps an orange-colored something, may be quite lacking in interest.

But if those tiny green balls were, perhaps, popped out of their long, green pockets by little fingers during a cozy kitchen session with mother; if the orange colored mound was carried home in a bag in one's doll carriage from fat, jolly Mr. Cappelino's fruit store and one of them was fed to Winky-Nose Bunny, why then eating that vegetable dinner is no longer just a chore.

Try this method, if you haven't already done so. The young chef or shopper usually likes his own cooking and purchases.

Our fully written leaflet "Curing Mealtime Difficulties" helps mothers with this whole matter of young children's eating. It may be obtained by sending a stamped, self addressed envelope.

TRAGEDY AT THE BRIDGE TABLE

Every bridge player of experience will quail at the horror of today's tale. Even the most ghoulish should find sympathy for a declarer who, on a reasonably sound three no trump bid, failed to take a single trick. Particularly so, when the opening lead alone was responsible for a swing of eight tricks.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 spade	3 no tr'p
Double [final bid]

It is hard to criticize South's three no trump bid. Granted that it was aggressive, but the freak holding, and the apparent assurance of at least eight tricks make this bid extremely tempting. Certainly, South could not anticipate a calamity and, even when doubled by West, he should not be severely censured for sticking to his guns.

The villain of the plot was West, who failed to open his partner's bid-suit. Instead, feeling that South was prepared for a spade opening, he "crossed him" by leading the jack of hearts. East played the ace, and led the spade queen through. West's ace smothered the king and a spade was returned. After running his six spades, East shifted to the club queen, and the carnage continued. West merrily ran his five clubs and, on the last card, poor South, who was completely groggy, guessed the wrong card to hold—he had to let go either the heart king or the diamond ace.

And, to cap the climax, while the 2,600 point penalty was being entered, West observed suavely: "Too bad we don't get credit for a grand slam!"

An observation that should have been punished with boiling oil!

Boy Suspect in Not Presenting Girl to Family

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Bea has herself all agog over a chap she suspects of being ashamed to introduce her to his friends. He is good to her when they are alone. He showers her with gifts. He takes her dancing to the right places, but if any of his friends show up, he wangles her out of their way, and she confides she would like to meet these people. His family is one of means. Hers is not. He calls for her in a car that rouses the interest of the neighborhood youngsters. They cluster around, making comments, which Bea thinks may annoy him. He comes to her home, however, and has met all of her people. But she never has been asked to meet any of his folks.

It seems strange to her. She knows she is presentable. Indeed, she knows that fate has been kind to her in the matter of looks. Nevertheless, it is strange that he doesn't want to show her off to his mother and sisters when her first impulse was to have her mother and sisters meet and pass judgment on him.

We'd like to think the young man means all right by our Bea. And maybe he does. Maybe his family have that disease known as snobbery and would not countenance a young woman outside of their own social sphere. Even today, when the world is supposed to have done away with the archaic snobbery, one finds it fairly virulent in certain social quarters. However, in his behavior toward his friends met at dancing places, we do not see a loophole for the young man, unless he is afraid he might lose his girl if he introduced her around.

In any event, it is a selfish way and certainly not a flattering gesture toward the young woman. But you, Bea, know the young man and you should be sharp enough to know from the man's conversation with you and his behavior toward you whether he is out for game or engaged in the more serious business of leading up to marriage.

The heavy showering of gifts and the sneaking around with a girl are common tactics of the man whose intentions are not honorable. But it is a fairly dull girl who can't determine pretty quickly, from the man's hints and suggestions, just where his friendship is leading.

Many to Hold at Homes for Friends Today

New Year's Custom Being Revived in Chicago.

BY JUDITH CASS.

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

These three words will be on every one's tongue many times today, for in them are expressed all the wishes for good health, contentment and prosperity that one could wish for any one. That pleasant custom of being at home to one's friends on New Year's day, which for some years was out of fashion but which was revived several years ago, is more popular this year than ever before, and in all the suburbs and the city there will be dozens of "at homes," some at noon, others during the tea hour and some that will last from noon until long past the tea hour.

When the New Year rolls around
We love to hear the joyous sound
Of clink of Tom and Jerry mugs
And our friends' footsteps on the rugs,
So help us celebrate the morn
When the New Year is born.

Thus reads the invitations the Henry H. Porters sent to their friends, asking them to drop in at their apartment at 105 East Delaware place from 11 'til 1 this morning.

The William S. Monroes and their son Henry invited their friends in rhyme, too, illustrated by a sketch of a glowing fire and a long buffet table upon which were a bowl of eggnog, lighted candles and a coffee urn. The Monroes will be at home in their East Elm street apartment from 4 to 7 o'clock, and receiving with them will be their house guest, Robert Lee Eskridge, the artist, who perhaps was responsible for the sketch.

Post Commanders Will Be at Home.

The Army and the Navy are both holding open house today, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Dana T. Merrill at Fort Sheridan from noon "until 1 a. m.," and Rear Admiral and Mrs. John W. Downes at the Great Lakes Naval Training station from "12 o'clock on." Miss True Merrill will receive with her parents and so will her house guest, Miss Helen Smith of Muskegon, Mich. Mrs. W. H. Richardson, Mrs. Harry D. Chamberlin, Mrs. Lloyd H. Cook, and Mrs. William C. Dunckel will assist.

Receiving with Admiral and Mrs. Downes will be their daughter, Miss Carlyle Downes, and her guests the Misses Barbara and Gloria Young of Los Angeles. The three girls are classmates at the Holton Arms school in Washington, D. C.

John Robert Leonard and his family will be at home at Wildacre, their home in Winnetka, from 4 to 7, according to their custom. Mrs. Hibbard Casselberry, the former Mary Elizabeth Leonard, arrived from her home in Winter Park, Fla., Monday night.

Chicago Club to Hold Annual Luncheon.

The Edward H. Bennetts are giving their annual eggnog party at noon in their Burton place home. Many of the men go from this party to the Chicago club's famous New Year's day luncheon, one of the few times during the year when the members

WHEN a young man brought a debutante home at 6 o'clock the other morning a father met them at the door.

Excuse—
Refrain—

Formula.

"What do you mean by bringing my daughter home at this hour of the morning?" he demanded.

"Well, sir, I have to be at work at 7," answered the young man.

THE song that is engaging the attention of the younger set because it has been played at a number of the debutante dances and because it is tricky, both as to tune and words, is "The Music Goes Round and Round." Neighbors in a fashionable near north side district reported some of the stag line coming home early the other morning trying to get the hang of it. Their voices floated through the frosty morning: "I blow through here, the music goes round and round; whoa-ho-o-o-o-o, and it comes up here, and I push the first valve down, and the music goes round and round . . ."

MARY, age 4, was being put to bed for her afternoon nap. She suspected that her mother was going out.

"Please don't go out, mother," she wailed, and her twin, Irene, joined her. Then, hearing the water running into her mother's tub she made a final appeal.

"Don't take a bath, mama. Stay home!"

FINAL Christmas note. A late shopper on the evening of Dec. 24 observed a preoccupied fellow in the typewriter department of a store on South Halsted street. He had a pile of gift tags in one hand and he was busy tapping out, with one finger of the other hand, something on one of the typewriters. Looking over his shoulder she saw that he was writing: "From Frank to Ella."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Why not beauty resolutions? At this open season for decisions to be as good as gold it does seem as though there might be sense to the idea. How do these strike you as beauty commandments to obey in 1936?

1. Never, never to tumble into bed without cleaning your face, no matter how weary you are or how close the dawn.

2. To give your hairbrush a workout, not spasmodically, but every single day.

3. To watch your posture—to think of it every day—until it's second nature to hold your head straight [marvelous for wiping out the double chin menace] and your abdomen flat.

4. To give your nails the benefit of time and cuticle cream every night without fail.

5. To be faithful to your tissue cream, especially during the winter.

6. To have professional facial treatment [if you're within sighting distance of thirty] as often as you can afford it.

7. To get to the right weight and to stay there and to go about weight correction sanely, giving the freak diets a wide berth.

8. To freshen your makeup in the middle of the day. Don't kid yourself into thinking that you're busy or big enough to get by with an unpowdered nose.

9. To keep the eyebrows trim and the lashes well oiled.

10. See that your makeup is always harmonious, keeping an eagle eye on the relation between costume and color accents in your face.

Winter Club to Hold Skating Show and Hocky Game Today

Many Lake Foresters and others along the north shore will leave New Year's day dinners early, or else hold them at a later hour in order to be at the Winter club in Lake Forest for an exhibition of fancy skating at 2:15 o'clock, followed by a hocky match between boys of preparatory school age who practiced or learned to play ice hockey at the club, and who now are on teams at their schools. The Hill, Hotchkiss, Groton, St. Mark's, St. Paul's, Andover, and the North Shore Country Day schools are represented in the two teams.

Playing for one side will be Johnny Coleman as goalie; Dick Mechem and Noyes McLennan, defense, and Dick Poole, Kent Chandler, and Leslie Wheeler Jr. as forwards. On the other team will be Bill Bent, goal keeper; Bob Gardner and Harry Wheeler, defense; Johnny and Bill Spalding and Bob Mechem, forwards.

Miss Eleanor Berger and Miss Nancy Meyer will be among the fancy skaters.

Gay Silk Prints Are Ready for Home Sewers

Colors and Designs Get Shaffer's Praise.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The first sign of prints . . . the gay silks all ready for the vast army of those who wield their own scissors, pin a tricky pattern, and sew intricate seams to create effective and super-smart dresses to wear immediately.

One shop, famous for years for unusual silks, features this mid-season some stunning jacquard prints, exquisitely lovely dress silks that combine a jacquard weave with colored printed designs for contrast.

One navy blue has a design of emerald green and white berries with the stems as the jacquard design. Another crêpy jacquard with a deep blue background has a red roofed cottage nestling beside a cerise topped tree. Sounds rather goofy, but it's a grand idea.

If you like soft blues, you'll cheer for the plum colored background silk splashed with blue daisies. And if braided ideas appeal to your taste as something extremely smart, try the printed silks with a black braid design twisting and turning over a dull gold background. The same design comes in cadet blue and black.

Tropical and exotic prints make stunning new dinner and dance dresses, with such eye-striking patterns and colors as cerise, jade green, purple and yellow.

Tapestry prints are lovely with their soft blurred patterns and delightfully mellowed color contrasts. Dots are as good as ever, from the dotted prints to some good looking paper silk taffetas spaced irregularly with small and large white dots. These last come in brown, navy, black and green. Made into afternoon dresses with huge puffed sleeves and wide skirts that accent a tiny waistline, they make the newest and most exciting new dress any ambitious "make your own" silk shopper could wish.

Little seven year old Jeannette Hersey is one of the hits of "The Pearl Diver," which will be presented for the second and last time by the Chicago Junior league at the Historical society on Saturday afternoon. In this fetching costume of a Water Nixie she looks every inch a siren.

HAPPY NEW YEAR! (And many, many of them to you!)

The little Sonotone was crowded! There were people waiting. And I knew the reason.

The world is full of folks who love Louis Hemon's novel. Translated from the French and published in America some twenty years ago, it made devoted friends—and when those admirers learned that the characters of the story had come to screen life in a prize winning cinema—it was awarded the French prize—why, of course, there would be no keeping them away from the theater where that picture was being shown.

The story, which deals with the simple, devout, cheery folk who built a new France in Canada, is simply told and backgrounded by the actual scenery described in the book. The director took his entire troupe of Comédie Française players to Canada and there the film was made.

The principal characters are the Chapdelaine family, and the chronicle is of their daily life and that of their farmer neighbors.

Maria Chapdelaine, flower of the family, has three suitors who adore her, but the one she prefers is François Paradis—a trapper.

Tragedy attends this romance, and, for all the girl's hardiness, she would have succumbed to grief but for the strong advice of the parish priest . . . Maria must stop dwelling on her sorrow. She is a pioneer woman and it is her duty to marry, found a family, and let the dead past bury its dead. . . .

The photography has been directed with sincerity and skill—and the same may be said for the acting. The photography is splendid.

Dialog is in French—but English subtitles make everything clear.

I think you'll love "Maria Chapdelaine."

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. William Drawbaugh, 2021 Jarvis avenue, announce the marriage of their daughter, Marjorie Drawbaugh, to Robert Ford Bentley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bentley of Sheridan place, Evanston, last Saturday at St. Peter's Episcopal church. Mr. and Mrs. Bentley left on a wedding trip to New York. They will live at 7007 Ridge boulevard.

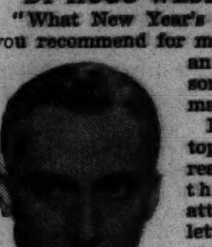
Puzzled Girl Asks Whether She Will Wed

Reading of Her Features Indicates She Will.

BY HUGO WESTERBERG.

"What New Year's resolutions do you recommend for me? I am such an unusual person. Will I get married?"



PAUL LUKAS.

It is a timely topic and if my readers could see the photographs attached to the letter they would agree with me that the matter is not to be passed up without serious thought. The writer is an unusual person. She says she does not smoke nor drink and she does not stay out late nights. She works hard and her ambitions haven't died down as they do in some persons.

This girl has a determined mouth, with more than medium long upper and lower lips [the length of the upper lip should be measured from the red part up to where it meets the lower line of the nose. The length of the lower lip should be measured from the red part down to the turn of the chin]. The meaning of this person's lips is that she has a tendency to get what is coming to her and to keep it. The width of her mouth is medium, which indicates that her desire for personal gain is limited to her proper share, with due consideration for the interests of others.

The red parts of her lips are a little larger than usual, which indicates a free and generous outflow of affections. The nose slants up somewhat from the upper lip, indicating an impulsive and energetic way of taking action. It is fairly rounded at the tip, denoting a normally developed curiosity about people and things. The nose in side view is further somewhat inward curved, signifying a tendency to please. In front view it is fairly narrow in the lower part, which shows an inclination to see good and bad points impartially.

A charming face and an agreeable personality, I think. If I can't help with a suggestion about resolutions, it only remains to answer the last question. Taking into consideration the fact that she was born in August, 1920, my verdict is: Yes, but not for awhile.

Paul Lukas, the movie star, is another example of nearly perfect facial development. The forehead is high and wide in front view and somewhat backward sloping in side view. This means memory for facts and capacity for handling them with judgment. The fleshiness of the lower part of the nose indicates that his observations in life and the gathering of information are often colored by emotional reactions.

Johnny Downs 20; Now He Can Drive an Auto

Father Lets Young Actor Buy a Car.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Johnny Downs, 20 year old singing and dancing "find" who was featured in "Coronado" and a half dozen other 1935 pictures, has at last won the consent of his parent, a retired United States navy lieutenant, to drive an automobile.

Johnny's Christmas present was permission to buy a car out of his year's movie earnings. Up to this week Johnny had traveled everywhere around town by trolley or taxi, as his dad, who was left alone with Johnny when the boy's mother died many years ago, had strong feelings about 'teen age juveniles in autos.

Jean Parker, who was a Pasadena high schooler until she stepped from the classroom into films about eighteen months ago, says: "I prefer high school dances any time to the surroundings and reception you get in a Hollywood night club. If you go to a regular night club everybody wonders who your escort is and there is a lot of talk. If I go to a H-Y dance I have a good time because I am treated like everybody else. That's why I decline invitations to go out at night around Hollywood."

Gene Raymond's brother, Robert Marlowe, plays a bit as the elevator boy in Gene's new film, "Don't Bet on Love."

Director Richard Wallace sent a big Christmas basket to Bland Gentner, who was the first person to reach the plane in which Wallace was seriously injured and several others, including United States Senator Bronson Cutting, were killed in a crackup near Macon, Mo., last May.

Charles Laughton's New Year resolve is "never to go to sea again." When Laughton looked wracked and harassed in those scenes in "Mutiny on the Bounty" it wasn't skilful makeup; he was just seasick for the steenth straight day.

Paul Muni went into the M. G. M. projection room with officials of the studio to look at one of his screen tests in Chinese costume for "The Good Earth." A shout of laughter greeted the reel as it unwound; the Chinese jaws were wagging as nothing but American chewing gum would make them wag. "I remember now, I was chewing gum," said the crestfallen actor, "but I wasn't conscious of it."

Illness of Director Victor Fleming is causing a new change of plans for filming "The Good Earth"; another director will have to be found.

Five Will Bow at Debutante Parties Today

When society starts its round of calls this afternoon three homes will be presenting debutante daughters along with New Year's cheer.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Kelly and two of their daughters, Miss Marjorie and Miss Patricia Kelly, will receive their friends from 4 until 7 o'clock in the Kellys' residence in Indian Hill road, Winnetka, at a party which will mark the formal introduction into society of the Misses Kelly.

John Henry Stevens and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Milton Sheldon, will receive in the Sheldons' Glencoe home to introduce Miss Elizabeth Ann Sheldon, and Mr. and Mrs. Holman D. Pettibone will be at home in Winnetka for their daughter, Miss Georgia Pettibone.

And tonight the final debutante dinner dance of the season will be given at the Palmer house when Miss Alice Bacon is introduced.

The Kelly party will be a gay one because there will be dancing for the young people, always an added pleasure to any party. About thirty of the debutantes' friends will assist at the tea tables—authough they will be seen more frequently on the dance floor—and a group of young men will act as ushers, a custom that is growing in popularity here.

Among the young women assisting will be quite a few of last year's debutantes, for Miss Marjorie was supposed to have been a deb of the 1934 season but illness prevented her making a debut then. The Misses Kelly and most of their assistants and the ushers will go to town after the tea to attend a dinner-dance Mr. and Mrs. Edward Richardson Bacon are giving for their daughter, Miss Mary Alice Bacon, at the Palmer house.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Sheldon Jr. and John William Sheldon will assist their sister, parents and grandfather in receiving their guests and in addition to this family group there will be several young women pouring at the tea tables.

These include Miss Sheldon's two debutante cousins, Miss Barbara Stevens Soper of Lake Forest and Miss Joan Stevens Sutter of Winnetka; Miss Marianne Hoover, who is the debutante's roommate at Vassar college; Miss Dorothy Davis, Miss Phyllis Smith of Rockford, Miss Jane Wilson of Rye, N. Y., Miss Margaret Sanborn of New York, Miss Frances Jeffery, Miss Catherine Hepburn and Miss Phoebe Swazey, all Vassar friends; Miss Elsie Jane Bell, Miss Jane Hoover, Miss Mary Nevins and Miss Barbara Munn.

The debutante, her assistants and their escorts will remain after the tea for a buffet supper and dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Pettibone and their daughter, who is a student at Mount Holyoke, will receive also from 4 until 7 o'clock. Miss Pettibone's younger sister, Miss Jean Pettibone, a senior at the Roycemore school, will assist at the tea tables with a group of her sister's friends. They include Miss Suzanne Manierre, a Milwaukee debutante, Miss Julie Walcott, Miss Antoinette Dangler, Miss Patty Quisenberry, and perhaps Miss Nina Joyes of Louisville, Ky., a school friend.

After the tea Mr. and Mrs. Pettibone will take their daughter, her assistants and their escorts to the Indian Hill club for the club's usual New Year's day supper and dance.

The very last debutante dinner-dance of the season is the one which Mr. and Mrs. Bacon are giving tonight to present their attractive daughter. The debutantes and their beaux who will gather in the Red Lacquer room at 8 o'clock may be a bit weary after such a hectic, busy season, but just as a match flares up and burns the brightest for a moment before it flickers out, so will the Bacon party be as jolly and gay as possible, for at it the three score young women who bowed this year will be saying good-bye to their debutante season and having a last fling as debutantes.

Miss Bacon, who is tall and slim and blonde, has been one of the most popular debutantes with the stag lines during the season, for she is very pretty and unaffected. She was educated at the Girls' Latin school and spent a few months abroad last summer. Her elder sister, Mrs. Charles Porter Atherton, the former Gwendolen Bacon, and Mr. Atherton are here from Boston for the party. Mrs. Atherton, too was graduated from the Girls' Latin school.

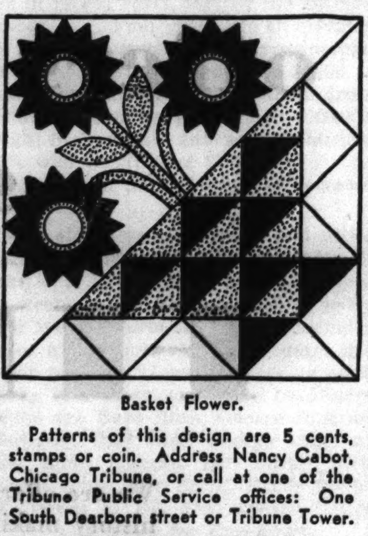
"Basket Flower" Is Adaptation of an Older Quilt



Basket Flower.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Basket Fower" is a present day interpretation of the extremely old "Basket of Roses," which was first made when women became emboldened to applique a rose upon their quilt by cutting a circle, with a cup as a pattern, and taking a notch out of the extremities of the circle when folded in four parts. The "Basket Flower" has a more intricate edge but not too difficult. The completed coverlet contains 30 applique blocks and 20 plain ones.

The Stage

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne will begin an engagement in the Erlanger theater on Monday, Feb. 3, in the Theater Guild's staging of Shakespeare's comedy, "The Taming of the Shrew." This will be the second offering of the American Theater society's subscription series.

"Federal Theater No. 1" will begin activities in a downtown theater within a few weeks, according to an announcement by Theodore Viehman, stage director on the Chicago staf of the Works Progress administration. He expresses a hope that this may become a permanent Chicago institution under federal sponsorship. Free tickets to a portion of the house will be distributed through relief agencies. Nominal prices will be asked for the other seats.

all get together, for there are so many small clubs within the club.

On New Year's day, however, every member dresses himself in his most formal morning clothes and allows nothing to interfere with his partaking of New Year cheer [complimentary] at the exclusive club which never allows a woman to set foot within its sacred precincts. Today's party is the club's 66th New Year's day luncheon.

According to custom the William Scudders will serve eggnog at noon today, too, and then when the men depart for the Chicago club Mrs. Scudder will entertain the deserted wives at luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress as usual will dispense New Year's cheer in their home, Fenbrook, in Hubbard Woods, this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Fentress [Roslyn Paine], who are here from Ardmore, Pa., for the holidays, will say au revoir to their friends at this party, for they are returning east soon.

Hutchinses Will Greet Faculty.

President and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins will hold their annual New Year's reception from 4 to 6 for members of the faculty of the University of Chicago.

Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine and her son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine Jr., will be at home in the former's apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive from 5 until 7 o'clock.

Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Andrews are holding their usual New Year's reception this afternoon at their Astor street residence. Their son, E. Wyllys Andrews IV., at home from Harvard for the holidays, will receive with his parents.

The Warren Lamsons of Winnetka will be at home to their friends and those of their three daughters from 4 until 7 o'clock. Punch will be dispensed and there will be dancing.

Miss Durie Malcolm will give an eggnog party for Miss Mary Wood and Miss Frances Glore this afternoon at the home of her parents, the George Malcolms, in Lake Forest.

Geneva Residents to Give Reception.

Many of their friends will be driving out from town to Geneva to attend the Raymond Scotts' and the Ralph Davises' annual New Year's day reception this afternoon.

Miss Mary Sylvia West will be at home from 5 until 7 o'clock in her East Division street apartment.

The Charles Henry MacDowells will be at home from 5 to 7 o'clock at their apartment at 1500 Lake Shore drive.

The junior Robert Whites and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Catton Rich are among others giving eggnog parties.

The Robert S. Hotzes are entertaining a group of debutantes and their beaux today at a party they are giving for Miss Adele Proxmire, the debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire. The Hotzes are having a buffet luncheon at 2 o'clock in their Lake Forest home, and they are having a pianist so the young people may dance or sing as they choose.

Mrs. Edgar Stanton will entertain at luncheon for Miss Louise Parsons and Francis Rew Stanton who are to be married Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Stanton have invited members of the bridal party of their son and his fiancée.

Even Soviet Russia Bows to the Universal Urge for Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

You can't keep down the urge to beauty! Word out of Moscow confirms the age old suspicion that women will not be denied their rights to beautiful citizenship. Formality featured the opening of a new beauty salon in the heart of Moscow, a news report divulges. This is but one of a chain of cosmetic shops opening throughout the soviet union. The enlightening note is added that this is the result of a vast government campaign to popularize the use of cosmetics.

Proving, one might suggest, that man can't live by the bread and butter look alone, yes? He must have more than a soap and water flavor to make women appetizing. It is said that it is easier to buy a lipstick in Moscow today than it is to purchase an alarm clock. Well, you can guess the time, but a colorless lip is a depressing thing. The young women of the soviet union, it is told, from factories and collective farms, are more agog over this exciting movement than anything heretofore happening in their, to us, difficult lives. The few beauty shops, we learn, are done by interior decorators in the grand manner, with indirect lighting and all the modern facilities. Newspapers are featuring cosmetic advertisments.

Nor is the masculine faction barred from the personal beautification scheme. Men are encouraged to make themselves as presentable and attractive as the fair ones it may be their privilege to escort to the Russian theater.

"With its increasing strength, economically and politically, the soviet government," we read in the news dispatch, "now is able to indulge the population in what previously were described as bourgeois luxuries."

Seeing Russia under the new cosmetic circumstances will be a more heartening experience than formerly. Reports that have reached our ears about the appearance of the women there were disheartening, to put it mildly. Beauty may have been there, but its failure to survive the shock of ugly dress and blanched lips was too painfully obvious to a foreign visitor.

And so the world of Russia moves on.

N. U. AND NOTRE DAME BATTLE TO 20-20 TIE

SOUTHERN METHODIST MEETS STANFORD TODAY

85,000 TO JAM ROSE BOWL FOR FOOTBALL DUEL

Fair Weather, Fast Field Predicted.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 31.—While the politicians of Texas and California chose plug hats instead of raincoats as the apparel keynote for the Rose Bowl football game, and the fashion setters from Hollywood got out their finery, two tense and sturdy squads of 35 athletes each from Southern Methodist and Stanford universities toyed with their last full meals of steak and rare roast beef tonight, hardly able to wait until time to take the field at 2 p. m. [4 p. m. Chicago time] tomorrow.

The weather man, as usual, wound up the last lap of preparation the most important personality involved. He cheered supporters of Southern Methodist by forecasting a fair, sunny day. The rival teams found the turf in the Rose Bowl a bit heavy when they took final limbering up exercises today, but a warm sun was drying out the field rapidly and it will be in perfect condition.

The odds stood at 5 to 4, with Southern Methodist the favorite. This price has prevailed ever since the yip-yapping Texas rooters began to pour into Los Angeles with bulging purses two weeks ago.

Coaches Do Their Stuff.

Coach Matty Bell of Southern Methodist sparred around for the proper thing to say in advance of the game, and ended with this statement: "I'd sort of like to have it dry." Bell also said that "Stanford is an awfully strong football club."

Tiny Thornhill, coach of the 200 pound Stanfords, doesn't even try to look sad and forlorn when he talks about a team he likes as well as his 1935 Indians. "These Stanford boys are a great bunch of boys," Tiny said. "They want to win, and they aim to win. They are going to play a very hard game."

Each team enters the game with a few questions to be answered, and these questions will not be answered until the ball is kicked off.

That's why the bowl will be jammed with 85,000 spectators.

Can Grayson Be Stopped.

There is the question of Stanford's ability to grind across the goal on the strength of its running game. Stanford adherents cannot see how Bobby Grayson, with his powerful

TEN GIRLS FROM WATERS ENTER SILVER SKATES

Ten girls were nominated yesterday by Zina Iviss, instructor at Waters playground [board of education], located at Sunnyside and Maple avenues, for the nineteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies which will be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE at Garfield park on Jan. 11 and 12.

These girls will receive their contestants' numbers by mail and will report on Sunday Jan. 12 for their preliminary trials. There are no races for the two girls' division on Saturday, which afternoon is reserved for preliminaries in the boys' midget, boys' juvenile, and boys' junior age classes.

Five Seniors, Five Juniors.

The Waters playground entry is equally divided. In the senior class [for girls 16 years of age and over], Dorothy Donley, Dorothy Cartwright, Lois Feichtmeier, Vera Walsh, and Anita Lang have been entered. In the junior class [for girls under 16 years of age], the contestants are Anna Parker, Ferdyne Gruntzmacher, Collien Cardwell, Virginia Morgan, and Gayle Vietinghoff.

Five days remain in which entries will be accepted for this year's Derbies. Entries close at midnight Sunday. The daily mail has increased and there is every indication of a record entry. In as far as possible, the list of teams entered will be made public prior to the meet.

Two Team Trophies.

For them, there are two trophies, the Walter Eckersall Memorial trophy, which goes to the organization scoring the most points, and a silver trophy for the team which has the largest number of contestants in the races. This does not apply to the number of entrants.

Points in each of the seven championships will be scored as follows: First, 50; second, 40; third, 30; fourth, 20, and fifth, 10 points. Total points in all races, both boys and girls, will determine the team championship, which will be defended by the Northwest Skating club.

Bobby Grayson to Wed in Honolulu on Jan. 12

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Robert [Bobby] Grayson, star Stanford full back, announced today he would marry Miss Christine Williams, daughter of Col. Ben Williams, in Honolulu on Jan. 12. Grayson said he would sail on Jan. 5 with 10 of his Stanford teammates who oppose Southern Methodist university in the Rose Bowl tomorrow. Grayson and his teammates will play two games in Hawaii. The ten players will act as ushers at the wedding.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1936: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ALMOST every member of the Stanford football squad will wear a rabbit's foot on his uniform in the Rose Bowl today. . . . It is said that one of the rabbits was caught in a cemetery at midnight and the right hind leg rubbed on a colored boy's head. . . . The good luck charms were sent by a Stanford alumnus residing in Arizona. . . . If Coach Thornhill's men do not show a stronger defense against Southern Methodist's passes than they did against Alabama's last year they will need something more than rabbits' feet to come away victorious. . . . Top Row, winner of the Christmas stakes at Santa Anita, takes a nap each morning. . . . His 1935 earnings amounted to $97,760. . . . Expenses of Leo Freisinger, silver skates winner in 1933, to the Olympic games are being paid by the Catholic Youth organization of Chicago which he is representing. . . . Missouri will have a "B" football team on the field next fall, thereby spiking a rumor that the "B" team had been playing the varsity schedule until last fall. . . . The Cubs will carry seventy-five trunks, almost as many as Ringling Brothers, when they are on their See America spring training tour. . . . Sixty will be for personal effects. . . . Larry French leads with three trunks. . . .

CAPT. ROY E. DAVIS.

MAJ. FREDERIC McLAUGHLIN.

Tom Lieb, football coach at Loyola university of Los Angeles, is ill of pneumonia at his home in Faribault, Minn. . . . Navin field, Detroit, announces that next year its press box will be inclosed with glass. . . . This is the second major improvement there in recent years, leaving the authors with practically nothing to complain about. . . . Four years ago an elevator was installed to lift the scribes to their working quarters, which are approximately the height of Mount Olympus. . . . A capacity crowd of 20,900 at the Joe Louis-Charley Retzlaff bout Jan. 17 in Chicago Stadium would gross $105,000. . . . Only two previous Stadium shows have attracted $100,000. . . . Tommy Loughran defended his light heavyweight title against Mickey Walker in February, 1929, before 14,000, who contributed $186,000. . . . In the fall of that year Sammy Mandell, then king of the lightweights, defeated Tony Canzoneri before 20,000, who paid $136,000. . . .

Max Marek, heavyweight fighter who eliminated Joe Lipps and Steve Dudas from a tournament being conducted by Madison Square Garden, will rest in Chicago for the next few weeks. . . . "You must have gone into the National league schedule meeting weaving and bobbing with a hocky stick in your hands," said an observer to Maj. Frederic McLaughlin recently in discussing the fact that two-thirds of his Blackhawks' home dates are on Sunday. . . . "I did not," the major replied. "I went in crying as if my heart were broken." . . . Among the 1934 American league headliners who have passed out of that organization are Babe Ruth, George Pipgras, Willie Kamm, Glenn Myatt, Fred Marberry, Sam Rice, George Uhle, Al Thomas, Bill Cissell, George Earnshaw, Eddie Morgan, Bob Burke, Dick Porter, Danny McFayden, Sam Byrd, Sam Jones, Bob Seeds, Edgar Wells, and Max Bishop. . . . Staten Island friends of Bill Shakespeare, Notre Dame's star left half back, presented him with a car for Christmas. . . . His license number is ND-63, his football number at Notre Dame. . . .

Man o' War, Kentucky bred champion who never raced on a Kentucky track, does eight miles every day under saddle despite the fact that he is 18 years old. . . . Roy Davis, for years chairman of the registration committee of the Central A. A. U., in all probability soon will be appointed head of the American Olympic boxing committtee to succeed William F. Kenney of Boston. . . . The Detroit Red Wings' Christmas card to their owner, James Norris, was so large postoffice officials refused to accept it, and it had to be delivered from Detroit to Chicago by messenger. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Alabama's Crimson Tide defeated Washington, 20 to 19, in the annual Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Cal. . . . Red Grange and the Chicago Bears defeated the Tampa Cardinals, 17 to 3, at Tampa, Fla. . . . Dave Shade, middleweight, defeated Roland Todd in ten rounds at New York. . . . The Midwest A. C. won the Sleipner A. C. ice skating Derby at Humboldt park.

FARRAGUT AND CRANE ENTER U. OF C. FINAL

Tourney Facts

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.

Crane, 35; Bowen, 17.
Farragut, 33; Foreman, 19.

TONIGHT'S GAMES.

7:30 p. m.—Foreman vs. Bowen [for third place.]
8:30 p. m.—Farragut vs. Crane [for championship.]

Crane Tech, the best offensive team of the meet, will try its scoring power tonight against Farragut, the best defensive team, for the championship of the University of Chicago's sixth annual high school basketball tournament.

Crane and Farragut last night ground out convincing and not unexpected victories over their semi-final rivals, Bowen and Foreman, at the Midway field house. Crane downed Bowen, 35 to 17, and Farragut defeated Foreman, 33 to 19. Last night's losers will meet for third place honors at 7:30 o'clock, and the championship game will start at 8:30 a'clock.

Offense vs. Defense Tonight.

The title fight will be between two west side teams with varying styles of play. Crane is a member of the west section of the City league, and Farragut, although a central section member, is a west side school. Crane has scored not less than 35 points against each of its four victims, Waller, Calumet, Tilden, and Bowen. Farragut has allowed none of its four opponents, Parker, Marshall, Austin, and Foreman, more than 20 points.

Crane has a pair of clever forwards in Harry Krotish and Quinto Valentino, and all members of the team are expert ball handlers employing a fast break. Krotish and Valentino are the tourney scoring leaders, the former with 52 points, and the latter with 46. Farragut plays a more deliberate game, with defense stressed. Its offense centers around George Pelc, who is the meet's third highest scorer with 43 points. Crane will rule a slight favorite tonight.

Just a Romp for Crane.

Crane's superiority was apparent from the opening tip-off last night, although Bowen had the advantage in height. But the Techmen were so superior in ball handling and shooting that they led, 13 to 3, at the end of the first quarter. Dutch Gladstone was the only Bowenite to score from the field in the period, while Krotish, Valentino, Anapo, and Levine were counting for Crane.

The play was even in the second

1936 IN SPORT.

SPORTS followers, both spectators and promoters, view incoming 1936 with far less skepticism and doubt than they did the advent of 1935. Rose colored glasses have replaced the dark goggles of a year ago. Progress along the sports recovery route during the year just ended is responsible for the change.

In nearly every branch of athletics, amateur or professional, interest and attendance increased in 1935. While not all fans, of course, could be provided with winners, competition in general was keener as promoters listened to a far more interesting sound in the box office tills.

Chicago rooters had reason to be more than satisfied with their baseball teams, Cubs and Sox. North siders, disappointed that their heroes failed to down Detroit in the world series, should remember that before the season opened only a fractional minority of experts gave the Cubs a chance to win even the National league pennant. The White Sox were up in the thick of the race during most of the season, fading with injuries and lack of adequate reserves. Their finishing position was the best since 1928.

Horse racing, locally, was in distress at the end of 1934. All tracks except one lost money. Last year all tracks except one made money, that exception being due largely to inclement weather. So high class racing again is assured, whereas its future was endangered.

At other points the same prosperity was observed. Santa Anita, near Los Angeles, and Hialeah, near Miami, were the high spots in patronage and play relatively, although some of the New England tracks, in virgin territory, reported record attendance and wagering. Discovery among the handicappers and Omaha in the 3 year old division were outstanding performers.

Joe Louis, the heavyweight who first rose to prominence through the Chicago Tribune Golden Gloves tournaments, was the answer to a boxing promoter's prayer. While million dollar gates of the Jack Dempsey era were not equaled, Louis' drawing qualities at least gave a semblance of those gates with the possibility of equaling them if there was in sight any opponent who might give him an even battle.

Lawson Little supplied in amateur golf skill, if not in popularity, what has been lacking since retirement of Bobby Jones. Among the pros, competition was keener and more uncertain, the result of an increasing number of major flighters.

United States' drastic defeat in Davis Cup tennis competition and the discouraging future outlook was tempered slightly by Wilmer Allison's brilliant performance in the national singles. Helen Wills Moody, in her sensational comeback, furnished the thrills of women's net matches.

Jesse Owens, Ohio State's streak of ebony, was foremost among track performers, despite later reverses. America should have notable representation in the sprints of the Olympic games at Berlin.

So on down the line, 1935 was a year of progress and accomplishment. That is largely why 1936 is faced with such hope and confidence.

Beyond Those Curtains.

Upon the threshold of another year—
What will it bring?
What lies beyond those curtains soon to part.
What mysteries are they still compassing?
Who is there to say what lies beyond
The highway's turn we all so soon shall take—
Shall we look out on pleasant fertile fields
Or on the desolation havocs make?
Whatever lies ahead, we must go on,
Renewing simple faith and hope and love,
Believing that whatever is is right
A brand new page on which to write our record,
Fresh, clean, unsullied, never used before,
Courage, then, as each of us stands waiting
Tremulous before Tomorrow's door!

SCORERS ERR, GIVE WILDCATS 20-19 VICTORY

Teams Leave Floor as Fans Wait.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern, 20; Notre Dame, 20.

This was the score last night at Patten gymnasium after 40 minutes of a basketball battle that has had few equals in major competition for fierce play and no equal for subsequent dispute over the outcome.

The game ended in a tie. This was the unanimous opinion of six newspapermen who kept running accounts of the contest and box scores. But the official scorers, one undergraduate from Northwestern and one from Notre Dame, who were seated at the side of the court, obviously lost a point scored by Notre Dame during the last four minutes.

These boys agreed, at least until they were beset by their superiors, that Northwestern had won, 20 to 19.

Despite the 20 to 19 tabulation on the big green score board at the west end of the gymnasium, a majority of the crowd of 5,800 realized the scorer had erred and waited for the teams to start a five minute overtime period.

The players, however, left the floor and when no effort was made to bring them back, the crowd had no choice except to keep its rendezvous for celebration of the New Year.

Nick Kearns, referee of the game, said: "The officials are not responsible for keeping the score. I don't know what the score was. Mr. Clarno [the umpire] and I were ready to continue if the teams believed the score tied."

Writers Agree on 20-20.

In the press row representatives of two Chicago newspapers, two news services, and two other men who kept notations, agreed that each team had scored 20 points. Referee Kearns said that all successful free throws, two for Northwestern and four for Notre Dame, had counted. None had been canceled because of infraction of the rule prohibiting stepping over the restraining line.

Bill Gillespie of Notre Dame and Johnny Glenn of Northwestern kept the score at the officials' table.

Coach George Keogan of Notre Dame said last night that he believed the score was a tie. Coach Dutch Lonberg of Northwestern confessed, "I won't know."

Too Much for Scorers.

The score board, under no circumstances, can be considered official. Many observers agreed that Notre Dame was leading, 18 to 15, late in the game. Then Jean Smith, Northwestern center, tipped in a followup, but the board at this stage registered a tie at 17 to 17. Mike McMichaels, Wildcat forward, dropped in one free throw in two attempts on Frank Wade's foul and the board gave Northwestern an 18 to 17 lead when the count should have been 18 to 18.

LAWSON LITTLE GETS SULLIVAN TROPHY FOR 1935

Golfer Polls 694 Points; Mrs. Moody Is Second.

Trophy Winners

Year.	Winner, sport—	Pts.
1930	Robert T. Jones Jr., golf	1,625
1931	Barney Berlinger, track and field	424
1932	James Bausch, track and field	687
1933	Glenn Cunningham, track	611
1934	William R. Bonthron, track	1,072
1935	Lawson Little Jr., golf	691

New York, Dec. 31.—(AP)—For his achievement in ruling the world of amateur golf for the second straight year, W. Lawson Little Jr. today was announced the winner of the James E. Sullivan memorial trophy for 1935.

The trophy is awarded annually by the Amateur Athletic union of the United States on the basis of a nation-wide ballot by a tribunal composed of 600 sports leaders. The holder is recognized as the outstanding American amateur athlete and the individual who "by his performance, example, and influence as an amateur and as a man, has done most during the last year to advance the cause of sportsmanship."

Takes Place Alongside Jones.

Little gains a distinction enjoyed by only one other golfer, Robert T. Jones Jr., who was voted the Sullivan memorial trophy in 1930, when it was first established, as a result of his grand slam in British and American competition.

The Californian's selection is noteworthy because he was omitted from the list of outstanding performers submitted to the tribunal in 1934, despite his triumph for the first time in both the British and American amateur title tournaments. William Bonthron, former Princeton mile runner, captured the trophy last year.

Little topped the 1935 list with a total of 694 points and led his nearest rival, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, the Wimbledon tennis champion, by a decisive margin. Mrs. Moody, heroine of one of the year's notable comebacks, finished second with 551 points, thus giving Californians a 1-2 finish in the poll for the first time.

Summarizing reasons for Little's selection, the Sullivan Memorial committee, of which Gustavus T. Kirby, New York, is chairman, stressed not only that the Californian achieved an unprecedented sweep of British-American amateur golf for two years, but emphasized his Walker cup victories, strong character, fighting ability under trying conditions and all-around sportsmanship.

Here Are the Big Ten.

Members of the tribunal were asked to vote for three, in order of preference, with points tabulated on a 5-3-1 basis. The final tabulation follows:

1. W. Lawson Little Jr., world amateur golf champion, 694.
2. Helen Wills Moody, Wimbledon tennis champion, 551.
3. Percy Beard, national high hurdles champion, 482.
4. Jack Medica, national indoor swimming champion, 309.
5. Keith Brown, world record-holder in pole vault, 297.
6. Eulace Peacock, national spring and broad jump champion, 288.
7. Wilmer Allison, national tennis champion, 268.
8. Lenore Kight Wingard, national free style swim champion, 202.
9. Glenna Collett Vare, national golf champion, 110.

Davis and Bath Head Stadium Boxing Card

The order in which ten bouts in the second round of a heavyweight elimination tournament will go on at Chicago Stadium tomorrow night was announced last night.

The windup bout, scheduled at six rounds, will involve Hank Bath of Fort Morgan and Babe Davis, St. Louis. The semi-final, also booked for six rounds, brings together Billy Treest, Batavia, and Smoky Maggard, Bryant, O.

The show will be opened at 8:15 o'clock by a four round scrap between George Vallas, newcomer in Chicago, and Joe Ketchell, Cleveland, to be followed by three other matches at four rounds. Shortly before 10 p. m. the first of six contests at six rounds will be presented between Al Stillman, St. Louis, and Jerry Johnson, New York.

The Old Doctor Helps Out.

The Bath-Davis encounter has been given the spotlight for several reasons. One is the fact that the Fort Morgan fighter is a protégé of Jack Kearns, former manager of Jack Dempsey. Fighters managed by Kearns never are kept in the background whether or not they have the required skill. Consequently, although little is known of Hank the great amount of newspaper publicity given him has made him a prominent figure.

Bath's record includes victories over Ralph Norwood, Terry Hill, and Butch Rogers, all of which took place at Los Angeles. He knocked out Norwood, 192, in the first round; beat Hill, 177, in six rounds, and knocked out Rogers, 186, in the third round. Bath weighed 177 pounds for his conquest of Rogers Nov. 26.

Davis Can Punch.

quarter, which ended at 18 to 9 for Crane. Gladstone's effort was Bowen's only basket in the third period, at the end of which Crane was in front, 28 to 12. Both teams substituted liberally in the final quarter.

Playing cautiously, Farragut and Foreman felt out the defenses during the first quarter, which ended 3 to 2 for Foreman. Frank McCullough's basket and free throw for Foreman, and Bill Tresnak's goal for Farragut comprised the only scoring. Ted Perzanowski increased Foreman's lead with a short shot. Then Farragut began its assault. George Pelc, center and scoring star, connected four times from the floor, three times on long shots and once on a run-in.

HOLD SERVICES TOMORROW FOR W. F. KNEBELKAMP

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Funeral services for Col. William F. Knebelkamp, 65 years old, president of the Louisville American association baseball club and racing stable owner, who died early today of heart complications, will be held here Thursday morning.

Col. Knebelkamp, who was supervising distiller for the National Distillers, purchased the Louisville club in 1919. He raced a thoroughbred stable known as Winona farm.

A month ago he was advised to retire from baseball because the excitement and strain of running a club was too much for his heart. Accordingly he placed the team on the market, asking $250,000. During Col. Knebelkamp's régime, the Colonels won pennants in 1921, 1925, 1926, and 1930.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

Chicagoan to Lead Boys Abroad Friday.

O'Neill Farrell yesterday was named coach of the United States speed skating team which will compete in the 4th winter Olympic games according to an announcement from the office of Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic committee.

Brundage's office was advised of Farrell's selection in a telegram from Frederick W. Ruben of New York, secretary of the Olympic committee. The former Chicago amateur star, national 500 meter champion in 1926, was elected by a mail vote of the speed skating committee.

Farrell, who retired from amateur competition in 1932, was a member of the 1928 and 1932 American Olympic skating teams. In the former he finished second in the 500 meter race. He was sixth in the same event in 1932. The announcement said Farrell would pay his own expenses. He will leave today to join the team, which sails Friday.

EASTERN MEET OPENS

Newburgh, N. Y., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Headed by all five members of the American Olympic team, a record entry list of 169 speed skaters gathered tonight to compete in the 17th annual middle Atlantic meet tomorrow.

Freezing weather the last week has assured perfect ice conditions.

The American Olympic skaters, Allan Potts of Brooklyn, Leo Freisinger and Eddie Schroeder of Chicago, and Delbert Lamb and Bob Petersen of Milwaukee, and the Canadian Olympic star, Frank Stack, top the field in the men's division. It will be their final competition before they sail for Germany on Friday.

Potts will defend his men's senior crown while in the women's senior division Kit Klein of Buffalo will seek to repeat her success of last year. Arrayed against her will be Rita Fenzel of Buffalo, Maddy Horn of Oconomowoc, Wis.; Helen Bahill of Hempstead, N. Y., and many others.

$1,200 HANDICAP HEADS PROGRAM AT ALAMO DOWNS

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Nine thoroughbreds were nominated for tomorrow's running of the $1,200 added Inaugural handicap, opening feature of the 46 day winter season at Alamo Downs.

Prince Fox, who was victorious at Arlington and Epsom Downs, probably will go to the post a favorite to win the 1 mile and 70 yard feature race.

Wise Player, another Inaugural entry and holder of the Alamo Downs track record for the distance in 1:41 3-5, also was sure to be backed by pari-mutuel players.

The opening day handicap is expected to attract a record crowd. In addition to Prince Fox and Wise Player, the event includes On Rush, Glynson, Salaam, Seventh Heaven, Wise Will, The Darb, and Miney Myerson, all popular with Texas betters.

STARS OF EAST FACE WESTERN ELEVEN TODAY

60,000 to Watch Clash at San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—While upwards of 60,000 football fans eagerly scanned lowering skies today for a sign of what tomorrow would bring, a powerful Eastern All-Star team limbered up for the last time in preparation for its annual New Year's day Shrine game with the best players of the west at Kezar stadium. The kickoff will be at 2 p. m. [4 p. m. Chicago time].

For the tenth successive year the victor is known in advance. The winner, as always, will be the Shrine's hospital for crippled children.

The loser may be either the East or the West, but in the betting places they will tell you to the tune of 2 to 1 that the East will finish in front.

East Has Weight Edge.

Experts, if there are experts in prophesying the outcome of All-Star charity games, favor the East to win, but their confidence does not run to such fearful figures as 2 to 1.

The experts will tell you that man for man the East squad has the advantage in weight and natural ability. They will tell you the East has by far the better kickers, and more but not quite as good passers. They concede back field speed to the West, but what good is that if it rains and a springy turf becomes a slippery morass?

If it were to be a fast field and a clear day, the average critic would consider the East had been treated fairly if odds of 10 to 9 were posted in its favor. With a mud battle a possibility, 5 to 4 is long enough.

Too much depends on how the boys feel. If all those 44 lads played the football of which they are capable, the spectators would be shaken out of the stands by the impact. No two heavier squads have ever clashed in San Francisco.

West Better on Attack?

Although inclement weather has prevented both East and West from developing offensive play, the West, perhaps, has had a mite the best of it. Most of the players are familiar with the type of offense taught by Babe Hollingbery and Percy Locey, and they get under way sooner. But even they have had insufficient time for preparation. However, lack of scrimmage has kept injuries to a new low.

Of all the 44 men invited to play, but one seems to be definitely out. Wally Cruice of Northwestern, 183 pound right half, and the East's only left handed passer, who suffered an injury to his knee in practice last week, was feared to be scheduled for bench duty tomorrow.

Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr, East coaches, admitted that Cruice could start the game, but they feared he might develop a permanent injury. Aside from his passing, Cruice can be better spared than lineman, for the East is long on backs and short in the forward wall.

From best information, the starting lineups appear to be:

L. S. U. Meets Christians in Sugar Bowl

New Orleans, La., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Texas Christian and Louisiana State—two of the nation's best football teams—were even money choices tonight on the eve of the second annual Sugar Bowl game.

Defeated only once during the 1935 season, Texas Christian, representing the Southwest conference, and Louisiana, champion of the Southeastern conference, were expected to attract nearly 35,000 for the New Year's day battle.

Slippery Field Is Predicted.

Texas Christian will outweigh Louisiana by more than three pounds to the man, but the Louisiana squad is better equipped in reserve power. Most of Texas Christians' 27 players are ready to go, and on the other hand Louisiana State is ready with three first-rate back fields and two lines of near equal strength.

Take Your Choice.

Texas Christian held a light drill in Tulane's gymnasium this afternoon. In the business section, one betting commissioner was offering odds of 5 to 6 and "take your choice." None could be found giving points.

The probable lineups:

CHRISTIAN.		LOUISIANA S.
Meyer	L. E.	Tinsley
Eliss	L. T.	Carroll
Harrison	L. G.	Helveston
Lester	C.	Stewart
Kellow	R. G.	Brown
Groseclose	R. T.	Rukas
Roach	R. E.	Barrett
Baugh	Q. B.	Seago
Lawrence	L. H.	Fatherree
Kline	R. H.	Reed
Maton	F. B.	Crass

CATHOLIC VS. OLE MISS

Miami, Fla., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Two good, soundly coached football teams were fit and ready tonight for tomorrow's Orange Bowl game—the game Miami hopes may some day rival California's Rose bowl attraction.

Skipping through light final workouts beneath hot sunshine to taper off days of conditioning in the snow and ice back home, Catholic university's big Cardinals and the University of Mississippi's lighter warriors satisfied their coaches they were in shape.

The starting lineups:

MISSISSIPPI		CATHOLIC

85,000 Watch Stanford Play S.M.U. Today

interferer, Bones Hamilton, helping clean up ahead of him, can be stopped short of one or two touchdowns. At the very least, the coast rooters feel positive their team will get within placement kicking distance of the Mustangs' goal a couple of times. Monk Moscrip, the Stanford left end, has won so many games for his team with his sure fire toe in the last three years, that any Stanford approach inside the opposition twenty yard line is automatically considered three points for Stanford [if you went to college in the far west].

Southern Methodist fans are generous and concede Stanford may score a touchdown; maybe two. But the Texans expect to end the game with one or two touchdowns more than Stanford gets, and there is some logic to their figuring that they have demonstrated more point making versatility.

Watch Mr. Wilson!

Any time the Methodists' 147 pound fireball, Bobby Wilson, gets the ball, he is a threat. And Wilson is not the only threat. Burt and Finley, Shuford and Smith, also can and do run wide with the ball, or pass from a run or lateral it. The Texans are a more opportunistic team; they execute plays with five or six men on the dead run to different spots, and if they complete one or two unexpected forward passes early in the game, they might permanently damage Stanford's defensive aplomb.

On S. M. U.'s side, the question arises as to the ability of Spain and Orr, the two big tackles, to break through the Stanford line when the Indians carry the ball, and break up the coast team's pet reverses. The Texans think it can be done. Stanford doesn't. Stanford admittedly has an edge, both in power and finesse, on the ends. Stewart and Tipton of the Texans are going to find themselves against probably more devastating blocking, and smarter opposition, than they ever saw before. Spain and Orr may be able to help their ends part of the time, but chances are that Coach Bell will need fast and durable replacements at the flanks, for that is where Stanford has to pour it on if it is going to win.

Muller vs. Wetzel.

The center of the line seems nearly a standoff, Stanford's giant center, Wes Muller, perhaps tipping the scales a trifle, even against the inspired play of which the southerners' star guard, Iron Man Wetzel, is capable.

The two state governors—James Allred of Texas and Frank Merriam of California—will occupy boxes on the opposite sides of the field.

7 Independent Teams Play for Football Title Today

The Our Lady of Grace team will meet the Winkler Motors for the state independent football title this afternoon at the 124th Field Artillery armory. In other games the Winiecki Packers will play the Oak Park Senators and the Frank Ringa Boosters will oppose the Edgewater Roamers.

Report Breadon Seeks Brooklyn N. L. Franchise

New York, Dec. 31.—(AP)—The Daily News says Sam Breadon, owner of the St. Louis Cardinals, is attempting to arrange a trade of the St. Louis and Brooklyn National league franchises, bringing the Cardinals to Brooklyn and sending the Dodgers to St. Louis.

The paper says Breadon conferred with Ford Frick, National league president, last week endeavoring to get his support for the plan. The St. Louis owner is ready to give a large amount of cash in addition to the Cardinal franchise in order to move into Brooklyn with his club and its chain store adjuncts.

Breadon denied he had such intentions, however, the News adds, quoting him as saying: "If this plan did not go through where would I stand next summer with my Missouri public?" Frick also refused to discuss the matter "in its present nebulous state."

Horton Smith Wins Pasadena Open with 279

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Horton Smith, golf professional from Chicago, won the annual Pasadena $4,000 open tournament today with 279 for 72 holes. In adding his third major tournament for the year to his collection, Smith toured the final 18 holes in 69, after a par 71 in the morning round.

Tied for second place with 283's were Harry Cooper, Chicago, and Harold McSpaden of Kansas City, Winner of the 1934 meet.

Smith, winner of the Miami-Biltmore open two weeks ago and of the Palm Springs tournament last February, collected $1,000. McSpaden and Cooper split $1,000—$600 for second place and $400 for third. Fourth place was worth $350 to Loos, and Laffoon received $300.

Other professionals who finished in the money were Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J.; Ray Mangrum, Pittsburgh; Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa.; and Fred Morrison, Pasadena, with 286's. They received $187.50. John Geertson, Ogden, Utah, and Wiffy Cox, Bethesda, Md., with 287, won $75.

GOOCH, WHITTED SIGN WITH REDS TO PILOT FARMS

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Two old timers of baseball, Catcher Johnny Gooch and Infielder George Whitted, today signed with the Cincinnati Reds. They will be assigned clubs to manage in the Piedmont and South Atlantic leagues, where the Reds maintain farms.

Whitted, a star with the Phillies many years ago, has served with Asheville, N. C., and Durham, N. C., clubs of the Piedmont league. Gooch, not so old, is expected to continue his playing with whatever team he will manage.

Hawks, Wings Clash Tonight; Skip the Fish!

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Some rascal showered the Chicago Stadium hocky rink with herring just one year ago today. The demonstration will be celebrated tonight in peaceful manner and every spectator will be viewed to make sure he is toting no herring this time. A dead herring is not necessarily a deadly missil but the management wants no herring present when the magnificently revived Blackhawks engage in tonight's hocky match with the grouchy Detroit Red Wings.

Indications yesterday were that the yelpings of Manager Jack Adams of the Red Wings will be forgotten once the teams take the ice tonight. Normally Mr. Adams is a happy, smiling fellow and though he has been screaming stalling charges against teams of the league, with emphasis on the Hawks, it is believed that the New Year will find him again his affable self, forgetful of his ridiculous threats of so-called reprisals, which included the impossible proposition that he would station six players in front of his cage and permit them to linger there all evening.

Everything Will Be O. K.

After all, when Mr. Adams sang his song about stalling he was only sobbing in behalf of the customers, and though he may have been a little fuzzy and inconsistent about his ideas of what constitutes stalling, it is said he has the best interests at heart, even if he has moved to wreck the gate in several of hocky's best rinks.

The Hawks, in publicizing the grudge theme anent their relations with the Red Wings, like to carry the grudge a bit farther back than Adams' sobs about stalling. They say the Red Wings are still sore because the Hawks booted them out of the competition for the Stanley cup when the Hawks won the world championship in the spring of 1934. They say that the reason a good Red Wing team wallowed in the American division cellar last year was because the boys were so sore at the Hawk Stanley cup licking that they couldn't get their minds on their work.

It's Tailor Made Team.

On paper, so the Hawks point out, there is no reason why the Red Wings should care what kind of hocky is played by the opposition.

Under the lavish expenditure of their owner, James Norris of Chicago, Adams has assembled a tailor made team of high scorers, only one regular player, Ebbie Goodfellow, having been signed from the amateurs and developed by Adams.

In his rôle as the Tom Yawkey of hocky Mr. Norris has purchased Syd Howe, last year's leading scorer in the American division though he played many of his games with the miserable and now nonexistent St. Louis Eagles.

Should Score Plenty.

Runner-up to Howe among American division scorers was Laurie Aurie, with the team last year but purchased after his development professionally. Herbie Lewis was fourth among American division scorers last year, too, and he, like Aurie, was a purchased player. Marty Barry, fifth among the American division scorers last season, was obtained from Boston. Four of the first five American league scorers last season will be playing for the Red Wings at the Stadium tonight.

The Kilrea brothers, Wally and Hec, and Johnny Sorrell are among the other purchased players who know how to tangle pucks in nets.

Tonight's game will start at the usual time, 8:30. Some of the headache fans had heard it was later, inquiries have indicated.

DETROIT TO PLAY EXHIBITION GAME AT DENVER TODAY

Denver, Colo., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—The Detroit Lions, professional football champions of the world, open their four game exhibition tour here tomorrow against an all-star eleven selected from the National league.

The all-stars will include Bernie Masterson, quarter back, and George Grosvenor, half back, from the Chicago Bears, and Lou Gordon, veteran tackle from the Chicago Cardinals. Masterson and Grovenor will start in the back field with Arnie Herber, Green Bay's passing star, and George Sauer, full back from the same team. Herber's favorite receiver, Don Hutson, former Alabama star whose pass catching gave Green Bay two victories over the Bears this fall, will play one of the ends.

The Lions will continue to the coast after tomorrow's game, which is a benefit affair, to play two contests before going to Hawaii.

PARTICK THISTLE WINS.

Rangers Whip Maroons, 1-0; Take 1st Place

New York, Dec. 31.—(AP)—The New Year's resolution of Manager Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers that he would lead his team into 1936 at the head of the American division of the National Hocky league was fulfilled tonight by his son, Lynn.

Before a crowd of 12,000 Lynn fired home the only goal of the evening as the Rangers defeated the Montreal Maroons 1 to 0.

Only 6:37 of the first period had gone when Heller passed to Dillon and the latter shot the puck to young Patrick as he skated over the blue line into Montreal territory. Patrick had a clear shot.

The victory gave the Rangers a two point lead over the Chicago Blackhawks and the Detroit Red Wings in the division standing, the New York team having been tied for the lead with those two clubs before tonight's encounter. Lineups:

Notre Dame, N. U. Battle to 20-20 Tie

Ford Ties Up Count.

In a struggle under Notre Dame's goal, Northwestern took the ball, but a hurried pass to Vance shot out of bounds. Ireland grabbed the ball and tossed it in to Co-Capt. Johnny Ford, who let fly from near center. The ball whipped through the net for what should have been a 20 to 20 tie. Less than ten seconds later the timer's gun sounded.

There was no dispute apparently until after the third field goal of the second half by Vance, which brought the count to Notre Dame, 14; Northwestern, 13. The running score from this point follows:

Johnny Moir broke from mid-floor and dribbled in for the goal which gave the Irish a 16 to 13 lead. Tug Blume then fouled Ray Meyer, who tossed the point for a 17 to 13 lead. Four minutes later Hi Bender fouled Meyer and again the Notre Dame forward made good. Bender then scored on a pass from Smith and it was Notre Dame, 18; Northwestern, 15. Smith followed up McMichaels' shot for an 18 to 17 score. Wade fouled McMichaels, who had two free throws, made the first for a tie score, and missed the second. Then came Trenkle's field goal, followed by Ford's long goal for the final 20 to 20 tabulation.

Irish Lead at Half, 12 to 6.

The score at half time was Notre Dame, 12; Northwestern, 6. Guy Mercer's tip on Trenkle's missed free throw started the Wildcats off with a lead, but Moir's goal tied the count and then Meyer and Ireland ran up an Irish advantage of 6 to 2. Northwestern tallied two more field goals on successive 25 foot shots by McMichaels while Notre Dame went on to 12 points.

McMichaels, Blume, Smith, Mercer, and Capt. Vance started the second half for Northwestern. Notre Dame started its co-captains, Marty Peters and Johnny Ford, and Moir, Nowak, and Ireland. Vance hit three field goals, which, with a free throw by Blume, brought the count of Notre Dame, 14 [Nowak had scored for Notre Dame]; Northwestern, 13.

From this point you have read the individual scoring.

N. U. Weak on Free Throws.

The Wildcats outscored Notre Dame from the field, 9 to 8. However, Northwestern only scored two free throws in nine attempts, while the Irish made good on four of their ten attempts.

Nichols' Bank Pays Dividend of $6 a Share

John M. [100 Per Cent] Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, in a New Year's message to stockholders yesterday, announced a $6 dividend payment, told of a business coup which had been profitable to the bank, and took a parting 1935 shot at the New Deal.

"Taking everything into consideration, we feel that the past twelve months has been particularly good to us," Nichols said. "With no customer loans, depreciated bonds, or questionable paper to write down, our problem has resolved itself into one of income and operating expense."

Operating Expenses Cut.

Nichols said that reduction of accounts from 16,000 to less than 6,000 through paying off smaller depositors had reduced operating expenses, while refusal to open new accounts has kept deposit liability at a minimum.

"Through a very fortunate purchase and sale of government securities, our normal income for 1935 was augmented to an extent that we were able to write down our building to $10, our vault company to $1 and our federal reserve stock to 10 cents," Nichols said.

Accept Cash or Bonds.

"We have an agreement with our depositors that in the case of an emergency they shall accept either cash or government securities at their face value. Thus has your stock been fortified against inevitable collapse of the Roosevelt bubble—a time when every bank will have to stand on its own feet—sink or swim on the strength of its own investments.

OLSON RUG HEAD RAPS NEW DEAL JOB PROGRAM

Ineffectiveness of the New Deal in meeting the unemployment problem was assailed yesterday by Walter E. Olson, president of the Olson Rug company, in his annual message to employés. With almost 10 million persons out of work it is impossible to think of business recovery without including them, he asserted.

Olson said there is no such thing as unemployment relief, which he termed "slavery in its most shameful form." He said the unemployed voted for a "New Deal" only to find they had been duped into a dole, supported from present and future taxes. He said the nation can never achieve complete recovery without the economic man power of the present unemployed and their spending as consumers.

"As long as the country hobbles along on a fraction of its earning power and a fraction of consuming power, 40 million wage earners will have to pay taxes and do the work of 50 million people."

Rug business in 1935, Olson said, was 23 per cent of the 1929 total.

SUGAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Raw sugar was firmer today and there was a little better inquiry, although offerings were light. Late yesterday the spot price advanced 5 points on a sale of 30,100 bags of Puerto Ricos for early January shipment at 3.25c per lb, and today an additional gain of 3 points was established when 14,700 bags of Cubas sold from store at 3.28c. In addition there was a sale of 32,200 bags of Puerto Ricos for January shipment at 3.25c and 18,000 bags of Philippines for January-February shipment at 3.30c. CHICAGO HEIGHTS BANK GIVES FULL CONDITION DATA

All Asset Components Are Detailed.

The Citizens National bank of Chicago Heights has backed up its belief in full publicity for banking operations with the issuance of a detailed statement of its assets, including a list of its security holdings which account for $1,726,365 of $2,465,632 total assets carried on its books. Cash was $544,455 at the time of the statement which is as of Dec. 20.

"When any one comes into our bank to borrow money we ask many pertinent questions," said the bank in its statement. "Before we trust him with our bank's money we want to know who he is, how he operates his business, does he make a profit, what he owns, and how much he owes.

Explain Stand.

"When a depositor comes into our bank and makes a deposit he is actually loaning us money. Therefore, he has just as much right to know who we are, whether or not we make a profit, how we operate our business, what we have and how much we owe."

The statement shows the issue, maturity, and amount of each holding of government obligations, together with its market value, yield, and amount at which it is carried on the books. Treated similarly in lists are federal land bank bonds, joint stock land bank bonds, Dominion of Canada bonds, municipal bonds, and tax anticipation warrants.

Some Changes Made.

Industrial, utility, railroad, and miscellaneous bonds are listed in like manner except that ratings and number of issues in each classification are substituted for the names of issuers and yields are omitted.

A recapitulation of bond holdings show par value of $1,711,671, book value of $1,726,365, and market value of $1,742,845.

Deposits, now aggregating $2,296,048, have shown an increase of 400 per cent in two years, the bank said. It has 4,673 customers and is the largest financial institution in Chicago Heights.

*New 1935 high.

New York, Dec. 31.—[Special.]—The bond market ended the year today with a pronounced display of strength, particularly in second grade and speculative issues. Selling for cash again represented a large percentage of the total volume. Total sales amounted to $13,588,000, against $10,344,000 Tuesday.

Gains of one to two points were recorded in a long list of second grade rails, including most of the old favorites. Among the leaders were bonds of Baltimore and Ohio, St. Louis-San Francisco, Boston and Maine, Milwaukee, Chicago and North Western, Missouri-Kansas-Texas, and Seaboard.

Many Hit New Highs.

A number of industrials ended the year at their best prices. Walworth 6s and 6½s were conspicuous in this respect, the former gaining 5 points and the latter 8. Gains of a point or more were recorded also in New York Railways income 6s and prior lien 6s, Manati Sugar 7½s, Consolidated Coal 5s, and Abitibi 5s.

Further improvement occurred in high grade railroad, utility and industrial issues. Treasury issues were quiet and firm.

U. S. Division Strong.

United States government issues were strong. Treasury 3¼s of 1944 gained 7-32 to 105.17 and the 3s of 1949 advanced 5-32 to 103.2. Other active issues also fared well.

Foreign bonds moved higher under leadership of the Italians, most of which got up 1 to nearly 3 points. Government 7s closed at 64⅞, up 2⅞ and Rome 6½s improved 2⅜ at 56⅞.

Bond transactions for 1935 were moderately below the total of the last two years, comparing as follows: 1935, $3,356,874,000; 1934, $3,734,699,000; 1933, $3,475,747,000.

INT. HARVESTER TO ELIMINATE SALES COMPANY

International Harvester company will eliminate its United States selling and servicing subsidiary, International Harvester Company of America, effective today, according to an announcement by the company yesterday. The parent company will absorb all the subsidiary's assets.

The purpose of the shift is to simplify the company's corporate structure, according to Sydney G. McAllister, president.

"This change is to some degree experimental," McAllister said. "It will be made in such a way that if it should not work out for the benefit of the company and its customers we can readily return to the sales subsidiary plan."

The Investor During 1935.

One of the most significant trends during 1935 from the investors' viewpoint was the continual downward course in interest rates and the breaking of the jam on sale of new bonds. Bond redemptions were unusually heavy. The situation was one that presented the dangerous situation in which many bonds were selling above their call prices.

The situation was not wholly a surprise. On March 17 Investors' Guide printed an article, "Bonds and the Call Price," pointing this out.

The stock market during 1935 also showed pronounced strength. Reviving business and the reduced returns on bond investments attracted substantial investment buying to the stock market.

This also was not an unexpected development. As far back as Aug. 20, 1933, Investors' Guide in "The Stockholder's Outlook," pointed out that the commodity price raising program then promised would probably boost stock prices. As recently as June 23, 1935, this trend was further pointed out in an article entitled "Investors Turn to Stocks."

Reduction of dividends on life insurance policy premiums, which were marked in the closing months of 1935, was a development that was apparent to any one who had watched the situation closely. On March 24, 1935, for instance, Investors' Guide said: ". . . The net rate earned on investments by the companies will continue to drop," and, "This means a higher premium from future policy holders."

TRADE ACTIVITY ABOVE NORMAL SEEN BY O'BRIEN

Head of Stock Exchange Reviews '35 Gains.

Michael J. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, yesterday expressed "every confidence that in 1936 business activity will continue to increase to a point above what is generally conceded to be normal."

Trading on the Chicago exchange expanded 22.6 per cent over 1934; the average price of representative issues increased 65 per cent during the year, and total dividend payments were 30 per cent higher than last year, O'Brien said.

"Paced by the automobile industry, business enterprise on every hand gives evidence of the courage and initiative that is essential in carrying the country out of the doldrums of the last few years," O'Brien said.

Dividends of 83 Millions.

Total 1934 dividend payments by Chicago listed corporations were $83,199,209 on 124 issues. The 1933 record was $66,775,414 on 108 issues. This year's dividends were distributed on 144 issues.

Ticker service expanded sharply from 67 to 108 units in eight cities. A year ago only two other cities were taking the service outside of Chicago. There are 36 tickers operating in connection with movie projector equipment, compared with 6 a year ago.

With yesterday's trade of 80,000 shares, volume for December was 1,502,000 shares for a total of 12,483,000 during 1935. This compared with 701,000 last December, and 10,178,000 for the year. The December daily average was 60,080, compared with 28,000, and the year's average was 40,836 shares daily, compared with 33,908 during 1934.

Trade Active in Late Month.

The heaviest trading month of 1934 was February, with 1,848,000 share turnover. This was exceeded in both October and November of 1935. Trading hit a low point in the first four months of 1935, but picked up sharply after midyear. The last five months accounted for 8,012,000 shares, or almost two-thirds of the year's volume, which meant about 63,000 shares per trading day.

Prices rose on a broad front in yesterday's year-end trading session, 66 issues advancing, 30 holding steady, and only 17 declining.

Six issues hit new and final 1935 highs, making 9 for the week so far. Chicago Yellow Cab continued its surge upward, as did Swift.

SEC AID IN DARK AS TO DEALERS ON PROBATION

Thomas A. Reynolds, regional administrator for the securities exchange commission, said last night that he did not know how many over-the-counter brokers and dealers may have been put on probation in the ten state area centered at Chicago.

The statement in Washington by SEC Chairman James Landis that one out of every ten of the 5,088 licensed dealers is on probation was news to him, said Reynolds. He said he had no idea as to how the commission arrived at a method of placing dealers on probation unless it would be in borderline cases or in ones which it had not had time to study before Jan. 1.

All principal over-the-counter dealers and brokers in Chicago are registered, Reynolds said. The only direct contact the local office has had with registrants is in answering questions and holding private hearings on about twenty applications. The latter were routine matters, Reynolds said, involving clarification of statements filed with the commission.

BANK CLEARINGS IN CHICAGO SET 4 YEAR RECORD

Bank clearings in Chicago during December and 1935 set a four year record, according to the Chicago Clearing House association.

The total for the month was $1,245,883,252, compared with $1,207,122,677 in November and $1,039,567,949 in December, last year. Total clearings for the year were $13,194,988,367, compared with $11,193,884,480 in 1934, $9,611,744,417 in 1933, $10,936,884,811 in 1932, and $19,201,221,287 in 1931.

Insurance Firm Meets Pay Roll with Ton of Silver

Bloomington, Ill., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Bloomington rang out the old year today with a ton of silver dollars. The cart wheels rolled in from the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago in one of the most unusual parcel post shipments ever made. The dollars represented the pay roll of the State Farm Life Insurance company, which paid nearly all its 1,000 employés in hard metal. Merchants made it a jubilee by issuing "trade certificates" that made every silver dollar worth $1.10.

TRADERS SING AS STOCKS END YEAR IN SPURT

Celebrate Advances Made in 1935.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 31.—The 1935 share market closed the year with a general advance today. After bidding up prices 1 to 4 points for the year-end record, floor brokers stopped active work around 2 o'clock and spent the final hour "celebrating" more or less decorously to such tunes as "Happy Days Are Here Again," "Pack Up Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," "Smile, Smile, Smile" and the like played alternately by a band in the big trading room and another in the gallery.

It was the first time in four years that the floor had played host to orchestra music furnished by members of the exchange as symbol of the more cheerful phase that their business has assumed during the dying year.

Close at Highs.

A fitting finale was provided for the party when the closing gong rang out against a board showing price levels around their highs for the day in all departments, with a volume approximately 60 per cent above that of Monday. There were 588 gains, 158 declines and 155 issues unchanged. The volume totaled 2,441,335.

Stock sales during December totaled 46,094,520 shares, compared with 57,459,775 in November and 23,588,612 in the same month a year ago.

Transactions in stocks in 1935 exceeded 1934, but were far under the total of 1933. The comparison follows: 1935—382,954,546 shares; 1934—325,771,747 shares; 1933 — 655,897,674 shares.

A little while before the start of the celebration the members were given an announcement that one broker, whose name will be withheld until the next meeting of the exchange board of governors, had been sufficiently hopeful over 1936 prospects to pay $145,000 for a membership seat, a new high for the year and $10,000 above the preceding sale price.

While the prices of seats on the exchange closed at the best levels of the year, the range was less favorable than in the past two years. The comparison:

1935	$145,000	$65,000
1934	$190,000	$70,000
1933	$250,000	$90,000

Aviation Issues Strong.

Aviation issues were prominent in the day's advance as they have been for the last week or so, but oils, electrical equipments, steels, building, and industrial specialties met with steady demand and pushed ahead briskly.

Traders were cheered by the action of the list in recent sessions, especially the market's unconcern over the foreign situation and the growing confidence of the rank and file. No section of the market indicated any technical weakness, even the silvers showing firmness in reflection of the price improvement in world markets.

Cash sales in stocks were much less numerous than yesterday, and the market gathered strength as a consequence, as evidently the desire to take profits was not overwhelming in any direction.

Oil Stocks Climb.

The oils came under the spell of bullish sentiment attributed to the prospect of an early general advance in crude prices. Almost all the petroleum shares reached new peaks on gains of from a fraction to over a point. Standard Oil [New Jersey] led with a 2 point rise to a new high price for the year. Buoyancy in the aviation group was especially marked in Douglas, Wright and Sperry, the first two being pushed up 5 points.

Prominent common stocks to advance were Bayuk, Case, Checker Cab, Cudahy, Libbey Owens Glass, Procter & Gamble, and U. S. Gypsum.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, France, Dec. 31.—The Bank of France today reduced its discount rate from 6 to 5 per cent. This, financial quarters believed, was the result of Premier Pierre Laval's diplomatic successes—his victory over parliamentary obstacles on his Italian-Ethiopian policy, semi-military leagues and his fight against devaluation.

Rate of advances on securities was lowered from 7 to 6 per cent, although the rate of advances on gold bars was left unchanged at 7 per cent and 30 day advances at 6 per cent, a precautionary measure against another flight of gold.

The bank has been anxious to lower the rate as soon as conditions waranted because the high interest rates for industrial and commercial loans which followed the earlier rise in the rate to halt the drain of gold a month ago, were a heavy burden.

Edison Looks for Sales Gain of 5% in 1936

James Simpson, chairman of the Commonwealth Edison company, said yesterday the company expects electricity sales next year will show an expansion of about 5 per cent over 1935. Such an increase can be handled with the present producing capacity, but the company has already made plans for expansion which will begin as soon as there is any evidence of a substantial increase in demand, he said.

JAMES SIMPSON. [Blank & Stoller Photo.]

"At the first reliable sign of approaching extraordinary demands, we are prepared," he asserted, "to go forward with already planned expansions that will meet any probable new requirements. The expansion planned could be completed within a year."

Electric Sales Up 4 Per Cent.

Final figures on 1935 electrical sales will show a gain of about 4 per cent over the preceding year, Simpson added. The anticipated 1936 gain, he said, will probably come about through an increase in sales to all classes of customers.

"We expect it to come from a wider distribution of electrical appliances among our residential customers; a considerable increased use of electricity for light by all classes of customers — residential, commercial and industrial; increased use of electricity by our industrial customers to keep pace with their expected increase in production; and from new uses that are on the horizon, such as air conditioning."

The lighting field, Simpson continued, is the field of the greatest immediate promise. Such improvement has been made in recent years in lighting methods and equipment that a whole new field of potential business has been opened up, he said.

Business Trend Vital Factor.

"Expansion in this direction," he added, "can be restricted by the inability of householders to make the necessary capital investments. Therefore, whether or not our hopes for improvement in this field are realized will depend almost entirely upon general economic conditions."

The most discouraging aspect of the business outlook is the growing tax bill, he said.

"In 1934, Commonwealth Edison paid in taxes and compensation to the city of Chicago 13.8 cents out of each dollar collected from the sale of electricity; this year we expect to pay various tax collectors 14.8 cents and next year 16.7 cents out of every dollar customers pay us. We sincerely hope that something will be done very soon about taxes."

A. A. Sprague Asks Right to Be Director of B. & O.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Albert A. Sprague, Chicago, today asked the interstate commerce commission for authority to serve as a director of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad in addition to a directorship he now holds with the Chicago and North-Western railway.

TRIBUNE TO PUBLISH ANNUAL BUSINESS REVIEW TOMORROW

A review of business and financial news for 1935, year end comments of leading business men and tabular summaries of transactions on the leading securities exchanges will be contained in the financial section of tomorrow's CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Security and commodity markets and banks throughout the United States are closed today in observance of New Year's day. These include the New York and Chicago Stock exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade. An exception will be the Chicago Live Stock exchange, which will remain open all day. Canadian and European markets and banks will also be closed today.

ELECTRIC OUTPUT FOR LAST WEEK SETS A RECORD

Electric production for the week ended Dec. 28 was the highest for any Christmas week in history, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. The total was 1,847,264,000 kilowatt hours, which was 11.9 per cent higher than the total of 1,650,467,000 for Christmas week last year. Production for Christmas week in 1929 was only 1,637,000,000 kilowatt hours.

The total last week compared with 2,002,005,000 in the previous week, which marked a record high in the history of the electric generating industry. Last week's recession was normal in view of the Christmas holiday, though the decline, amounting to 7.7 per cent, was less than seasonal.

Percentage increases in production for last week, as compared with production for the corresponding week last year in the major sections of the country, were: New England, 9.0; middle Atlantic, 9.8; central industrial, 13.6; west central, 12.6; southern states, 13.3; Rocky mountain, 20.5, and Pacific states, 14.1.

For fifty-two weeks ended Dec. 28 production of electricity was 8.3 per cent higher than the total for the corresponding preceding fifty-two weeks.

ARMOUR DENIES OWNING SHARES IN STOCKYARDS

R. H. Cabell, president of Armour & Co., yesterday denied charges made in a suit brought in the District of Columbia Supreme court that the packing company owns shares in public stockyards.

The charge was contained in a suit filed in the district court by Fred J. Leuckel of Trenton, N. J., a stockholder in Armour & Co. He asserted that the scope of the company's interests violates the consent decree of 1920 which settled anti-trust proceedings against the five big packing companies.

Leuckel said Armour & Co., its officers and directors are violating this provision by directly or indirectly owning large blocks of stock and controling certain stockyard market companies and stockyard terminal railroads. He asked that the company and its officers be required to divest themselves of such holdings.

Cabell said that neither the company nor any of the officers mentioned in the consent decree and connected with Armour had violated the agreement.

Two Utilities Call U. S. Acts High Handed

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Two public utilities today charged the government with a "high handed" attempt to force a test of the holding company act along government lines in disregard of the companies' legal rights.

North American company and American Waterworks and Electric company, in a rebuttal brief, urged the District of Columbia Supreme court to refuse the government's plea to stay all action in cases seeking to enjoin the act's enforcement.

The government has maintained that the constitutionality of the law may be argued in a case it has brought against Electric Bond and Share company, and that suits brought by seven concerns in the District of Columbia court should be stayed until the United States Supreme court can pass upon the law in the Electric Bond and Share controversy.

Another Step in Fight.

The brief was another step in the fight over how the holding company act is to be tested; whether, in essence, the suits chosen by the government or by the utilities shall be the medium.

The two companies said the government's position "stands out as an arbitrary and high handed attempt to deprive these plaintifs of their lawful rights." The brief alleges the government admits its suit was picked out as the one most favorable to the proponents of constitutionality.

Holds Up Activities.

The brief said the utilities were restrained from engaging in many activities, "because of the threat of their forced corporate dissolution after 1937 and because of the cloud of invalidity which would be cast upon all such transactions by this act and the threat of its enforcement at some future date by the defendants.

"This situation exists today and will continue to exist until the validity of this act as applied to these plaintifs is determined by the court."

The utilities maintain that the Bond and Share case will not settle the constitutional question because of differences in the setup of various holding companies.

Federal Tax Collector Disturbs New Year Cheer

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—(AP)—With the new year comes a somber note of warning from the federal tax collector. Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, announced today that income tax forms would be made available to taxpayers Jan. 2. He said the returns must be filed by midnight, March 16. March 16 was fixed because the usual deadline, March 15, falls on a Sunday.

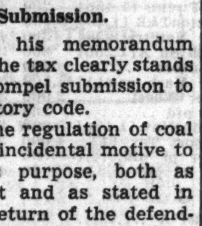
GUFFEY COAL ACT INVALID, COURT HOLDS

Coercion Feature Is Assailed.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 31. — (AP) — Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves ruled today the Guffey coal act was unconstitutional because, he said, a tax it imposed would coerce coal producing companies to submit to federal regulation.



JUDGE REEVES. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

The ruling was the first outright opinion holding the act unconstitutional, although, Judge Reeves said, several federal judges in granting injunctions to coal mining companies had expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the law.

Legality of the act was upheld in Kentucky. A case challenging its validity is now pending before the United States Supreme court.

Tax of Submission.

The judge, in his memorandum opinion, stated "the tax clearly stands as a penalty to compel submission to a national regulatory code.

"In this case the regulation of coal mining is not an incidental motive to the tax, but its purpose, both as stated in the act and as stated in the answer and return of the defendants, is to regulate. The only apparent purpose of the tax is to coerce the plaintif to submit to regulation."

Enacted at the last session of congress, the act would tax coal producers 15 per cent of the value of their mined coal, but the government would agree to rebate 90 per cent to companies signing a compliance agreement to submit to regulations similar to those of the National Industrial Recovery act.

Judge Reeves said the tax imposed "is so burdensome and onerous as to destroy the business" of the petitioning coal companies and that while it was within the power of congress to destroy by imposing a destructive tax, "yet, in this instance the act provides for a 'drawback' of 90 per cent of the tax if the producer will accept and subject himself to the regulatory provision of a code."

"This code is not designed to facilitate the collection of the tax, but the regulatory provisions of the code are separate and apart and independent of the tax."

Illinois Firms Attack Law.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 31.—(AP)—Three central Illinois coal companies today filed an injunction suit in federal District court to restrain the government from collecting the tax imposed by the Guffey coal control act.

The suit, first of its kind to be filed in this district, named the Greenview Mining company of Greenview, the Johnson Valley Coal company of the northeast part of Menard county, and the Indian Creek Coal company as the plaintifs.

It also asked for a declaratory judgment, holding that the tax is a penalty which congress has no power to impose and that it is "illegal, unconstitutional, and invalid."

A hearing on the suit was set for Jan. 10.

U. S.-Mexican Silver Parley Is Cloaked in Mystery

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Where Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Eduardo Suarez, secretary of the Mexican treasury, got today at their conference on the silver question, if anywhere, was cloaked in secrecy tonight.

Reports were current that Mexico is bargaining for a higher price for her silver purchased by the United States, while treasury officials here will ask an exchange, possibly a reduction in the tarifs on various goods.

Neither Morgenthau nor Suarez would discuss the question following their confab today. However, Morgenthau announced that he would give a dinner at his Washington home tomorrow night and the list of guests revealed that silver will undoubtedly be the principal subject for conversation.

List of Guests.

The guest list included:

United States Senators William H. King of Utah, Charles L. McNary of Oregon, William E. Borah of Idaho, Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma, and Senator Key Pittman of Nevada.

Others invited were Josephus Daniels, ambassador to Mexico; Robert Fleming, president of the American Bankers' association, and officials of the state and treasury departments.

Mexico has sold 77,750,000 ounces of silver to the United States this year, receiving for it an average price of 64.57 cents an ounce. If the United States treasury permits the world silver price to stay at the present level of 49¾ cents, Mexico will be forced to face a 22 per cent depreciation in one of her principal exports in the future.

Under the silver purchase act the treasury has been acquiring all newly mined silver in Mexico. During the first 11 months of this year Mexico has exported silver bullion and ore to this country valued at $46,095,466.

PRICE RISES IN LONDON.

A further moderate recovery took place in silver prices yesterday in the London market. A price of 22½ pence, equivalent to 49.97 cents an ounce, was posted in London, an advance of .99 of cent over the preceding day's quotation. The upturn in London was ignored by Handy & Harmon, New York bullion brokers, who made no change in the previously posted price of 49¾ cents an ounce. The advance in London occurred several hours prior to the posting of the New York price.

Silver futures prices in the Montreal market were steady. Closing quotations were 30-100 to 50-100 of a cent higher. The final price on the January future was 50.30 cents an ounce.

END OF YEAR OUTLAWS GOLD DOLLAR SUITS

8 Billions in Bonds Affected.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—[Special.]—Just before the deadline [at midnight tonight] for filing lawsuits to compel payment of government obligations in gold or $1.69 for each dollar, litigants rushed to the courts today with cases whose outcome may affect more than $8,000,000,000 in outstanding government securities.

Through a joint resolution adopted at the last session of congress the government gave holders of gold clause securities until Jan. 1, 1936, to sue for the full gold value, outlawing suits attempted after that limit. President Roosevelt signed the joint resolution Aug. 27.

Foremost among the lawsuits entered today were thirteen filed with the Court of Claims by Swiss holders of American obligations who protested the constitutionality of the gold reserve act of 1934 and President Roosevelt's subsequent proclamation reducing the gold content of the dollar. Typical of these cases, all filed by Waldron Kintzing Post, New York attorney, was that of Fritz Muller, who demanded for his liberty bond $500 in former gold coin or $846 in present equivalent.

First Foreign Attacks.

It was said that these suits were the first attack on the government's gold laws made by foreign interests. The thirteen obligations involved totaled $110,000 and were all liberty bonds except one treasury note.

Otis Beall Kemp, Washington attorney, presented $100,000 in government gold bonds to the treasury, demanded payment in gold or present equivalent, was refused, and filed his suit, just before the Court of Claims closed its doors.

HARDWARE GAIN REPORTED AS '35 COMES TO CLOSE

Iron and Steel Outlook Continues Good.

A bright outlook for the hardware trade and evidences of continuing improvement in the iron and steel industry were reported yesterday by two trade journals.

"The year-end in hardware has been a period of pleasing contrast with even the favorable records set at the end of 1934," said Hardware Age. "A year ago conditions had started to look up—now the upswing of the betterment seems so much more securely established that repetition of this fact is becoming monotonous.

"Better times have now held on for so many months—have been so emphasized since the shackles of NRA were removed—that optimism has again become our national habit."

Steel Output Lower.

The magazine Iron Age pointed out that holiday influences are still dominant in the iron and steel industry, with raw steel output 1 point lower at 47½ per cent, but that finished steel operations have improved, prices are strong, railroad buying and structural awards have continued to expand, and that heavy demand from the automobile industry and machine tool makers will meet the new year.

Increases in finishing mill operations have been most marked in tin plate and sheets, the output of which has rebounded 20 points to 60 per cent and 65 per cent, respectively. Strip mill operations are estimated at 50 per cent.

Materials Costs Rise.

Prices of primary materials are strong, with spot furnace coke at Connellsville advancing 15 cents a ton at the ovens. In New England, No. 1 heavy melting scrap for export rose to $10 a ton. Number one heavy melting scrap has been advanced 25 cents a ton to $14.75 a ton in the Pittsburgh district. This is the highest level since October, 1930.

Operating changes last week included gains of 3 points to 59 per cent in the valleys and 1 point to 34 per cent in the Philadelphia district, but Chicago mills dropped 6½ points to 47 per cent, Cleveland-Lorain, 5 points to 52 per cent, and Buffalo, 5 points to 40 per cent.

AMERICA OUT OF DEPRESSION, JONES ASSERTS

Los Angeles, Dec. 31.—(AP)—Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, said today "America is out of the depression right now." "It is really a thing of the past. We have just the aftermath of the depression to clean up," he added.

Jones, Houston, Tex., financier, arrived in his private railroad car to see tomorrow's football game between Stanford and Southern Methodist in the Rose Bowl.

"We are behind in construction work in America, and I believe that building will be the big leader in 1936," he declared. "There has been no great amount of private building for five years. The demand is tremendous and I believe that new building will be seen in all lines from homes to business and industrial projects."

Jones said the large sums of money on deposit in banks on which low interest is being paid affords an opportunity for the banks to lend money to business at low rates. Interest rates are now too high, and must come down, he said.

END OF YEAR OUTLAWS GOLD DOLLAR SUITS

More than 8 Billions in Bonds Affected.

Supreme court that the treasury had declined to pay more than the face value of six $1,000 fourth liberty loan gold bonds, John Ogden of Indianapolis, asked for a mandate to force payment in gold or the present equivalent. The bonds beyong to the estate of Mr. Ogden's father.

Appealing to the Supreme court from the New York State Court of Appeals, the Compania de Inversiones Internacionales, a Colombian corporation, filed a petition against the Industrial Mortgage Bank of Finland, suing to recover $5,308 on bonds which, with accrued interest, had a face value of $3,135. The Colombian concern argued that the joint resolution of June 5, 1933, did not apply to international transactions.

25 Actions Impending.

These assaults upon the administration's gold program are now added to between twenty to twenty-five actions pending in the Court of Claims, where two cases have attracted special interest. In one of these, Robert A. Taft, son of the former president, sues to force compliance with the gold clause of a liberty bond. In another, John M. Perry, central figure of the Supreme court's gold decisions last February, has submitted a case to try to counteract the court's finding that he suffered no actual damage.

The treasury today loosened up on its regulations under the gold reserve act of 1934, removing restrictions on dealings in gold for industrial, professional, or artistic purposes. The general result will be that the treasury will not have to track down numerous minor dealings in the metal for possible violations.

Liberalize Rules.

The changes, which become effective tomorrow, follow:

1. Unmelted scrap gold may be acquired, held and disposed of in amounts not exceeding 35 troy ounces of fine gold without the necessity of holding a federal gold license.

2. Small manufacturers, jewelers, dentists, and others engaged in the use of gold in minor amounts may acquire 35 ounces of gold instead of 25, as formerly, without a license, deal in unmelted scrap gold, and dispose of gold filings, clippings, pieces, and the like.

3. Gold articles may be exported from the United States without the necessity, as formerly, of filing an affidavit if not more than 80 per cent of the total value of the article is attributable to the gold content thereof.

LACK OF CAPITAL HALTS OPERATION OF HUPP MOTOR

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 31.—(AP)—The Hupp Motor Car corporation, one of the oldest in the industry, has suspended production, officials said today, because of inadequate working capital.

"It is a question of obtaining between $500,000 and $1,000,000 in capital to carry on, but the company will carry on," said Alex J. Groesbeck, attorney for the corporation. He said applications had been filed for a federal reserve bank loan and for permission to sell stock.

Groesbeck became a member of the Hupp board of directors during the prolonged fight in federal court here which ended with an order by Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle voiding Hupp contracts held by Archie M. Andrews, who had been chairman of the Hupp board. The court upheld the new board of directors, legality of which Andrews had attacked.

Groesbeck expressed confidence today that there would be no considerable delay in resuming production of the company's 1936 models.

Food Index Rises 2 Cents; Equals Peak of 5½ Years

The Dun & Bradstreet weekly food index advanced 2 cents to $2.79 for the period ended December 31, to equal the 5½ year peak recorded a few weeks ago. The latest figure compares with $2.58 for the corresponding week of last year.

SHARP RALLY IN COTTON OCCURS IN LATE TRADING

Trading in cotton yesterday was of a pre-holiday character, the greater part of activity in the market coming in the last few minutes of trading.

Purchases of January deliveries toward the last disclosed a lack of offerings and prices advanced sharply, closing as much as 17 points or 85 cents per bale higher. Other months were unsettled, ranging from 12 points higher to 8 points lower with the July and October deliveries leading the decline.

Spot cotton was unchanged to 15 points higher with New Orleans at 11.80 cents, Houston 11.70 cents, and New York 12.10 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

WHEAT ADVANCES ON A STRONGER CASH POSITION

Volume of Trading Here Expands Slightly.

Increasing strength in the world cash wheat situation dominated speculative action in leading markets yesterday. While there was some irregularity toward the close on the Chicago Board of Trade, due to year-end evening up, moderate net gains were recorded.

A marked expansion occurred in outside interest in wheat here and buying orders for small amounts came into the pit persistently. Bullish enthusiasm was accentuated by further purchases by millers. At the top May wheat was 1 cent above Monday's close at $1.01¾, the highest price since Oct. 18. Liverpool gained more than a cent, with all deliveries selling at new highs for the season.

Hilarity Halts Trading.

Trading in the pits was brought to a complete standstill for more than an hour while traders began their celebration of the New Year. Brokers deserted the pits and pelted each other with sacks of sample grain. Board markers were driven from their posts under the barrage.

The general hilarity started shortly before noon and continued for an hour. One practical joker dropped a stench bomb in the wheat pit as a means of chasing out all traders who were trying to continue business.

Scarcity of desirable milling grades of cash wheat in domestic markets is becoming apparent. Expectations of a larger demand for flour as soon as the Supreme court hands down a decision on the constitutionality of the processing tax has resulted in a stronger tone on country run grain. No. 2 hard winter in Chicago sold yesterday at 16 cents over the May future.

Canada Sells Huge Quantity.

The Canadian wheat board sold 43,000,000 bushels of wheat for export during the first two weeks of its existence, according to Winnipeg advices, including 23,000,000 bushels the day following the announcement Argentina had pegged the price of this season's crop at 90 cents per bushel at Buenos Aires.

The rapid readjustment which has taken place in the price of wheat in leading world markets recently is shown by the advance of 13½ cents in Liverpool in the last six weeks. During the same period Winnipeg is up 2⅝ cents and Chicago around 7 cents.

	Yesterday.	Monday.	Week ago.
Wheat	$1.01⅝	$1.00⅝	$ .99⅛
Corn	.61	.60½	.59⅝
Oats	.28⅝	.28¼	.28
Rye	.55	.54⅝	.52½

Corn futures moved somewhat higher in sympathy with wheat. Trade in oats and rye was light.

SLOAN EXPECTS ADVANCE OF '35 TO BE CONTINUED

A. P. SLOAN JR.

If natural forces of recovery are allowed to assert themselves sufficiently panaceas will attract less support, said Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president of General Motors corporation, in a year-end statement. At the same time, he urged business and industry not to shirk their responsibilities in cleaning up depression débris.

"As we look into 1936, while recognizing our limited horizon of observation, I see no reason to believe other than that this improvement can be sustained. As a matter of fact, I believe that it is perfectly possible to accelerate the progress of 1935 and to broaden it into a sound forward movement extending all along the line of constructive endeavor. The fundamental factors bear evidence of such a possibility.

Must Appraise Political Action.

"But, to deal with the probabilities is quite a different matter. Here we must attempt to appraise the effect of political action, as it may accelerate or decelerate the normal processes of recovery.

"After the so-called 'breathing spell'—what? Is constructive enterprise to be further penalized? To what extent will there be imposed a lowered ceiling upon our future opportunities?

"To appraise these influences is difficult. I believe timing to be an important factor. If the 'breathing spell' is sufficiently extended to permit the natural forces of recuperation to gain sufficient strength there will surely be less support for new panaceas and further uneconomic action. After all, these are nothing more nor less than natural and logical reactions of a period of acute and prolonged depression.

Expects 1936 to Be Better.

"The year 1936 ought to be better than 1935. All things considered, I believe it will be somewhat better.

"Each year, as it passes, adds just that much more to man's storehouse of knowledge and experience. Thus we progress. The year 1935 is no exception to the rule.

"From an economic standpoint a most interesting lesson may be learned—one to remember. And it is that, irrespective of the wisdom with which we may manage our affairs, the reaction from an excessive deflation tending to bring about economic recovery is just as irresistible as the influence of an excessive inflation tending to cause economic reaction."

RECESSION IN HOG PRICES INFLUENCES LARD TRADE

Lard futures were somewhat firmer yesterday during the early trading in sympathy with grains and stocks. Later, however, the further recession in hog prices brought in scattered comission house selling and hedging pressure, and a decline followed.

A good part of the day's business was in selling January lard against purchases of May which tended to hold up the latter. Closing trades were at unchanged to 20 cents lower, with December leading.

Cash lard closed at $11.55, the lowest price since Dec. 21, 1934. Loose lard closed at $11.00, leaf at $11.25, and clear bellies at $11.47 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:
